

VOTERS TO DECIDE ISSUES TUESDAY

AMERICAN CONSULS DROWN

THREE PERISH IN ATTEMPT TO RESCUE WOMAN

Two Men And Woman
Victims Of Undertow
Of Matanzas Bay

HAVANA, Nov. 3.—A gallant rescue attempt in an unusual accident today resulted in the deaths of two United States diplomats and the wife of one of them, who lost their lives in the storm-tossed waters of Matanzas Bay.

The victims were John Tillotson Wainwright, prominent clubman of New York, Philadelphia and Washington and United States consul at Matanzas, and Mr. and Mrs. William R. Jackson of Madison, Illinois. Jackson was American consul at Havana.

The victims were members of a party which had gone to Matanzas Bay on a pleasure trip. They were standing on the edge of a cliff overlooking the bay when a sudden strong gust of wind threw Mrs. Jackson off her balance.

She fell into the sea, and in an instant her husband had jumped in after her. Seeing the couple struggling against heavy seas whipped up by a sudden squall, Wainwright plunged in after them.

Sydney Gest, a vice-consul attached to the Havana Consulate, who was also among the party, followed Wainwright. All were caught in a strong undertow, but Gest's wife, who was watching the gallant but ill-fated attempt from the cliff, obtained a long pole which she held down to the water's edge.

Gest, less spent than the others, managed to seize the pole and was hauled to safety. The others, however, were swept out by the undertow and lost to sight.

An immediate search was started for the bodies, which had not been recovered up to a late hour this morning.

First reports reaching the United States Embassy here said the three lost their lives when a small boat capsized, but later information divulged the unusual cause of the tragedy.

COUNTRY CLUB FOR ELKS RAZED BY FIRE

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—Fire of unknown origin which started last night in the clubhouse of the Elks' Country Club on the northern outskirts of Columbus, was still burning today although it was under the control of several companies of city firemen.

Damage was estimated this morning at more than $125,000. The flames fanned by a strong wind, were prevented by firemen from spreading to nearby trees and buildings.

The first fire company that answered the alarm did not have sufficient hose to reach from the nearest hydrant and the fire fighters were helpless until a second alarm was answered by four more companies.

The blaze was discovered by Ernest Timberlake, caretaker, who said he was unable to determine the cause of the conflagration. It was believed to have started in the basement.

STORMS POSTPONE FLIGHT OF DO-X

ALTENREIN, Switzerland, Nov. 3.—Severe storms raging over the north of Europe today caused a second postponement of the start of the giant flying boat DO-X on its projected flight to the United States.

Hope had been held out until the last moment that the giant ship would be able to start, but highly unfavorable weather conditions made further postponement necessary.

The DO-X had been all ready for the long-awaited take-off yesterday but last minute advices telling of stormy weather over England and Holland forced a postponement. Commander Friedrich Christiansen ordered his crew to report early this morning in the hope the weather might have cleared.

DIES OF EXPOSURE

DOVER, O., Nov. 3.—Exposure caused the death of Otto Pfeiffer, whose body was found in a field near his home in Ruslin Hills, Coroner J. F. Lewis announced today. Andrew Fauser, member of a searching party, came upon Pfeiffer's body at a spot five miles north of here. He had been missing since last Monday.

Ancient Abyssinian City Celebrates Coronation Of Emperor Of Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Nov. 3.—The ancient city of Addis Ababa, strange cauldron of the east and west, gave itself over today to seven days of feasting in celebration of the coronation of Haile Selassie, king of kings, conquering lion of the tribe of Judah and elect of God, who was crowned emperor of Ethiopia at dawn yesterday.

Natives and distinguished visitors alike participated in the honored ceremonies accompanying the coronation of a monarch of this Christian African kingdom.

Following a day replete with receptions, prayers, parades and colorful ceremonies, Emperor Haile Selassie entertained his visitors in the Menelik Palace with a sumptuous banquet, at which exotic viands of the east and the more familiar viands of the west were set before his guests.

The banquet was served by the emperor's personal staff of gigantic Abyssinian waiters and footmen, and eaten off solid gold plate with hand-carved ivory table ware. While the palace banquet was in progress, 25,000 tribesmen from the hinterlands of Ethiopia gathered in the open air and partook of the emperor's bounty. Five thousand cattle were slaughtered for the feast.

With the coming of sunset, Emperor Haile Selassie fell on his knees in front of the royal palace and gave his thanks to God for the most glorious day in his colorful life. His tribal chieftains joined in the prayer.

SEIZE CAPONE AIDE

Frank Nitti, above, known variously as the chief lieutenant of Al Capone, Chicago underworld king, and as the real power of the "gang of which Capone is but a figurehead," is snapped as he was placed under arrest at Chicago by agents of the internal revenue department. Nitti's arrest is said to be the most significant move since the opening of Chicago's concerted drive on gang rule in the city.

EFFORTS TO ASSIST UNEMPLOYED GROW IN EFFECTIVENESS

Democrat Senator Criticizes Failure Of Relief Bills

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Efforts of the emergency employment committee by the President, appeared to be gaining momentum today, while on the eve of election the government's employment drive was being attacked and defended. Senator George (D) of Ga., criticized the administration for its failure to support the Wagner unemployment relief bills in the house last session after the senate had passed them. Through the Republican national committee, Rep. Wood (R) of Ind., was quick to come to the defense of the administration. Democratic charges were false and that they were another attempt to misrepresent the president.

The administration, he said, "began to move a year ago in easing the shock of the stock market crash and in relieving unemployment."

Colonel Arthur Woods, chairman of the President's emergency committee, pointed to the plan to relieve unemployment instituted by the city of Cincinnati nearly eighteen months ago, as one that should be followed by other municipalities. He made public a plan of the Dupont Corporation of Wilmington, Del., as another example of industry's co-operation in the government's efforts to relieve the situation.

SIX DROWN AS VESSEL SINKS

BREMEN, Nov. 3.—The captain and five of the crew of the 118-ton steamer Lankeog were drowned today when the ship sank after being rammed by the German steamer Wahehe off the Dutch coast.

Six others of the crew were rescued. The Lankeog, only eighty-one feet long, sank almost immediately after being struck by the large freighter, which has a tonnage of 4690.

Both ships were registered from Hamburg, according to Lloyd's register.

CONVICT KILLS SELF AFTER PRISON BREAK RESULTS IN FAILURE

Hold-Up Man, Wounded
By Guards, Choses
Own "Way Out"

OSISING, N. Y., Nov. 3.—With guards on the alert to prevent further attempts to escape Sing Sing prison, an autopsy today revealed that suicide brought death to Harry Gordon, New York hold-up man, who attempted a break for liberty with three others Saturday night. Medical examiners said after Gordon had been wounded by guards, he put a final bullet through his brain, pressing the pistol against his temple.

All of the 2230 convicts were carefully searched for weapons today. Warden Lawes said he believed the revolver used by Gordon and his companions in their break had been recently smuggled to them because of the fact a gun made of wood and painted black was found in one of their cells. If they had received the guns some time ago, he said, they would not have taken the trouble to carve a wooden weapon.

Keeper Howard Marquard, who was wounded by Gordon, is recovering. Edward Ryan, William Lapierre and Herbert Davis, who was slightly wounded by guards' fire, were placed in solitary confinement and will be tried on new charges.

Morris Gordon, father of the dead convict, came to Sing Sing on Sunday to see his son, not knowing he had been killed.

MARKETS CLOSED

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—All leading security and commodity exchange day. The New York stock exchange, the New York curb market, the New York produce market, the Chicago board of trade, the New York cotton exchange, and the New Orleans cotton exchange are some of the markets that have signified their intention to be closed.

Banks and business institutions generally will also be closed, but a large part of the retail stores will be open for business tomorrow.

FIRE CHIEF DIES

AKRON, O., Nov. 3.—John T. Mertz, 66, chief of the Akron fire department since 1901, was dead here today, following an illness of several weeks and a recent operation.

GAINS FORTUNE

After years of skimping and saving, with just enough money to get along, Clem Thomas, 59, of Cincinnati, O., has found the pot of gold, at the end of the rainbow. His ticket on Lovelace, in a Canadian sweepstakes, won approximately $20,000. Thomas' weekly earnings as a filer of aluminum pistons were about $20, on which he supported a wife and six children.

LINER AGROUND OFF STATEN ISLAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The passenger and freight liner "Colombia," of the Grace line went hard aground today off Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, but was in no danger the coast guard reported. A coast guard patrol boat stood by, but it was believed the ship would be pulled off by commercial tugs.

TYPHOON SWEEPS FOUR ISLANDS

MANILA, Nov. 3.—Fragmentary reports reaching here today indicated a typhoon struck the Visayan Sea yesterday and inflicted damage on the islands of Negros, Iloilo, Leyte and Cebu, lying several hundred miles to the southeast of Manila.

Details of the reported typhoon were lacking.

CHANGE IN CONTROL OF CONGRESS FIRST HOPE OF DEMOCRATS

Concentrate On House;
Presidential Timber
Under Fire

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The oratorical big winds that have swept the country in recent weeks died down to a gentle breeze today as leaders of all political parties went about the practical business of getting out the vote in tomorrow's highly significant national election.

The charges have all been made, likewise the claims, the issues have been presented, defended and denied, and today was what has come to be known as "mopping up day"—the day upon which the captains and the lieutenants gather up the loose ends of organization detail.

Forty-seven of the forty-eight states hold elections tomorrow, Maine having conducted her last September. Involved in these contests are 431 seats in the seventy-second congress, thirty-four senators, thirty-one governors of states, and thousands of state and municipal offices.

In all the multitude of claims advanced by partisan sources, a few facts stood out today clear and unchallenged:

1. The Democrats are going to substantially increase their representation in both houses of congress—perhaps to the point of gaining actual control of the house of representatives.

2. Prohibition and the business depression, which has been accompanied by widespread unemployment, constitute the principal factors of the contest.

3. The anti-prohibition strength in the congress elected tomorrow will be greatly increased, although there is scant prospect of the wetts gaining a majority.

4. The outcome tomorrow is certain to play an important part in the congressional campaign, although for presidential candidacies and issues are involved to a degree unusual in off-year elections.

5. The enormous independent vote of the country, always dreaded by party leaders, will be the deciding factor in some of the most important contests, for party bolting has never been so pronounced in an off-year. Both parties have their bolters.

The Democrats are convinced they are going to win the house, and a considerable number of non-partisan observers are inclined to agree with them. More conservative estimates, however, place the Democratic gains at just short of actual control.

To win the house the Democrats have to unseat fifty-four incumbent Republicans. It would be a major, if not an unprecedented, turnover in an off-year.

But the Democrats have concentrated on the house and they are more confident than they have been in years. The fates have

(Continued On Page Eight)

NOTORIOUS BANDIT SOUGHT FOR MURDER

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 3.—The whereabouts of George C. Skidmore, 26-year-old notorious bandit, who is wanted for the murder of a crippled gasoline station attendant at Mt. Washington, Pa., last September, was still a mystery today after another clue concerning the youth had failed.

Police believed that Howard Lauderbach, victim of an automobile collision near here last week, was Skidmore. An investigation showed, however, that the man really was Lauderbach. Authorities were told by another man who figured in the accident that one of the injured men was Skidmore. He identified the young bandit's pictures, but a police probe showed the man was not Skidmore.

AS CHICAGO'S MAYOR WAS STRICKEN

Mayor William Hale Thompson, of Chicago, is seen here just before being wheeled into the operating room of a Chicago hospital for an operation for appendicitis with which he was stricken as he was about to deliver a political speech in a Loop theater. Although attending doctors feared peritonitis, the famous mayor was given a fighting chance for his life.

MRS. LEVAN TO ATTEND MONDAY G. O. P. RALLY

Greene County Republicans will bring their campaign to a close Monday night at the Opera House with an election eve rally at 8 o'clock at which United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, Yellow Springs, Republican national committee chairman, and Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, will be the principal speakers. Large delegations are expected to attend from all parts of the county in order to hear the two distinguished orators summarize the issues of the present campaign.

Local Republican leaders also announce the speaking program will be augmented by two nationally known women Republican workers.

Mrs. Wilma Sinclair LeVan, Steubenville, O., the national Republican committee woman from Ohio, will accompany Senator Fess to Xenia to give a talk, and Miss Hallie Q. Brown, Wilberforce, will also address the gathering.

AVERAGE BUSINESS IN STEEL INDUSTRY NOVEMBER PROMISE

Blast Furnaces Will Increase In Month Is Prediction

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 3.—Average operating schedules for the midwest steel industry were predicted here today by steel leaders for the month of November.

A majority of the midwest steel concerns, including the Empire Steel Corporation, which has its headquarters in Mansfield, and the Republic Steel Corporation enter the present week with reduced schedules. Intermittent operations are scheduled for the month.

Operations at the Falcon plant of the Empire Steel Corporation, at Niles, Trumbull County, have been suspended following several months of periodic production.

An increase in the number of blast furnaces in operation was forecast for the month. Stocks at the Sharon Steel Hoop Co. at Lowellville, and the Cliffs Corporation blast furnaces are expected to be put in operation. The Merchant stack at the Sharpsville Furnace Co. is scheduled to be blown in this week.

TREASURY BALANCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Treasury statement as of October 31: Treasury balance, $203,056,866. Expenditures, $8,200,360.70. Customs receipts, $39,319,257.33.

OIL GUSHER IS UNDER CONTROL

Well Capped; Oily River Catches Fire

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 3.—After pouring tons of crude oil and gases over the city for three days, the oil gusher at Stout well number 1 today was under control and the fire hazard virtually passed.

Oil flowing from the rampart well into North Canadian river and collecting seven miles northeast of here caught fire Sunday afternoon and was still burning on the stream's surface today. Firemen sent to the scene said the supply was diminishing, however.

It was believed the blaze would burn itself out within a few hours. The stream's current bore the flaming fuel further away from the well, minimizing the fire danger.

Engineers succeeded in capping the well's flow at 4 p. m. yesterday when a forty-five foot nipple was hoisted aloft and anchored into place and its valves closed, shutting off the geyser-like flow.

An extensive area about the Stout well was saturated with crude oil and damage claims have already appeared. Fire fighters were still maintaining a close watch over the territory.

TWO MORE GANG DEATHS PROBED

Bodies Of Hoodlums Found In Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Two more gang killings challenged authorities today as they sought a motive for the slaying of two hoodlums whose bodies were found in a west side beer flat.

The murdered men were: Frank Smurlo, ex-convict and known gambler, and William "Smooth" Sierza, owner of the flat and known to police as a pioneer hoochier in the Chicago area.

After investigating the double murder authorities leaned toward the theory that a new gang of alcohol dealers had invaded Sierza's territory and sought this means of removing competition.

Each man had been shot several times. Smurlo was shot by men who followed him to the flat, the positions of the bodies indicated. The bodies were not discovered until four hours after the killings. A red blotch of blood appearing on the ceiling below led to the discovery.

PUBLIC SALES
Nov. 5—E. M. Ellis.

STATE CANDIDATES FINISH CAMPAIGNS AS ELECTION NEARS

Prohibition And "Hard Times" Are Ohio Questions

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—Two issues—"hard times" and prohibition—starred the voters of Ohio in the face today as they prepared to go to the polls tomorrow and decide by majority agreement the fates of their national and state administrations.

Last-minute appeals, warnings and instructions were being flung out the length and breadth of the state in frenzied hurriedness today and tonight by the opposing candidates for state, senatorial and congressional offices.

Flaunting the banner of "hard times" in the face of his Republican opponent, Myers Y. Cooper, governor incumbent of Ohio, Geo. White of Marietta, the Democratic candidate for the post, has already rounded out his campaign and has rested his case in the hands of the some 1,700,000 or 1,800,000 voters who are expected to go to the polls tomorrow.

Governor Cooper, whose plea to the electorate has been "don't change boats in mid-stream," likewise has virtually completed his campaign. He toured Hardin County today, however, accompanied by United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee, just as a matter of "keeping the home fires burning" and in the hopes of swaying votes that may be "on the fence."

Governor Cooper's final plea will be made tonight over a radio hookup of station WLW and WAU.

The prohibition issue of the state is centered in the highly significant contest between former Congressman Robert J. Bulkley, Democrat, and United States Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, Republican nominee to succeed himself, for the senatorial toga.

Bulkley, a "dripping wet," rounds out his campaign today and tonight with three speeches in his home city—Cleveland. His Republican opponent made his last appeal to the voters Saturday night at Painesville.

While the candidates themselves have eased down in their ardent appeals to the state's electorate, their banners were being carried among the voting populace by their energetic cohorts, including John W. Bricker, member of the state utilities commission speaking at Ashland, and the Rev. S. R. Wilson speaking at Coshocton in behalf of the Republican candidates and former Congressman John M. Sweeney of Wooster, and the Rev. E. R. Cochran of Mt. Vernon, speaking at Ashland for the Democrats.

G. O. P. campaign officials today maintained their confident prediction of a "sweeping victory by a substantial majority."

Optimistic Democrats, however, prognosticated "a landslide for White and Bulkley," and in addition "an excellent chance of gaining nine congressmen."

Among the minor state offices, the question of victory seems more evenly drawn. Although campaign managers of both sides maintain their claims of "straight party" victories, they are somewhat prone to pass over definite predictions.

Some political experts, with G. O. P. leanings, believe that the Republican incumbents have the edge. The Democratic candidates, especially William G. Pickrel of Dayton, nominee for lieutenant governor, have waged most effective campaigns, however.

The pulpit of Ohio churches yesterday were virtually turned into "political forums," as some of the more partisan pastors delivered harangues upon the prohibition issue of the campaign. The effect of "political Sunday," however, was believed to have made but only a minor dent in the minds of the voters who for the most part have already made their decisions one way or another.

In addition to federal, state, county, legislative and judicial elections tomorrow, Ohio's electorate will also adopt or reject a proposed amendment to permit counties and school districts to share in the distribution of the state income and inheritance taxes. They also will pass on numerous local pleas for bond and tax issues.

THREE KILLED WHEN AUTO, CAR, COLLIDE

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 3.—A collision between an automobile and a street car here late Sunday caused the death today of three men.

William M. Parson, 25, of Huntington, who was riding in the rumble seat of the auto, was thrown beneath the wheels of an Ohio Valley Electric Company car and was killed instantly.

Raymond Terry, 32, of Huntington, and Roy Kiser, 25, of Logan, W. Va., died in a hospital a few hours later.

VOTERS TO DECIDE ISSUES TUESDAY

AMERICAN CONSULS DROWN

THREE PERISH IN ATTEMPT TO RESCUE WOMAN

Two Men And Woman
Victims Of Undertow
Of Matanza Bay

HAVANA, Nov. 3.—A gallant rescue attempt in an unusual accident today resulted in the deaths of two United States diplomats and the wife of one of them, who lost their lives in the storm-tossed waters of Matanzas Bay.

The victims were John Tiltonson Wainwright, prominent clubman of New York, Philadelphia and Washington and United States consul at Matanzas, and Mr. and Mrs. William R. Jackson of Madison, Illinois. Jackson was American consul at Havana.

The victims were members of a party which had gone to Matanzas Bay on a pleasure trip. They were standing on the edge of a cliff overlooking the bay when a sudden strong gust of wind threw Mrs. Jackson off her balance.

She fell into the sea, and in an instant her husband had jumped in after her. Seeing the couple struggling against heavy seas whipped up by a sudden squall, Wainwright plunged in after them.

Sydney Gest, a vice-consul attached to the Havana Consulate, who was also among the party, followed Wainwright. All were caught in a strong undertow, but Gest's wife, who was watching the gallant but ill-fated attempt from the cliff, obtained a long pole which she held down to the water's edge.

Gest, less spent than the others, managed to seize the pole and was hauled to safety. The others, however, were swept out by the undertow and lost to sight.

An immediate search was started for the bodies, which had not been recovered up to a late hour this morning.

First reports reaching the United States Embassy here said the three lost their lives when a small boat capsized, but later information divulged the unusual cause of the tragedy.

COUNTRY CLUB FOR ELKS RAZED BY FIRE

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—Fire of unknown origin which started last night in the clubhouse of the Elks' Country Club, on the northern outskirts of Columbus, was still burning today although it was under the control of several companies of city firemen.

Damage was estimated this morning at more than $125,000. The flames fanned by a strong wind, were prevented by firemen from spreading to nearby trees and buildings.

The first fire company that answered the alarm did not have sufficient hose to reach from the nearest hydrant and the fire fighters were helpless until a second alarm was answered by four more companies.

The blaze was discovered by Ernest Timberlake, caretaker, who said he was unable to determine the cause of the conflagration. It was believed to have started in the basement.

STORMS POSTPONE FLIGHT OF DO-X

ALTENREIN, Switzerland, Nov. 3.—Severe storms raging over the north of Europe today caused a second postponement of the start of the giant flying boat DO-X on its projected flight to the United States.

Hope had been held out until the last moment that the giant ship would be able to start, but highly unfavorable weather conditions made further postponement necessary.

The DO-X had been all ready for the long-awaited take-off yesterday but last minute advice telling of stormy weather over England and Holland forced a postponement. Commander Friedrich Christiansen ordered his crew to report early this morning in the hope the weather might have cleared.

DIES OF EXPOSURE

DOVER, O., Nov. 3.—Exposure caused the death of Otto Pfeiffer, whose body was found in a field near his home in Ruslin Hills, Coroner J. F. Lewis announced today. Andrew Fauser, member of a searching party, came upon Pfeiffer's body at a spot five miles north of here. He had been missing since last Monday.

Ancient Abyssinian City Celebrates Coronation Of Emperor Of Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Nov. 3.—The ancient city of Addis Ababa, strange cauldron of the east and west, gave itself over today to seven days of feasting in celebration of the coronation of Haile Selassie, king of kings, conquering lion of the tribe of Judah and elect of God, who was crowned emperor of Ethiopia at dawn yesterday.

Savies and distinguished visitors alike participated in the time honored ceremonies accompanying the coronation of a monarch of this Christian African kingdom.

Following a day replete with receptions, prayers, parades and colorful ceremonies, Emperor Haile Selassie entertained his visitors in the Menelik Palace with a sumptuous banquet, at which exotic viands of the east and the more familiar viands of the west were set before his guests.

The banquet was served by the emperor's personal staff of gigantic Abyssinian waiters and footmen, and eaten off solid gold plate with hand-carved ivory table ware.

While the palace banquet was in progress, 25,000 tribesmen from the hinterlands of Ethiopia gathered in the open air and partook of the emperor's bounty. Five thousand cattle were slaughtered for the feast.

With the coming of sunset, Emperor Haile Selassie fell on his knees in front of the royal palace and gave his thanks to God for the most glorious day in his colorful life. His tribal chieftains joined in the prayer.

SEIZE CAPONE AIDE

Frank Nitti, above, known variously as the chief lieutenant of Al Capone, Chicago underworld king, and as the real power of the "gang of which Capone is but a figurehead," is snapped as he was placed under arrest at Chicago by agents of the internal revenue department. Nitti's arrest is said to be the most significant move since the opening of Chicago's concerted drive on gang rule in the city.

EFFORTS TO ASSIST UNEMPLOYED GROW IN EFFECTIVENESS

Democrat Senator Criticizes Failure Of Relief Bills

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Efforts of the emergency employment committee by the President, appeared to be gaining momentum today, while on the eve of election the government's employment drive was being attacked and defended.

Senator George (D) of Ga., criticized the administration for its failure to support the Wagner unemployment relief bills in the house last session after the senate had passed them. Through the Republican national committee, Rep. Wood (R) of Ind., was quick to come to the defense of the administration.

Democratic charges were false and that they were another attempt to misrepresent the president.

The administration, he said, "began to move a year ago in easing the shock of the stock market crash and in relieving unemployment."

Colonel Arthur Woods, chairman of the President's emergency committee, pointed to the plan to relieve unemployment instituted by the city of Cincinnati nearly eighteen months ago as one that should be followed by other municipalities. He made public a plan of the Dupont Corporation of Wilmington, Del., as another example of industry's co-operation in the government's efforts to relieve the situation.

SIX DROWN AS VESSEL SINKS

BREMEN, Nov. 3.—The captain and five of the crew of the 118-ton steamer Langeoog were drowned today when the ship sank after being rammed by the German steamer Wahehe off the Dutch coast.

Six others of the crew were rescued. The Langeoog, only eighty-one feet long, sank almost immediately after being struck by the large freighter, which has a tonnage of 4690.

Both ships were registered from Hamburg, according to Lloyd's register.

CONVICT KILLS SELF AFTER PRISON BREAK RESULTS IN FAILURE

Hold-Up Man, Wounded
By Guards, Choses
Own 'Way Out'

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 3.—With guards on the alert to prevent further attempts to escape Sing Sing prison, an autopsy today revealed that suicide brought death to Harry Gordon, New York hold-up man, who attempted a break for liberty with three others Saturday night. Medical examiners said after Gordon had been wounded by guards, he put a final bullet through his brain, pressing the pistol against his temple.

All of the 2230 convicts were carefully searched for weapons today.

Warden Lawes said he believed the revolver used by Gordon and his companions in their break had been recently smuggled to them because of the fact a gun made of wood and painted black was found in one of their cells. If they had received the guns some time ago, he said, they would not have taken the trouble to carve a wooden weapon.

Keeper Howard Marquard, who was wounded by Gordon, is recovering. Edward Ryan, William Lapierre and Herbert Davis, who was slightly wounded by guards fire, were placed in solitary confinement and will be tried on new charges.

Morris Gordon, father of the dead convict, came to Sing Sing on Sunday to see his son, not knowing he had been killed.

After years of skimping and saving, with just enough money to get along, Clem Thomas, 59, of Cincinnati, O., has found the pot of gold, at the end of the rainbow. His ticket on Loveland, a Canadian sweepstakes, won approximately $20,000. Thomas' weekly earnings as a flier of aluminum airplanes were about $20, on which he supported a wife and six children.

MARKETS CLOSED

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—All leading security and commodity exchanges will be closed tomorrow, election day. The New York stock exchange, the New York curb market, the Chicago board of trade, the New York cotton exchange, and the New Orleans cotton exchange are some of the markets that have signified their intention to be closed.

Banks and business institutions generally will also be closed, but a large part of the retail stores will be open for business tomorrow.

FIRE CHIEF DIES

AKRON, O., Nov. 3.—John T. Mertz, 66, chief of the Akron fire department since 1901, was dead here today, following an illness of several weeks and a recent operation.

GAINS FORTUNE

After years of skimping and saving, with just enough money to get along, Clem Thomas, 59, of Cincinnati, O., has found the pot of gold, at the end of the rainbow. His ticket on Loveland, a Canadian sweepstakes, won approximately $20,000. Thomas' weekly earnings as a flier of aluminum airplanes were about $20, on which he supported a wife and six children.

LINER AGROUND OFF STATEN ISLAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The passenger and freight liner "Colombia," of the Grace line went hard aground today off Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, but was in no danger the coast guard reported.

A coast guard patrol boat stood by, but it was believed the ship would be pulled off by commercial tugs.

TYPHOON SWEEPS FOUR ISLANDS

MANILA, Nov. 3.—Fragmentary reports reaching here today indicated a typhoon struck the Visayan Sea yesterday and inflicted damage on the islands of Negros, Iloilo, Leyte and Cebu, lying several hundred miles to the southeast of Manila.

Details of the reported typhoon were lacking.

CHANGE IN CONTROL OF CONGRESS FIRST HOPE OF DEMOCRATS

Concentrate On House;
Presidential Timber
Under Fire

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The oratorical big winds that have swept the country in recent weeks died down to a gentle breeze today as leaders of all political parties went about the practical business of getting out the vote in tomorrow's highly significant national election.

The charges have all been made, likewise the claims, the issues have been presented, defended and denied, and today was what has come to be known as "mopping up day"—the day upon which the captains and the lieutenants gather up the loose ends of organization detail.

Forty-seven of the forty-eight states hold elections tomorrow, Maine having conducted her's last September. Involved in these contests are 431 seats in the seventy-second congress, thirty-four senators, thirty-one governors of states, and thousands of state and municipal offices.

In all the multitude of claims advanced by partisan sources, a few facts stood out today clear and unchallenged:

1. The Democrats are going to substantially increase their representation in both houses of congress—perhaps to the point of gaining actual control of the house of representatives.
2. Prohibition and the business depression, which has been accompanied by widespread unemployment, constitute the principal factors of the contest.
3. The anti-prohibition strength in the congress elected tomorrow will be greatly increased, although there is scant prospect of the west gaining a majority.
4. The outcome tomorrow is certain to play an important part in the presidential candidacies and issues are involved to a degree unusual in off-year elections.
5. The enormous independent vote of the country, always dreaded by party leaders, will be the deciding factor in some of the most important contests, for party politics has never been so pronounced in an off-year.

The Democrats are convinced they are going to win the house, and a considerable number of non-partisan observers are inclined to agree with them. More conservative estimates, however, place the Democratic gains at just short of actual control.

To win the house the Democrats have to unseat fifty-four incumbent Republicans. It would be a major, if not an unprecedented, turnover in an off-year.

But the Democrats have concentrated on the house and they are more confident than they have been in years. The fates have been predicted for the month of November.

A majority of the midwest steel concerns, including the Empire Steel corporation, which has its headquarters in Mansfield and the Republic Steel Corporation enter the present week with reduced schedules. Intermittent operations are scheduled for the month.

Operations at the Falcon plant of the Empire Steel Corporation, at Niles, Trumbull County, have been suspended following several months of periodic production.

An increase in the number of blast furnaces in operation was forecast for the month. Stocks at the Sharon Steel Hoop Co. at Lowellville, and the Cliffs Corporation blast furnace are expected to be put in operation. The Merchant stack at the Sharpsville Furnace Co. is scheduled to be blown in this week.

Operations at the Falcon plant of the Empire Steel Corporation, at Niles, Trumbull County, have been suspended following several months of periodic production.

An increase in the number of blast furnaces in operation was forecast for the month. Stocks at the Sharon Steel Hoop Co. at Lowellville, and the Cliffs Corporation blast furnace are expected to be put in operation. The Merchant stack at the Sharpsville Furnace Co. is scheduled to be blown in this week.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 3.—The whereabouts of George C. Skidmore, 20-year-old notorious bandit, who is wanted for the murder of a crippled gasoline station attendant at Mt. Washington, Pa., last September, was still a mystery today after another clue concerning the youth had failed.

Police believed that Howard Lauderbach, victim of an automobile collision near here last week, was Skidmore. An investigation showed, however, that the man really was Lauderbach. Authorities were told by another man who figured in the accident that one of the injured men was Skidmore. He identified the young bandit's pictures, but a police probe showed the man was not Skidmore.

AS CHICAGO'S MAYOR WAS STRICKEN

Mayor William Hale Thompson, of Chicago, is seen here just before being wheeled into the operating room of a Chicago hospital for an operation for appendicitis with which he was stricken as he was about to deliver a political speech in a Loop theater. Although attending doctors feared peritonitis, the famous mayor was given a fighting chance for his life.

MRS. LEVAN TO ATTEND MONDAY G. O. P. RALLY

Greene County Republicans will bring their campaign to a close Monday night at the Opera House with an election eve rally at 8 o'clock at which United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, Yellow Springs, Republican national committee chairman, and Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, will be the principal speakers. Large delegations are expected to attend from all parts of the county in order to hear the two distinguished orators summarize the issues of the present campaign.

Local Republican leaders also announce the speaking program will be augmented by two nationally known women Republican workers.

Mrs. Wilma Sinclair LeVan, Steubenville, O., the national Republican committeewoman from Ohio, will accompany Senator Fess to Xenia to give a talk, and Miss Hallie Q. Brown, Wilberforce, will also address the gathering.

AVERAGE BUSINESS IN STEEL INDUSTRY NOVEMBER PROMISE

Blast Furnaces Will Increase In Month Is Prediction

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 3.—Average operating schedules for the midwest steel industry were predicted here today by steel leaders for the month of November.

A majority of the midwest steel concerns, including the Empire Steel corporation, which has its headquarters in Mansfield and the Republic Steel Corporation enter the present week with reduced schedules. Intermittent operations are scheduled for the month.

Operations at the Falcon plant of the Empire Steel Corporation, at Niles, Trumbull County, have been suspended following several months of periodic production.

An increase in the number of blast furnaces in operation was forecast for the month. Stocks at the Sharon Steel Hoop Co. at Lowellville, and the Cliffs Corporation blast furnace are expected to be put in operation. The Merchant stack at the Sharpsville Furnace Co. is scheduled to be blown in this week.

TREASURY BALANCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Treasury statement as of October 31: Treasury balance, $203,056,866. Expenditures, $8,200,360.70. Customs receipts, $39,319,257.33.

OIL GUSHER IS UNDER CONTROL

Well Capped; Oily River Catches Fire

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 3.—After pouring tons of crude oil and gases over the city for three days, the oil gusher at Stout well number 1 today was under control and the fire hazard virtually passed.

Oil flowing from the rampart well into North Canadian river and collecting seven miles north-east of here caught fire Sunday afternoon and was still burning on the stream's surface today. Firemen sent to the scene said the supply was diminishing, however. It was believed the blaze would burn itself out within a few hours.

The stream's current bore the flaming fuel further away from the well, minimizing the fire danger.

Engineers succeeded in capping the well's flow at 4 p. m. yesterday when a forty-five foot pipe was hoisted aloft and anchored into place and its valves closed, shutting off the geyser-like flow.

An extensive area about the Stout well was saturated with crude oil and damage claims have already appeared. Fire fighters were still maintaining a close watch over the territory.

TWO MORE GANG DEATHS PROBED

Bodies Of Hoodlums Found In Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Two more gang killings challenged authorities today as they sought a motive for the slaying of two hoodlums whose bodies were found in a west side beer flat.

The murdered men were: Frank Smurlo, ex-convict and known gambler, and William "Smooth" Sierza, owner of the flat and known to police as a pioneer hucker in the Chicago area.

After investigating the double murder authorities leaned toward the theory that a new gang of alcohol dealers had invaded Sierza's territory and sought this means of removing competition.

Each man had been shot several times. Smurlo was shot by men who followed him to the flat, the positions of the bodies indicated. The bodies were not discovered until four hours after the killings. A red blotch of blood appearing on the ceiling below led to the discovery.

PUBLIC SALES
Nov. 5—E. M. Ellis.

STATE CANDIDATES FINISH CAMPAIGNS AS ELECTION NEARS

Prohibition And "Hard Times" Are Ohio Questions

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—Two issues—"hard times" and prohibition—stared the voters of Ohio in the face today as they prepared to go to the polls tomorrow and decide by majority agreement the fates of their national and state administrations.

Last-minute appeals, warnings and instructions were being flung out the length and breadth of the state in frenzied hurriedness today and tonight by the opposing candidates for state, senatorial and congressional offices.

Flaunting the banner of "hard times" in the face of his Republican opponent, Myers V. Cooper, governor incumbent of Ohio, Geo. White of Marietta, the Democratic candidate for the post, has already rounded-out his campaign and has rested his case in the hands of the some 1,700,000 or 1,800,000 voters who are expected to go to the polls tomorrow.

Governor Cooper, whose plea to the electorate has been "don't change boats in mid-stream," likewise has virtually completed his campaign. He toured Hardin County today, however, accompanied by United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee, just as a matter of "keeping the home fires burning" and in the hopes of swaying votes that may be "on the fence."

Governor Cooper's final plea will be made tonight over a radio hook-up of station WLW and WAU.

The prohibition issue of the state is centered in the highly-significant contest between former Congressman Robert J. Bulkeley, Democrat, and United States Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, Republican nominee to succeed himself, for the senatorial toga.

Bulkeley, a "dripping wet," rounds out his campaign today and tonight with three speeches in his home city—Cleveland. His Republican opponent made his last appeal to the voters Saturday night at Painesville.

While the candidates themselves had eased down in their ardent appeals to the state's electorate, their banners were being carried among the voting populace by their energetic cohorts, including John W. Bricker, member of the state utilities commission speaking at Ashland, and the Rev. S. R. Wilson speaking at Coshocton in behalf of the Republican candidates and former Congressman John M. Sweeney of Wooster, and the Rev. E. R. Cochran of Mt. Vernon, speaking at Ashland for the Democrats.

G. O. P. campaign officials today maintained their confident prediction of a "sweeping victory by a substantial majority."

Optimistic Democrats, however, prognosticated "a landslide for Bulkeley and, in addition, an excellent chance of gaining nine congressmen."

Among the minor state offices, the question of victory seems more evenly drawn. Although campaign managers of both sides maintain their claims of "straight party" victories, they are somewhat prone to pass over definite predictions.

Some political experts, with G. O. P. leanings, believe that the Republican incumbents have the edge. The Democratic candidates, especially William G. Pickrell of Dayton, nominee for lieutenant governor, have waged most effective campaigns, however.

The pulpits of Ohio churches yesterday were virtually turned into "political forums," as some of the more partisan pastors delivered harangues upon the prohibition issue of the campaign. The effect of "political Sunday," however, was believed to have made but only a minor dent in the minds of the voters, who for the most part have already made their decisions one way or another.

In addition to federal, state, county, legislative and judicial elections tomorrow, Ohio's electorate will also adopt or reject a proposed amendment to permit counties and school districts to share in the distribution of the state income and inheritance taxes. They also will pass on numerous local pleas for bond and tax issues.

THREE KILLED WHEN AUTO, CAR, COLLIDE

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 3.—A collision between an automobile and a street car here late Sunday caused the death today of three men.

William M. Parson, 25, of Huntington, who was riding in the rumble seat of the auto, was thrown beneath the wheels of an Ohio Valley Electric Company car and was killed instantly.

Raymond Terry, 32, of Huntington, and Roy Kiser, 25, of Logan, W. Va., died in a hospital a few hours later.

YOU BUY — he works!

SOME one has said "It is just as patriotic to spend today as it was to buy Liberty Bonds during the war." The Spender today will prove to be the conqueror of those two greatly magnified bugaboos, Depression and Unemployment. The Hoarder hampers the return to Prosperity.

There is no real reason nor reasoning to justify the great fear of spending that the public has conjured up in its mind. Let us see if this is true.

Depression is due to lack of business. When the public stops buying, demand ceases and when demand ceases production halts and when production halts unemployment remains stagnant. So depression is a direct and definite result of the lack of spending.

The public has the means to buy for only a small percentage are actually unemployed. Let us see if this is true. Of America's 120 million population there are approximately 100 million able to work. There is today about 3½ million unemployed. The average unemployment during normal times is 2 million so that only 1½ million are out of work today over the normal times or about 1½% of the working population.

The rest of the people can buy if they will. They have the means, the need, the desire if they will only banish fear. Spend and you create demand . . . create demand and you start production . . . start production and you diminish unemployment. Money in circulation is the only solution to national and individual Prosperity.

XENIA Merchants go farther by pricing merchandise so low that it's a real good investment to Buy Now.

Watch Their Ads In
THE XENIA GAZETTE

YOU BUY— he works!

SOME one has said "It is just as patriotic to spend today as it was to buy Liberty Bonds during the war." The Spender today will prove to be the conqueror of those two greatly magnified bugaboos, Depression and Unemployment. The Hoarder hampers the return to Prosperity.

There is no real reason nor reasoning to justify the great fear of spending that the public has conjured up in its mind. Let us see if this is true.

Depression is due to lack of business. When the public stops buying, demand ceases and when demand ceases production halts and when production halts unemployment remains stagnant. So depression is a direct and definite result of the lack of spending.

The public has the means to buy for only a small percentage are actually unemployed. Let us see if this is true. Of America's 120 million population there are approximately 100 million able to work. There is today about 3½ million unemployed. The average unemployment during normal times is 2 million so that only 1½ million are out of work today over the normal times or about 1½% of the working population.

The rest of the people can buy if they will. They have the means, the need, the desire if they will only banish fear. Spend and you create demand . . . create demand and you start production . . . start production and you diminish unemployment. Money in circulation is the only solution to national and individual Prosperity.

XENIA Merchants go farther by pricing merchandise so low that it's a real good investment to Buy Now.

Watch Their Ads In
THE XENIA GAZETTE

Writer Guest Here After Cincinnati Lecture

OPENING the first of the meetings of the Fine Arts Lecture Series in Cincinnati, Mrs. W. A. King, Ironton, O., addressed patrons on the subject, "Literature: The Mirror of the Mind" in the LeBlond Auditorium last Thursday evening.

Mrs. King is now the guest for several days of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William A. King Jr., W. Market St.

Mrs. King, who is a novelist and author of "Duncan Davidson," is

WINNER GIVEN ON WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sanders, E. Second St., entertained a company of friends at a dinner party Sunday in honor of their twenty-third wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders received a number of gifts from their friends in honor of the event.

Guests at the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Melvin LeValley, Dunkirk, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Ralph LeValley and son, of Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. B. H. LeValley, Paintersville; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linkhart, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bridgeman and daughter, Loretta, Mrs. Anna Simlson and Mrs. Ida Perdue, Xenia.

HAMILTON-HARVEY MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED.

Mr. and Mrs. Hovey H. Harvey, Cottage Grove Ave., are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Inez Louise Harvey to Mr. Virgil Ray Hamilton, of this city, which took place in Covington, Ky., Tuesday, October 28. The young couple was attended by Mr. Claisen Waldren and Miss Lucille Martin, cousin of the bride, at which Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pugsley Sr. announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their only daughter, Miss Ruth K., to Mr. Harold Franklin Drury, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Drury, London, O.

The guests included: the Misses Clide Edwards, Sarah Swearingen, Edna Farrar, Mary Drury, Ruth K. Pugsley and the Messrs. Cameron Greene, Charles Pugsley, Harry Pugsley Jr., Wilbur Clark and Harold Drury.

COUPLE'S ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED SUNDAY.

A dinner was given Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Persinger Pugsley at their home near Jamestown, at which Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pugsley Sr. announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their only daughter, Miss Ruth K., to Mr. Harold Franklin Drury, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Drury, London, O.

The guests included: the Misses Clide Edwards, Sarah Swearingen, Edna Farrar, Mary Drury, Ruth K. Pugsley and the Messrs. Cameron Greene, Charles Pugsley, Harry Pugsley Jr., Wilbur Clark and Harold Drury.

ENTERTAINS AT HALLOWEEN PARTY.

A Halloween party was given Friday evening by Miss Pauline Neff at her home, 1045 W. Second St. Games and stunts were enjoyed and several prizes were awarded. Later refreshments of gingerbread, pumpkin pie and cider were served.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neff, Mrs. Josie Palmer, the Misses Edith Jones, Mildred Neff, Mary Alice Perkins, Carrie Neff, the Messrs. Elwood Palmer, this city, and Roger Rogers and Melvin Steiner, Jamestown.

Executive officers of the Berean Bible Class of the First Reformed Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Roy V. Hull, Dayton Ave., Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. All committee chairmen are requested to be present as there is business of importance to be discussed.

Xenia Lodge No. 49, F. and A. M. will hold a special communication Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock to conduct services for the late Mr. S. H. Deacon.

The November meeting of the Dorcas Class of the First Lutheran Sunday School, scheduled to be held November 4, has been postponed because of the meeting of the synod this week. The class meeting will be held November 13 at the home of Mrs. Edward Nichols, New Burlington Pike.

Movie Fashions

A series of fluted ruffles fashions the skirt of this charming rose chiffon evening gown worn by Bebe Daniels, screen star. The tiny cape over the arms develops into a capelet in back. A jacket of the same material, beaded in rhinestones and crystal teardrops, is worn with it.

a speaker of great charm and her address included many phrases of the literary art. The following is quoted from a recent issue of the Cincinnati Times-Star, concerning Mrs. King's coming to Cincinnati: "Gifted as are few women, brilliant, discerning and intellectual, Mrs. King has won the rapt attention of her auditors in New York and other large eastern cities, in Canada and also abroad. She possesses marvelous capabilities, is a charming and graceful woman, with a beautiful speaking voice and a wonderful command of the language. An American woman with American viewpoints, Mrs. King will undoubtedly not overlook the importance of the rise of American literary lights in the firmament of world literature."

Following Mrs. King's appearance at the LeBlond Auditorium, she was honored at a reception at the Catholic Women's Club.

The Rev. W. H. Tilford, N. Detroit St., left Monday morning for Bryan, O., to be guest speaker this week at a series of meetings at the Presbyterian Church there, of which the Rev. Emil Carsten is pastor.

Members of Trinity Guild of Trinity M. E. Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Donald Chitty, W. Second St., Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Louis Buell, Cincinnati, spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Buell, E. Church St.

Miss Julia Brown, who has been spending several weeks here as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Chew, E. Market St., left Friday for Los Angeles, Calif.

Regular meeting of Alpha Theta Chapter, Delta Theta Tau sorority, will be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Miss Besse Kennedy, S. Monroe St. All members are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Members of the Downtown Country Club and their friends will enjoy a steak roast Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Garfield cottage on the Little Miami River.

Members of the Junior Woman's Club will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. B. R. McClellan, S. Detroit St. A full attendance of members is desired at the meeting.

Mrs. Clara Jones, 613 N. Gallo-way St., returned home Sunday from Portsmouth and Cincinnati where she spent two weeks. She was accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brand, Otway, O., who spent the week end in Xenia.

Mrs. Anna Shelley, Cincinnati Ave., left last week for Chicago for a visit with her daughter, Miss Margaret Shelley, who is engaged in social welfare work there.

Mr. Ralph Harner, Ohio State University, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Harner, Ludlow Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Deacon, La-porte, Ind., arrived in Xenia Sunday evening being called here by the death of Mr. S. H. Deacon.

Mr. Walter P. Maxwell, 111 Stetson Road, is confined to his home suffering from an attack of the grip.

Mrs. Clara Reutinger, Mrs. Howell Huston and daughter, Claire Jean, W. Market St., accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hooven, Dayton, spent the week end in Madison, Ind., with Mr. and Mrs. William Sinnard, formerly of this City.

All Odd Fellows are requested to meet at the hall of I. O. O. F. Lodge, No. 52, Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock to attend funeral services for Brother S. H. Deacon at the late home on S. Detroit St., at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Bertha Rhonemus, Bellbrook, entered Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, Saturday and underwent a serious operation Sunday morning. Her condition is reported as favorable following the operation.

PUPILS IN PARADE URGING FAVORABLE SCHOOL LEVY VOTE

Approximately 2,000 pupils and teachers in the Xenia public schools, led by Xenia Central High's thirty-piece band, paraded through the business district of the city early Monday afternoon, flags and banners waving, calling attention to the necessity of voting in favor of the three-mill school levy at the election Tuesday.

The special tax levy has been in existence since 1920 and the schools seek to have it continued for five more years in order that the public school system may be maintained at its present high standard.

The street parade was held to emphasize the fact that the future of more than 2,000 boys and girls will be jeopardized unless Xenia voters cast a majority in favor of the levy Tuesday to provide funds for school purposes.

REPUBLICANS WIN NEWSPAPER POLL IN GREENE COUNTY

Governor Myers Y. Cooper and United States Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch received majorities over their Democratic opponents in the vote canvassed in Greene County by The Dispatch, Columbus newspaper, which presented Sunday the final tabulation by counties and the total result throughout the state of its secret straw vote which has been conducted continuously since September 3.

A total of 80,660 votes were obtained in the poll in this county. Governor Cooper received 295 votes against 317 for George White, Democratic nominee, while McCulloch obtained 383 votes as compared with 295 for his Democratic opponent, Robert J. Bulkley.

An analysis of the vote showed 282 men and 113 women voted for Cooper, 251 men and sixty-six women for White, 268 men and 115 women for McCulloch and 230 men and sixty-five women for Bulkley.

Poems that Live

MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS (1542-1587)

WHEN the young hand of Darnley locked in hers Had knit her to her northern doom—amid

The spousal pomp of flags and trumpeters, Her fate looked forth and was no longer hid;

A jealous brain beneath a southern crown

Wrought spells upon her; from afar she felt

The waxen image of her fortunes melt

Beneath the Tudor's eye, while the grim frown

Of her own lords o'er-mastered her sweet smiles,

And nipped her growing gladness, till she mourned,

And sank, at last, beneath their cruel wiles;

But, ever since, all generous hearts have burned

To clear her fame, yea, very babes have yearned

Over this saddest story of the isles.

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

VOTE

To Elect This Candidate

X Washday Freedom

He will free you from wasted drudgery and make you enjoy wash day.

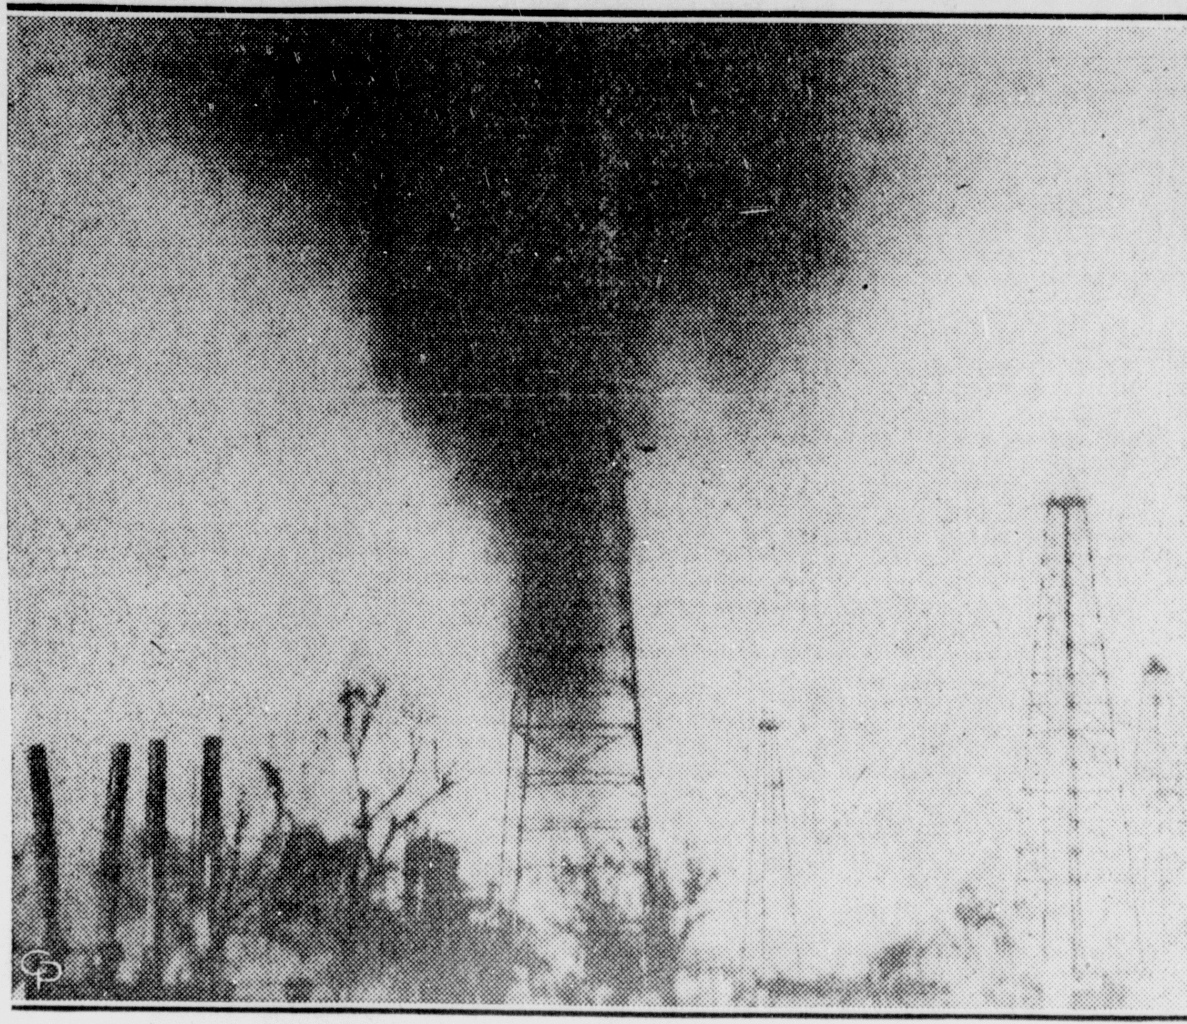

Four Services

One For Every Family and Purse

WE USE
IVORY SOAP
EXCLUSIVELY

Kaiser Laundry Co.

AS WILD GUSHER MENACED OKLAHOMA CITY

Roaring defiance to a small army of men seeking to curb it, a wild gusher threatened the east section of Oklahoma City's residential district as well as the wholesale area with destruction if fire broke out. Photo shows No. 1 C. E. Stout, as it blew more than 60,000 barrels of oil and 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily into the air.

Unemployment Most Important Fact

Agnes McPhail, the only woman member of the Canadian Parliament, is now visiting Boston. She declares unemployment as being the most important and serious situation facing the world today.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

CREOMULSION FOR THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

"BROWNLEAF"

An Engaging Daytime

Shade in

GOTHAM

GOLD STRIPE

Silk Stockings

When you want a not too casual, not too formal shade—wear BROWNLEAF...

When you want a perfect shade to go with the brown costume—wear BROWNLEAF...

And of course, when you want to see BROWNLEAF in all its beauty, you must wear it in

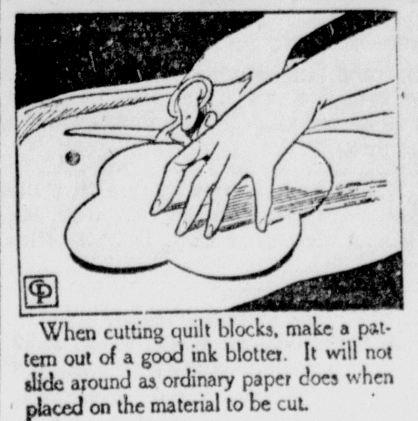

GOTHAM GOLD STRIPE

Beautiful Silk Stockings

$1.50 to $2.95

JOBE'S

Wife Preservers

When cutting quilt blocks, make a pattern out of a good ink blotter. It will not slide around as ordinary paper does when placed on the material to be cut.

Eye Talks

by
Mrs. Wilkin and Wilkin
Optometric Specialists
Over Woolworths

Hot, Burning, Smarting Eyes

These are protesting eyes. They are crying for help. They are doing their best to render a proper service, but an error of vision is rendering their efforts unsatisfactory. The warning should be heeded. Help is at hand. It comes as a result of a careful eye examination such as ours.

—Continued Wednesday

WHERE IT'S MOST NEEDED

Support for the diaphragm—restraint for the hips—that's what so many feminine figures need.

This attractive girdle in pink cord with adjustable back lace—reinforced front with inner diaphragm reducing band—three sets hose supporters—does the trick neatly and comfortably. Ask for Model 511. Sizes 26-42.

JOBE'S

Girdles Bandeaux Bodicettes

AUTOISTS NOT HURT AS AUTO TURNS OVER

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Snyder, 1031 Xenia Ave., Dayton, escaped serious injury when their coach skidded and upset on the Dayton-Xenia Pike, one-half mile west of Xenia Sunday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder were driving toward Dayton when the machine skidded, due to the slippery pike. It jumped the car tracks of the Dayton-Xenia traction line, turned over four times and landed upside down in an adjoining field. The car was damaged. Mr. and Mrs. Snyder received minor bruises and Mr. Snyder received a small cut on the leg. Their collie dog, "Queenie," also in the car, was not hurt.

WEEKLY EVENTS

MONDAY:

Unity Center.

S. P. O.

B. P. O. E.

Pocahontas.

K. of C.

TUESDAY:

Kiwanis.

Rotary.

Aldora Chapter.

Obedient D. of A.

WEDNESDAY:

Moose.

Church Prayer Meetings.

K. of P.

Jr. Order.

THURSDAY:

Red Men.

Pride of X. D. of A.

W. R. C.

FRIDAY:

Eagles.

Headache

Relieved without "dosing." Rub on VICKS VAPORUB

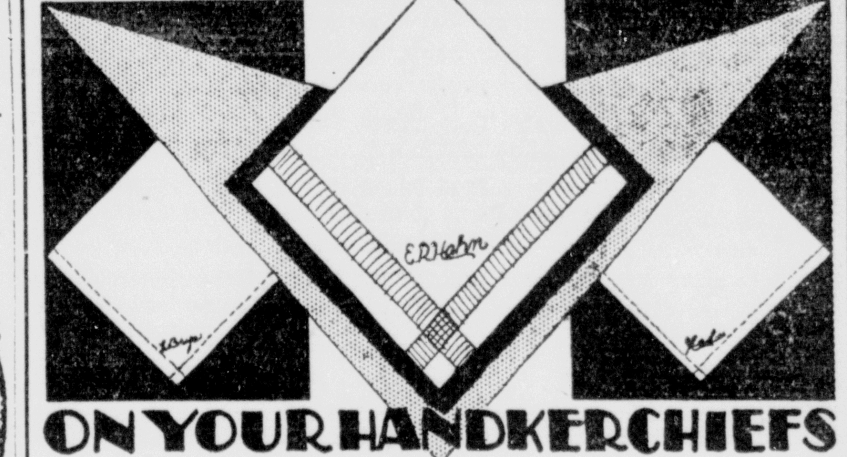

WATCH FOR VAN'S MOVES

THE fact that we haul with care saves you a lot of worry. We take your troubles away from you entirely and our shoulders and motor vans bear the burden.

DAYTON XENIA WILMINGTON MOTOR LINE EXPRESSING
135 W. MAIN XENIA, OHIO. PHONE XENIA 304

YOUR AUTOGRAPH

A splendid personalized Gift long remembered.

You may have one, two or three initials in several styles and colors or you may have any signature copied exactly in white or color.

$3.50

$6.00

Is the price per dozen for ladies fine linen handkerchiefs in any width hem. Half dozen smallest quantity sold.

The dozen for men's pure linen kerchiefs in any width hem. Half dozens if you wish boxed for giving.

JOBE'S

Colorful Polly Ward Pajamas

Guaranteed Fast to Washing—to Sun—to Colors!

Fashion says, wear pajamas if you want to be in style. Tuck in or outside jacket effects. Youthful, colorful, serviceable. These ever fast materials are the finest ever. All sizes, all the best colors.

$1.95 and $2.95

JOBE'S

Writer Guest Here After Cincinnati Lecture

OPENING the first of the meetings of the Fine Arts Lecture Series in Cincinnati, Mrs. W. A. King, Ironton, O., addressed patrons on the subject, "Literature: The Mirror of the Mind" in the LeBlond Auditorium last Thursday evening.

Mrs. King is now the guest for several days of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William A. King Jr., W. Market St.

Mrs. King, who is a novelist and author of "Duncan Davidson," is an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

an author of "Duncan Davidson," is

PUPILS IN PARADE URGING FAVORABLE SCHOOL LEVY VOTE

Approximately 2,000 pupils and teachers in the Xenia public schools, led by Xenia Central High's thirty-piece band, paraded through the business district of the city early Monday afternoon, flags and banners waving, calling attention to the necessity of voting in favor of the three-mill school levy at the election Tuesday.

The special tax levy has been in existence since 1920 and the schools seek to have it continued for five more years in order that the public school system may be maintained at its present high standard.

The street parade was held to emphasize the fact that the future of more than 2,000 boys and girls will be jeopardized unless Xenia voters cast a majority in favor of the levy Tuesday to provide funds for school purposes.

REPUBLICANS WIN NEWSPAPER POLL IN GREENE COUNTY

Governor Myers V. Cooper and United States Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch received majorities over their Democratic opponents in the vote canvassed in Greene County by The Dispatch, Columbus newspaper, which presented Sunday the final tabulation by counties and the total result throughout the state of its secret straw vote which has been conducted continuously since September 2.

A total of 80,669 votes were obtained in the poll in this county. Governor Cooper received 395 votes against 317 for George White, Democratic nominee, while McCulloch obtained 383 votes as compared with 295 for his Democratic opponent, Robert J. Bulkley.

An analysis of the vote showed 282 men and 113 women voted for Cooper, 251 men and sixty-six women for White, 268 men and 115 women for McCulloch and 230 men and sixty-five women for Bulkley.

Poems that Live

MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS
(1542-1587)

When the young hand of Darnley looked in hers
Had knitted her to her northern doom—amid

The spousal pomp of flags and trumpeters,
Her fate looked forth and was no longer hid;

A jealous brain beneath a southern crown
Wrought spells upon her; from afar she felt

The waxen image of her fortunes melt
Beneath the Tudor's eye, while the grim frown

Of her own lords o'ermastered her sweet smiles,
And nipped her growing gladness, till she mourned,

And sank, at last, beneath their cruel wiles;
But, ever since, all generous hearts have burned

To clear her fame, yea, very babes have yearned
Over this saddest story of the isles.

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

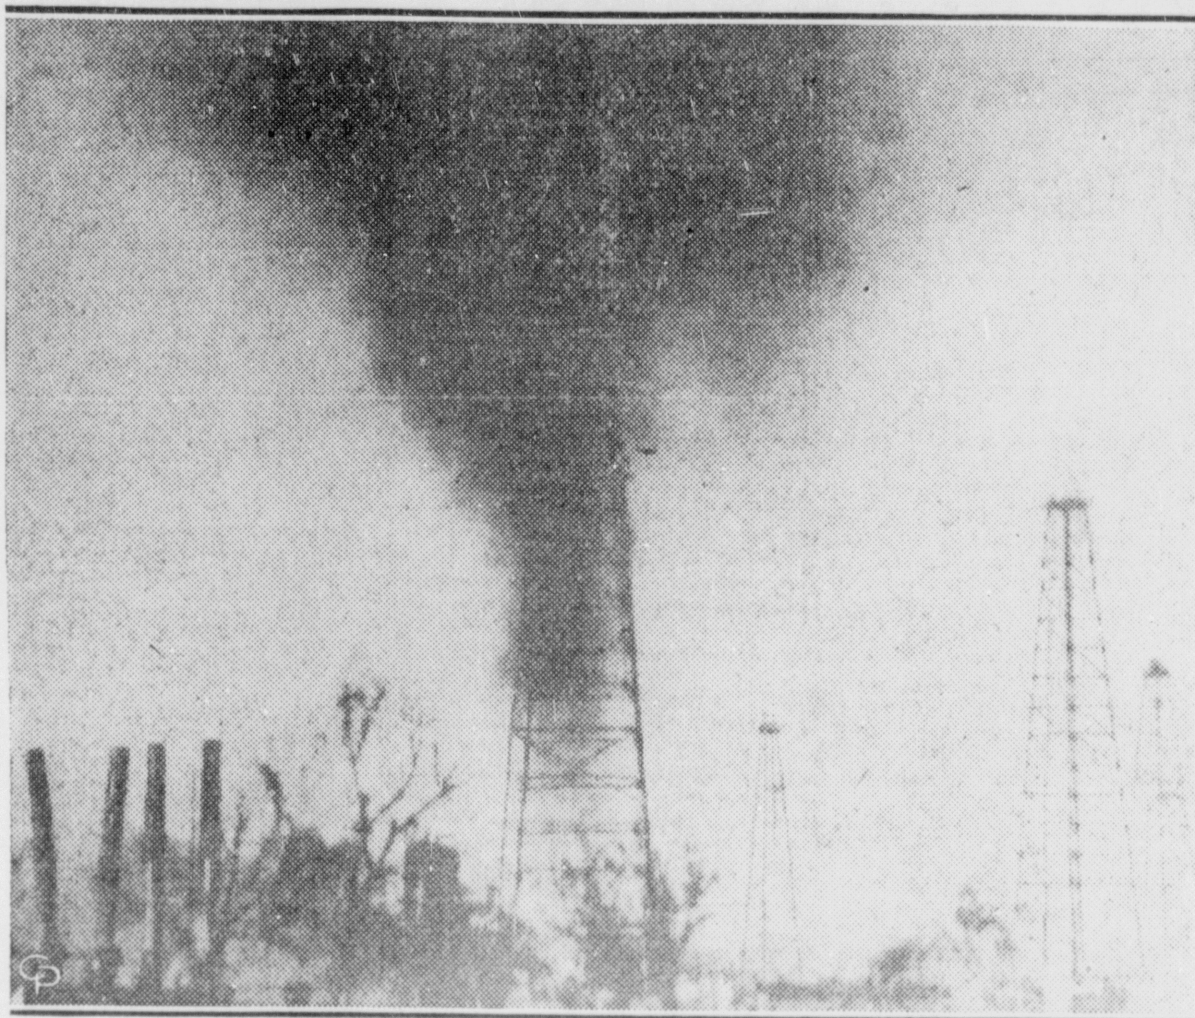

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

—Charles T. Turner (1808-1879)

AS WILD GUSHER MENACED OKLAHOMA CITY

Roaring defiance to a small army of men seeking to curb it, a wild gusher threatened the east section of Oklahoma City's residential district as well as the wholesale area with destruction if fire broke out. Photo shows No. 1 C. E. Stout, as it blew more than 60,000 barrels of oil and 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily into the air.

AUTOISTS NOT HURT AS AUTO TURNS OVER

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Snyder, 1031 Xenia Ave., Dayton, escaped serious injury, when their coach skidded and upset on the Dayton-Xenia Pike, one-half mile west of Xenia Sunday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder were driving toward Dayton when the machine skidded, due to the slippery pike. It jumped the car tracks of the Dayton-Xenia traction line, turned over four times and landed upside down in an adjoining field. The car was damaged. Mr. and Mrs. Snyder received minor bruises and Mr. Snyder received a small cut on the leg. Their collie dog, "Queenie," also in the car, was not hurt.

WEEKLY EVENTS

MONDAY:

Unity Center.

S. P. O.

B. P. O. E.

Pocahontas.

K. of C.

TUESDAY:

Kiwanis.

Rotary.

Aldora Chapter.

Obedient D. of A.

WEDNESDAY:

Moose.

Church Prayer Meetings.

K. of P.

Jr. Order.

THURSDAY:

Red Men.

Pride of X. D. of A.

W. R. C.

FRIDAY:

Eagles.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

CREOMULSION FOR THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

"BROWNLEAF"

An Engaging Daytime

Shade in

GOTHAM

GOLD STRIPE

Silk Stockings

When you want a not too casual, not too formal shade—wear BROWNLEAF...

When you want a perfect shade to go with the brown costume—wear BROWNLEAF...

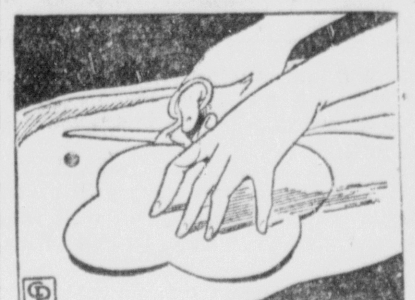

And of course, when you want to see BROWNLEAF in all its beauty, you must wear it in

GOTHAM GOLD STRIPE
Beautiful Silk Stockings

$1.50 to $2.95

JOBE'S

Wife Preservers

When cutting quilt blocks, make a pattern out of a good ink blotter. It will not slide around as ordinary paper does when placed on the material to be cut.

Eye Talks

by
Drs. Wilkin and Wilkin
Optometric Specialists
Over Woolworths

Hot, Burning,
Smarting Eyes

These are protesting eyes. They are crying for help. They are doing their best to render a proper service, but an error of vision is rendering their efforts unsatisfactory. The warning should be heeded. Help is at hand. It comes as a result of a careful eye examination such as ours.

—Continued Wednesday

WHERE IT'S MOST NEEDED

Support for the diaphragm—restraint for the hips—that's what so many feminine figures need.

This attractive girdle in pink coutil with adjustable back lace—reinforced front with inner diaphragm reducing band—three sets hose supporters—does the trick neatly and comfortably. Ask for Model 511. Sizes 26-42.

JOBE'S

Girdles Bandeaux Bodices

YOUR AUTOGRAPH

A splendid personalized
Gift long remembered.

You may have one, two or three initials in several styles and colors or you may have any signature copied exactly in white or color.

$3.50

$6.00

Is the price per dozen for ladies fine linen handkerchiefs in any width hem. Half dozen smallest quantity sold.

The dozen for men's pure linen kerkchiefs in any width hem. Half dozens if you wish boxed for giving.

JOBE'S

Movie Fashions

A series of fluted ruffles fashions the skirt of this charming rose chiffon evening gown worn by Bebe Daniels, screen star. The tiny cape over the arms develops into a capelet in back. A jacket of the same material, beaded in rhinestones and crystal teardrops, is worn with it.

VOTE

To Elect This Candidate

X Washday Freedom

He will free you from wasted drudgery and make you enjoy wash day.

Four Services

One For Every Family and Purse

WE USE
IVORY SOAP
EXCLUSIVELY

Kaiser Laundry Co.

Colorful Polly Ward Pajamas

Guaranteed Fast to Washing—to Sun—to Colors!

Fashion says, wear pajamas if you want to be in style. Tuck in or outside jacket effects. Youthful, colorful, serviceable. These ever fast materials are the finest ever. All sizes, all the best colors.

$1.95 and $2.95

JOBE'S

EDITORS NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin, for each, to cover cost of printing and mailing. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

FEATURES: Views and News Comment: EDITORIAL

The Gazette is published morning and evening except Sunday at the Gazette Building, South Detroit Street, Xenia, Ohio, by The Chew Publishing Company, Inc. Entered as second class matter under act of March 3, 1879 at the Postoffice, Xenia, Ohio.

Members of Ohio Select List Daily Newspapers. John W. Cullen Co. National Advertising Representatives; Chicago office, No. 8 S. Michigan Ave.; New York office, 501 Fifth Ave.; New York City; Detroit office General Motors Bldg.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES	1 Mo.	3 Mo.	6 Mo.	1 Yr.
in Greene County	$4.00	$10.00	$19.00	$35.00
Zones 1 and 2	.45	1.15	2.15	4.00
Zones 3, 4 and 5	.50	1.30	2.40	4.50
Zones 6 and 7	.55	1.45	2.65	5.00
Zone 8	.60	1.50	2.90	5.50

By carrier in Xenia, 15c Per Week, Single Copy, Three Cents

TELEPHONES
Advertising and Business Office 111
Editorial Department 70
Circulation Department 306

THE SPENDING REMEDY

It is widely felt, that if every family would proceed about now to spend a reasonable sum in addition to its usual costs, for things it is going to want in the near future, whatever business depression exists could be promptly ended. This appears to be true.

The majority of families have no considerable savings, and many of them are now saving more than usual, with the feeling that the future can not be foreseen, and they wish to have additional reserves ahead in case they should be out of work. People can not be blamed for taking that attitude.

A greater responsibility rests on the families that are in comfortable circumstances, to do something to make work for those who are idle. Families that have a comfortable reserve ought not to cut down their expenses at this time. If they would spend money with some liberality for things they are going to need before long, it would create a tremendous trade influence.

There is a certain obligation resting on people who have fared comfortably in life, to so handle their money that it will do the maximum of good. Just at present what is needed the most from such families is the anticipation of their wants, so as to remove something of the depression that hangs over the business world.

It is not desirable that people should spend such money extravagantly. But any family can find things that it is going to need in the near future. It will be good policy to buy those things now. They can in all probability be bought at less expense here than they can be purchased six months or a year from now. It will be good business, good co-operation, and good benevolence, to buy those things right off now. Better buy them before the Christmas rush comes on.

SHOOTING ACCIDENTS

As the hunting season comes on, one hears many reports of accidental shootings. The guns that weren't loaded go off. Nervous hunters blaze away at that moving object in the bushes, and it proves to be another hunter. Others handle their firearms carelessly as they climb over fences, and a companion is hit.

Firearms are dangerous things in the hands of people who have no caution. Yet some people handle them as if they were a child's popgun. They should be viewed with more respect. The careful sportsman knows their danger, and he has trained himself from his earliest hunting days to consider his gun first when he is out after game.

If people would only form the habit of care, it would become second nature to them to use such caution, and no one could ever look at them as the author of some bitter sorrow.

MUSICAL PRACTICE

Ignace Paderewski, famous pianist, complains of the people who have given up musical practice because of various other interests, and thinks that the possession of automobiles has done a great deal to divert people's minds from musical culture. Coming from a country like Poland, where motor cars are scarce, he naturally finds America, which is swarming with automobiles, a country where many people are too busy to cultivate musical skill.

It is unfortunate when people who have musical talent are thus diverted from developing it. To make a real musician, you have to catch him young. He should be hammering the keyboard or scratching the strings soon after emerging from infancy. If he is running around the country just as soon as he is permitted to drive a car, the musical gift may be crowded out of his life.

However, if the right of revolution is inalienable, or something of the sort, so is the right to nip revolutions in the bud whenever possible.

It would be a grand thing if some of the radio orators could work with receivers at their ears, bringing back their own words and tones.

Nobody has heard any of the organized gangsters approving of Mr. Wickersham's plan for restoration of the whipping post.

After looking at a few pictures of Herr Hitler we still are unable to understand why they call him Handsome Adolf.

Some modern artists instead of being content to hold the mirror up to nature, want to smash it in her face.

ALL of US

—By—

MARSHALL MASLIN

ADVICE TO GIRLS

Lady, don't listen to him!
Girls, stop your ears!

Pay no attention to him at all if he draws a long sigh and gets heavy-faced with grief, and begs you to love him with tears in his eyes, and sings that old song, "It All Depends on You—oo-o!"

If he drops his voice and croons in your ear:

"I could be beggar, I could be king,
I could be almost any old thing—
It all depends on YOU!"

Don't be serious with HIM. He may be all right on a picnic or on a dance floor, but not for marrying. Maybe he's right. Maybe he does depend on you. But let him depend on himself for a change!

It's flattering to have him sing that song, it makes you feel wonderful and maternal and everything. He could be happy, he could be proud; he could be sad, he could be glad—it all depends on you—but maybe you couldn't depend on HIM. . . . After about ten years he'll be saying that it still depends on you. He would have been a success, but you ruined him. You weren't the girl he thought you were. You didn't encourage him. You didn't understand him. You were a flop. It all depended on you and you ran out on him.

Am I harsh? Am I unsympathetic? Am I snitching? Do I fail to understand the gentler nature of some human beings. Maybe so, but I've been around enough to know that the lad who sings, "It All Depends on You" and really MEANS it, is a very bad bet. . . . It isn't just a song to him, he's telling the truth about himself and it's a very sad truth.

Listen to his sad, sweet song if you want—it makes a pleasant harmony under the stars—but don't believe a word he sings. You'll be sorry if you do.

Turn instead, Girl, to some sturdy fellow who can't sing a note, but can respect himself . . . who tells you he loves you and wishes you'd marry him . . . but you know that he does not love him and you won't marry him he'll try to get over it . . . he'll feel like the devil for a while, but his heart will not break though he'll always remember you and feel sort of sad about it . . . but after all, his happiness depends on HIMSELF.

Take that lad, you can depend on Him!

THE QUESTION BOX

—Central Press Wash. Bureau—

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What is the longest river in the world and what is its length?
The combined Mississippi-Missouri river, 4,221 miles, is the longest river in the world. It is followed closely by the Nile, in Africa, 4,000 miles in length, and the Amazon, South America, 3,900 miles.

The Hudson
Is the Hudson a salt or fresh water river and at what point does it empty into the ocean?
The Hudson is an estuary of the ocean, tide water affecting the river for 150 miles. It empties into New York bay, at New York City.

Booth
Does Evangeline Booth, the Salvation Army leader, live in the United States or England, and if the former, what is her address?
Evangeline Corry Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, lives in the United States. Her address is 120 W. 14th street, New York City.

National Debts
What are the national debts of some of the leading foreign nations?

Japan's national debt as of June 30, 1929, was 5,661 million yen; France, 292,900 million francs; Germany, 8,949,900,000 reichsmarks; Great Britain 7,716,024,047 pounds; Italy, 66,382 million lire; United States, $16,951,550,756.

Revolution
How many lives were lost on both sides during the battle of King's Mountain?

The British lost 250 killed and wounded and 664 prisoners, while the American force suffered a loss of 28 killed and 60 wounded.

Election Vote Total
What was the total vote in the presidential election of 1928?
The total vote for all candidates in the presidential election of 1928, including blank, void and defective ballots, was 38,879, 414. Of this total Herbert Hoover received 21,392,190 votes, and Alfred E. Smith 15,016,443.

Colonial Days
When was Thomas Dongan governor of New York, and what was the city like in those days?

Thomas Dongan was appointed governor of the province of New York in 1682, and held office until 1688, when he resigned to Sir Edmund Andros, whom the English king had named as head of the government of New England and New York. Dongan granted a charter to the city of New York, and one to the city of Albany, which still remains as the basis of its municipal rights. Just before Dongan's time New York was being fought over by the English and Dutch, the latter finally giving way in 1674. The population of the city in 1686 was given as 1,000, in 1698 as 4,937. A wooden wall, which was built by the Dutch, extended across the island to serve as a protection against the Indians. The wall was torn down in 1693, its line being marked by the present Wall Street.

(NOTE: The following pamphlets may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin and a large stamped self-addressed envelope for each to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C.—"Who's Who in Hollywood," "Who's Who in Washington," "Charles P. Stewart's treatise on 'Our Government,'" and "The World War.")

Bo-Broadway

—By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE—

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.—Second Avenue boasts a pawn shop with a window display of war medals scores of them, left there in the last ten years by heroes in quest of hash.

Speaking of hash: In "The Gun Club Book," by old Doc Browne, the bon vivant writes:

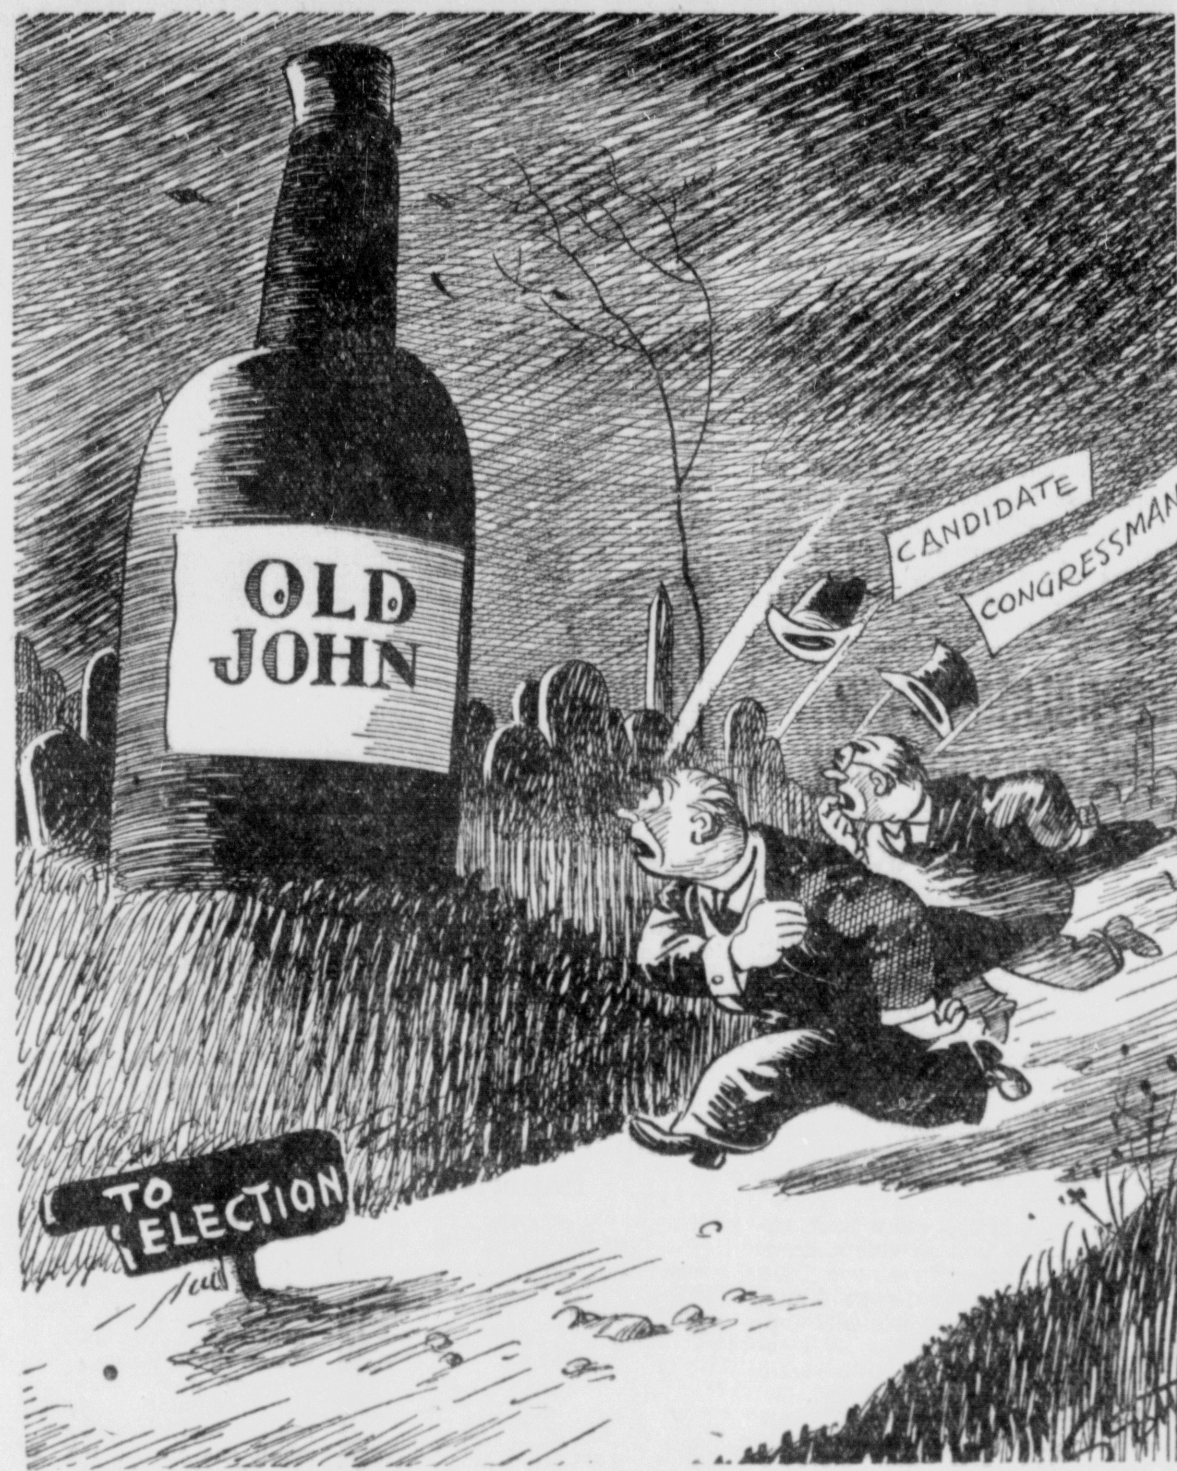

"The hash of the boarding house brought all the hashes into dispute."

What do you mean by that, Doc?

Hash hasn't been in disrepute for more than thirty years—since the days of the old New York Sun—when one of the geniuses in the editorial sanctum of the digby, red-brick office on Park Row, took a half-nelson on his stylus, and with the angel wings of inspiration brushing his brow, wrote thus: "Who can give to hash the multifarious praise or justice its myriad-sided virtues merit? Hash is the fifth element, the grand secret alchemy of the kitchen. It is the true, democratic, liberal, all-containing, composite, miscellaneous, catholic, Hash is a masterpiece of civility. Hash is the one and only, all-pervading, self-governing, independent, free and equal American dish. . . . It takes all other foods in its all-embracing arms. It is the generic name of food. . . . Democracy drips from that chunky and admirable word 'hash'."

Hash cheered the insides of porcers. Hash marched or sailed to prize schooners to the Pacific. Hash made the bone and muscle and brains of innumerable Americans. Hash, composed of everything, entered into the composition of all our men of energy. Mad Anthony Wayne, Israel Putnam, Andrew Jackson, George Rogers Clark, etc. Hash has made a good man. . . . Hash kills off the weaklings and fits the fittest for their careers. Hash is a duty when it is not a pleasure. Never forget that hash is not the food of heroes. Cheap snobs who turn up their noses at honest friend Hash will be suitably cut up and browned for their sin in a region where frying 'on the grid' is a specialty."

THE ROAD THROUGH THE GRAVEYARD

WEST VIRGINIA PARTIES UTILIZE PENNSYLVANIA AS LAST-MINUTE ISSUE

—CHARLES P. STEWART—

WASHINGTON.—Pennsylvania is a political state, but this is the first campaign, so far as records show, that its politics have exceeded what its own soil can absorb and overflowed into an adjoining commonwealth.

The inundation is affecting West Virginia. Just what the effect will be, however, as yet is problematical. Both West Virginia parties are trying to utilize it, each to its own advantage—like riparian land owners on opposite banks of a maddened stream, cutting levees against one another.

Yes, Pennsylvania is an issue in West Virginia. Maybe it will prove to be the deciding issue between James Ellwood Jones and Matthew M. Neely, striving to fish a panhandle state out of the flood, respectively from its Republican and Democratic shores.

Which one wins will depend on which one is cleverest in shooting the current disastrously over the other one's way, enabling the candidate who succeeds in doing so to wade into the slack water and rescue the flotsam for himself.

Pennsylvania and West Virginia both are coal states, as everyone doubtless knows.

West Virginia has long complained that Pennsylvania has much the better of railroad rates, in the marketing of its black diamonds. Naturally Pennsylvania mine operators profit thus at West Virginia operators' expense—assuming that such a state of affairs actually exists.

The West Virginians attribute their handicap, which they evidently believe in at any rate, to the supposed preponderance of the Pennsylvanians' influence in Washington.

They point out that: Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Secretary of Labor Davis both are Pennsylvanians, whereas West Virginia has no cabinet member at all.

Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the U. S. tariff commission is a Pennsylvanian, whereas West Virginia hasn't a tariff commissioner. Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania is chairman of the powerful senate committee on military affairs and is sent to Europe on naval conferences, whereas West Virginia's sole senate chairmanship is Senator Guy D. Goff's measly little chairmanship of the committee on the executive department's expenditures, and neither he nor Senator Henry D. Hatfield ever has been sent anywhere.

Not one single West Virginian is chairman of a house of representatives committee, whereas Congressman Louis T. McFadden, Henry W. Temple, Edgar R. Kieck, and George S. Graham, all of Pennsylvania, are chairmen, respectively of the committees on banking and currency, foreign affairs and judiciary, major committees, each one; plus Chairmen Guy E. Campbell and Edward M. Beers of the enrolled bills and printing committees, not quite so important—but still chairmanships.

Instances of this discrimination (if it is discrimination) are cited by West Virginians, running all through the federal departments—Pennsylvanians holding fat, consequential jobs, while West Virginians hold little peevish posts, if any, carrying no political weight with them whatever and mighty small pay.

It is true that the Interstate Commerce commission is the body that fixes coal-carrying rates, but the West Virginians express a suspicion that even the interstate commission is more or less amenable to influence—and their state possesses none, they howl, while Pennsylvania appears to possess it in unlimited quantities.

Now, all this may be pure imagination on the West Virginians' part, but they have that complex, anyway.

"Why not, then," urge the Neelys, addressing the West Virginia voters, "pass up the Republican party, which gives you practically nothing in return for G. O. P. majorities, and cast in your lot with Aunty Democracy, where you will be appreciated."

"James Ellwood Jones," reply the Republican spellbinders, "is a West Virginia coal mine owner himself. His heart will be in the task of throwing the hooks into these greedy Pennsylvanians."

If this were Europe, international experts would be talking about the prospects of war between West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

—By MRS. MARY MORTON—

MENU HINT

BREAKFAST
Grape Fruit, Cereal with Top Milk
Soft Boiled Eggs, Toast

LUNCHEON
Marmalade
Coffee or Cocoa

DINNER
Cream of Celery Soup, Crackers
Baked Apples, Whole Wheat Rolls

Milk
Broiled Steak, Mashed Potatoes
Creamed Onions, Cabbage Salad

Baked Custard, Tea

There is plenty of milk in the menu today. It has been said and adults give all too little thought to the use of milk in their diets, seemingly thinking that milk is one of the childish things that they must put away. Every adult should have at least one pint of milk in some form every day.

Today's Recipes
Baked Apple—Six large tart apples, one-fourth cup stoned dates, six tablespoons sugar. Wash and core the apples, but do not pare. Fill centers with three or four dates and the sugar, and place in a greased baking dish. Cover the bottom of the dish with water and bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, from 20 to 45 minutes, depending on the size and kind of apple.

Baked Custard—Two cups scalded milk, three eggs beaten slightly; four tablespoons sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon vanilla. Scald the milk in the top of a double boiler. Mix sugar, salt and vanilla with the egg, and combine with the milk. Pour into custard cups or a baking dish set in a deep pan of water. Poach in a slow oven, 200 degrees, until firm, about 40 minutes. A large custard may take an hour. Variations of plain custard are: Carmelize one-fourth cup sugar and add to three cups of the milk. Cocoa custard, substitute cocoa made for drinking of the milk. Fruit custard, cut dried fruit in fine pieces and add.

Suggestions
Creamy Fudge
Two cups sugar, two-thirds cup milk, two ounces bitter chocolate, two tablespoons light corn syrup, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon vanilla. Grate the chocolate so it will melt easily. Put the sugar, milk, chocolate and corn syrup in a saucepan and cook slowly, stirring till the sugar dissolves. Continue cooking, stirring often to prevent sticking, to 236 degrees. Remove from the fire and add the butter, without further stirring. When candy has cooled to lukewarm, 110 degrees, add vanilla and begin to beat. Continue beating until the fudge loses its shiny look and when a small amount dropped from the spoon will hold its shape. Pour into a cut in squares. Fudge containing corn syrup needs longer beating than other fudge. Be sure it has lost its sticky quality before putting it into the pan. It may be necessary to knead it to get it into the pan.

Doctor Gives Rules For Gaining

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A dietetic authority gave these ten rules for gaining weight:

1. Have a complete physical examination by a competent physician, to be sure there is no organic disorder causing your underweight.

2. Calm yourself. "Learn to accept the trivial annoyances and small misfits of life as a matter of course. To give them attention beyond their deserts is to wear the veil of your life to the warp." (Hubbard)

3. Sleep. Resistance is lowered as much by the lack of sufficient sleep as by another factor. All you can soak into your system in 24 hours is not too much. Fresh air, of course.

4. Exercise. Great muscular exercise should be avoided, but the ordinary setting-up exercises, begun with moderation and gradually increased, will stimulate appetite and help the body functions to be better performed.

5. Don't talk too much. Delete the details.

6. Have a rest period in the daytime, if possible.

7. Avoid tea, coffee, nicotine and other stimulants.

8. Eat. Count your calories. Gradually work up from 500 to 1,000 calories more than your maintenance diet if you want to gain from one-eighth to one-quarter of a pound a day. You should have a foundation diet and add gradually one half to one pint of cream; two to three egg yolks daily (high in iron and fat and vitamin A.); increase your butter, potatoes and other caloric foods.

9. Eat. Stretch your stomach! You will find that if your stomach is stretched to care for more food you will begin to care for it, too.

10. Eat.

The only criticism I have with this set of instructions is the emphasis laid on over-eating. As explained in yesterday's article, the constitutionally thin person does not necessarily gain when food is added to the diet. The most important part of the system is in the accessory factors, such as rest periods after eating and exercises to strengthen the abdominal muscles, thus creating conditions of extra need for food.

Particular instructions for the kind of food to eat are as follows: You should have five meals a day, as each one is small and you need extra nourishment.

The best foods for you are broiled tender meats, such as chicken, turkey, guinea fowl, steak, roast beef, bacon, lamb chops, oysters and fish. Avoid veal, broiled ham, pork and fried meat generally, as being tough and difficult to digest. Vegetables in any form except fried, soups, salad and light desserts are good. Have your bread toasted. Avoid spices, pickles, soggy puddings, tough articles, except oranges and grape fruit. (Other fruits should be cooked.) Drink a glass of cool cream in the middle of the morning, middle of the afternoon and before going to bed.

EDITOR'S NOTE: A new pamphlet, "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," by Dr. Clendenning, can be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 E. Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlet on "Hygiene of Women" also is available for 10 cents.)

Don't Tell Man's Wife Of Love

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I don't know if you can help me or not. I have been married 11 years and have a boy ten years old, and do not love my husband any more. He has given me reason to cease to love him.

"I met a man last year 16 years older than myself who is also married but isn't happy. I love him so much I am miserable. I was supposed to be a friend of his wife's, and now I realize how I have wronged her. I feel terrible and want to know if you think I should tell her. They don't live here any more, but I write to them both.

"I am almost crazy thinking of how mean I have been to his wife. I have never done anything so terribly wrong. I kissed him. He liked me to, but I am afraid after I let him kiss me and then continued to go to his home and visit his wife, that he doesn't like me any more since he has thought it over. I will always love him. Please advise.

"JUST JOE."
I wonder which worries you most, the fact that you have been mean to the man's wife or that he may have ceased to love you because you played the traitor, pretending to be friendly to her while you let the husband make love to you?

Why should you tell the man's wife and make her unhappy? It would shatter her faith in her husband and her friendship for you. It probably would make her mistrust all her other women friends and might even cause a separation between her and her husband. The only possible good thing it would bring about would be to cure him of making love to his wife's friends. He would dislike you as the cause of trouble at home which would make him uncomfortable. The wife might even tell YOUR husband, which, I presume would not be especially pleasing to you. So you see what a tempest it might cause.

Does he put his mother's wishes before yours? Or in what way does he show that he loves her best? Of course if you are thoroughly convinced of it you had better do as you say—not see him for awhile to see how he gets along without you.

Be Careful In Choosing Jewels

By GLADYS GLAD

VERY FEW women seem to realize how important a wise and careful selection of jewelry accessories is to beauty. Yet, carelessly or ignorantly selected ornaments have ruined more than one woman's appearance.

It is especially important that good judgment be used in the selection of necklaces, for a string of beads can seriously detract from or greatly enhance the beauty of the neck. The loveliness or value of the ornament will not excuse it if it does not suit you. The many-chained, portly dowager in her tight collar of diamonds, is just as guilty of poor judgment as the scrawny, thin-necked damsel in her long strand of cheap pearls.

For both women are merely accentuating the defects in their appearances. There are a few simple rules of line and color that must be followed if necklaces are to prove the beauty assets they were designed to be. If you have a neck that is not pretty, or is no longer young, do not wear beads that attract attention to your neck by their size or coloring. Choose subdued colors. Never wear red beads.

If your neck is long and scrawny, do not wear long strands of beads. Choose those that fit the neck closely. The choker type of necklace will help to conceal the stringy, bony area where the neck meets the shoulders and chest, and will shorten the long lines and round out the thin contours of the neck. If you have a short, fat neck, never wear large beads. Avoid collar or choker effects. Wear a necklace that falls into long oval or pointed lines. Such an ornament will aid in making your neck appear longer and more slender.

Be sure that the color of your necklace becomes you, and harmonizes with your coloring. If you are in any doubt as to what sort of necklace to wear, the safest rule is to choose pearls. With the dead black, or the black and white costumes that are now so fashionable, pearls are usually a perfect combination.

ment will aid in making your neck appear longer and more slender. Be sure that the color of your necklace becomes you, and harmonizes with your coloring. If you are in any doubt as to what sort of necklace to wear, the safest rule is to choose pearls. With the dead black, or the black and white costumes that are now so fashionable, pearls are usually a perfect combination.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES
Limbering Exercises
Frankie: The limbering exercises given in gymnastic and dancing schools will make your body pliant and flexible. They will also add grace to your movements.

Light Hair
Karlene: Bleaches tend to make the hair dry and brittle. The egg shampoo is excellent to help keep hair from turning darkening. The method of administering this shampoo is contained in detail in my "Beauty Culture" booklet.

Egg Pack
Elizabeth Baker: I personally think that the yolk of an egg is far superior to the white for a face mask. This mask may be left on the skin over night if you wish it.

EDITORS NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin, for each. To cover cost of printing and mailing. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

Next: "Just in Time"

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Xenia Central's football team faces an erratic Troy High eleven at Cox Field Friday afternoon in the fifteenth game between the two schools since 1916.

The two schools have met annually without a break in football during the last fourteen years. Xenia has succeeded in winning five games while Troy has won three. The last game between the two schools was a tie, 0-0, in 1916.

Here are the scores of Xenia-Troy games since 1916:

1916-Xenia, 0; Troy, 65.
1917-Xenia, 13; Troy, 7.
1918-Xenia, 0; Troy, 0.
1919-Xenia, 13; Troy, 19.
1920-Xenia, 0; Troy, 33.
1921-Xenia, 16; Troy, 0.
1922-Xenia, 7; Troy, 0.
1923-Xenia, 0; Troy, 15.
1924-Xenia, 0; Troy, 48.
1925-Xenia, 0; Troy, 6.
1926-Xenia, 26; Troy, 0.
1927-Xenia, 0; Troy, 21.
1928-Xenia, 6; Troy, 0.
1929-Xenia, 0; Troy, 39.
1930-Xenia, 7; Troy, 7.

Going to bat with predictions on the outcome of twenty-nine football games over the week-end, Bill Clemans had a rather trying time of it. He had fifteen winners and six losers and eight games—an amazing number—ended in ties.

Many of the draws may be characterized as distinct upsets. Bill had these winners: Notre Dame, 27; Indiana, 0; Purdue, 25; Illinois, 0; Northwestern, 27; Minnesota, 7; Ohio U., 48; Cincinnati, 0; Ohio Wesleyan, 41; W. Reserve, 14; Miami, 48; Ashland, 0; Heidelberg, 45; Ohio Northern, 0; Wooster, 14; Case, 12; Wittenberg, 7; Marshall, 0; Army, 33; N. Dakota, 6.

Navy, 37; W. Va. Wesleyan, 14; Marquette, 6; Boston College, 0; Leola (N. C.), 27; Xavier, 6; Fordham, 18; West Virginia, 2; Colgate, 24; Mississippi, 0.

Bill missed on these games: Texas, 25; S. Methodist, 7; Georgetown, 14; Michigan State, 13; New York U., 20; Carnegie, 7; Pennsylvania, 21; Kansas, 6; Duke, 12; Villanova, 6; Columbia, 10; Cornell, 7.

These games ended in ties: Ohio State, 0; Wisconsin, 0; Princeton, 0; Chicago, 0; Pittsburgh, 0; Nebraska, 0; Dayton, 6; Transylvania, 6; Yale, 0; Dartmouth, 0; Brown, 16; Syracuse, 16; Harvard, 13; William and Mary, 13; Florida, 0; Georgia, 0.

The second-place Schmidt Oil Co., with an unbroken record of nine straight games won, sliced the advantage of the league-leading Greene County Lumber Co. quintet to a mere one game in the Recreation League last week, thanks to the Red Wing Co., which accomplished the hitherto impossible feat of beating the league champions two out of three games.

It will be a battle for survival this week among the four leading teams as the Gr. Co. L. Co. faces the American Legion Tuesday night and the Schmidt Oil Co. and Red Wing Co. cut each other's throats so to speak Thursday eve. The Xenia Shoes and Lang Chevrolet met Monday night.

In the City League the Krippendorf Shoes have a two-game advantage with the other three teams closely bunched.

Standing in the Recreation League:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Gr. Co. L. Co.	21	3	.875
Schmidt Oil Co.	20	4	.833
Red Wing Co.	14	10	.583
American Legion	12	12	.500
Xenia Shoes	4	20	.166
Lang Chevrolet	1	23	.041

Standing in the City League:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Krippendorf	11	7	.611
Carroll-Binder	9	9	.500
American Legion	8	10	.444
Central Acceptance	8	10	.444

Polls, Politics Mix

With vindication as the keynote of his campaign, J. R. Brinkley, owner of the Brinkley hospital, at Milford, Kas., and radio station KFKB, independent candidate for governor, has both political parties in Kansas worried. When his medical license was revoked because it was alleged he made misrepresentations concerning the use of goat glands and other practices, Brinkley announced his candidacy, promising, among other things, free medicine to his thousands of followers.

PIQUA STILL LEADS LOOP; MIAMISBURG HIGH IS RUNNER-UP

Leader Loses Non-League Game; Burg Beats Sidney

Three-fifths of the schedule in the Miami Valley League has been completed and Piqua Central High's football team, with three victories to its credit, is still the only unbeaten team in the circuit. Two league games were played last week. Xenia and Greenville, the only teams which have not won a league game, battled to a 6 to 6 tie Friday, while Miamisburg, as expected, beat Sidney, 7 to 0 Saturday and the Burgers are now in second place.

Playing a non-league game Saturday, Piqua's fourteen-game winning streak, which began with the opening of the 1929 season, was finally shattered by Lima South's gridders at Lima when the "Tigers" forward passed their way to a 12 to 7 victory in the last two minutes of play.

Troy High also played a non-league game and was held to a 6 to 6 tie by Tipp City Saturday. Tipp City had a big edge in the first half and the Trojans just as decisively outplayed their opponents in the second half.

Two league tilts are on the program this week. Troy appears in Xenia Friday and Piqua invades Miamisburg Saturday. The Indians, by defeating the Burgers, can virtually clinch their second straight championship. Here is the league standing with points scored by and against each team:

Team	W.	L.	Tie	Pct.	P.	O.
Piqua	3	0	0	1.000	82	7
Miamisburg	2	1	0	.667	19	6
Troy	1	1	1	.500	12	13
Sidney	1	2	0	.333	13	37
Greenville	0	1	2	.000	6	39
Xenia	0	2	1	.000	13	43

MIAMISBURG BEATS SIDNEY IN LEAGUE CONTEST SATURDAY

Fumble Gives Break To Winners Though Outplayed

Capitalizing on its one and only scoring chance, Miamisburg High administered a 7 to 0 defeat to Sidney High in a Miami Valley League tilt on the Burger gridiron Saturday.

The Burgers recovered a fumble on the Sidney forty-yard line in the third period and marched down the field for a touchdown. Hipper plunged over the line and a pass to Hadley added the extra point. Sidney registered ten first downs as compared with five for Miamisburg but never seriously threatened to score. Douglass and Redinbo were the offensive stars for Sidney and Hadley showed up well for the Burgers. Lineups and summary:

Miamisburg	Pos.	Sidney
Hadley	E.	Mauer
Wolff	L.T.	Stephen (C)
Stevens	L.G.	DeWeese
Kuhn	R.G.	Wooley
Freshner	R.	Claus
Heiner	R.T.	Wright
Capper (C)	R.E.	Schlagetter
Weaver	H.B.	Bonham
Kurtz	H.B.	Kritzer
Shank	H.B.	Douglass
Hipper	F.B.	Redinbo

Score by periods:

Miamisburg	0	0	7	0	7
Sidney	0	0	0	0	0

Touchdown—Hipper; point after touchdown—Hadley (pass); referee—Harvey Schwab; umpire—Matheeny; headlineman—Schenck.

POLLS OPEN AT 6:30; VOTING PLACES FOR XENIA CITY LISTED

Polls will open at 6:30 a. m. and close at 6:30 p. m. on election day Tuesday. It is announced by Earl Short, clerk of the board of elections.

No changes are announced in the list of voting places in the fourteen precincts in Xenia. The complete list of polling places follows:

FIRST WARD

Precinct 1—Pete Pratt's grocery, W. Main St.
Precinct 2—Miss Anna Comfort, Cincinnati Ave.
Precinct 3—Thomas Cobb, Center St.

SECOND WARD

Precinct 4—Greene County Lumber Co., N. Detroit St.
Precinct 5—J. H. Dakin Bldg., Market and Detroit Sts.
Precinct 6—Seminary Bldg., W. Third St.
Precinct 7—M. E. Davis grocery High St.

THIRD WARD

Precinct 8—City Bldg.
Precinct 9—Regil Hotel.
Precinct 10—Miss Mabel Collins, 687 S. Detroit St.
Precinct 11—Orient Hill School Bldg.

FOURTH WARD

Precinct 12—Wade Allen, E. Church St.
Precinct 13—A. J. Fishback's E. Main St.
Precinct 14—Mrs. Summers, E. Main St.

LONG, HARD WINTER

PRICE Cummings, Bellbrook Ave., was before Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Monday morning on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, to which he pleaded guilty.

"I will fine you $25 and costs but next time it will be $50 and costs," warned Judge Smith.

"I don't care if you make it $50 and costs now," retorted the prisoner.

"I will," said his honor. And he did.

GOOD FOOTBALL

By JACK ELDER

Your man is blocked—and stays blocked!

DRIVE OFF OF RIGHT FOOT

KEEP ARM IN CLOSE TO BODY

THROW BODY ACROSS OPPONENT'S KNEES

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the ninth of a series of articles on "Good Football," written through the Central Press Association for this newspaper by Jack Elder, former Notre Dame gridiron star.

By JACK ELDER

Ex-Notre Dame Football Star Now Central Press Football Writer

Clipping from behind, one of the most dangerous and most severely punished form of blocking, is the act of throwing the body across the back of the legs of an opponent who is out in the open field.

But this deed, which is so bitterly frowned upon by the officials, when performed from the front is perfectly legal, and if done so successfully as to cut an opponent down and out of the play is considered fine blocking.

Coaches like to see good blockers on the team and spend hours and hours trying to develop men who can block well. And when they do find a man who is capable of upsetting the opposing end as he comes charging in, part of their worry is over, for a man of this sort is an invaluable aid to any team.

There have been great backs whose names have been glorified because of the fine blocking of the men forming their interference. These blockers got little or no credit, when they really deserved it, for anybody with legs can run down a field with the ball after all would-be tacklers have been removed by the interference.

The shoulder block has been discussed so we will now consider the high back block and the rolling body block.

The high back block is one of the easiest blocks to use. It is really the turning of the back to the charging opponent as shown in the picture, so that he cannot get at the ball carrier or passer.

Keep the arm nearest the blocked man against the ribs so you will not be injured by his knees.

Drive off the right foot, as in the photo, and keep pushing him backward until he is out of the play.

The rolling body block, used out in the open when running interference, is the throwing of the body at your opponents legs just above the knees with the arm against the side for protection, and at the same time rolling the body over so as to cut the tackler down.

As the picture shows, dive off the right leg, aiming to hit the tackler with your hips. Keep rolling over so that the force of the blow will knock him off his feet and out of the play.

Remember that it is your place to clear the path for the ball carrier, and, too, A GOOD INTERFERER NEVER LOOKS BACK.

NEXT: Falling on the Ball.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Most of the active stocks started the new week at lower price levels, but the early reactions of a point or less were easily recovered before the end of the first hour, and the general level of prices showed a slight advance over Saturday's close.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price range. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

QUOTATIONS

New York stock market quotations received from W. E. Hutton and Co., Mutual Home Bldg., Dayton, at 2:50 p. m. daily:

Yes: To-day

American Can ..... 114 1/4

Am. Rolling Mill ..... 35 1/2

Anaconda Copper ..... 35 1/4

A. T. & T. .... 195 1/2

Bethlehem Steel ..... 70 1/2

Col. G. and E. .... 42 1/4

Continental Can ..... 49

Gen. Foods ..... 51 1/2

General Motors ..... 34 1/4

Grigsby-Grunow ..... 5

Hudson Motors ..... 18 1/2

Kroger ..... 23 1/2

Packard ..... 8 1/2

Penn. R. R. .... 65 1/2

Prairie Oil and Gas ..... 2 1/2

Proctor and Gamble ..... 66 1/2

Radio Corp. .... 19 1/2

Sears-Roebuck ..... 48 1/2

Servel Inc. .... 4 1/2

Sinclair Oil ..... 18 1/2

Standard of N. Y. .... 26 1/2

Standard of N. J. .... 53 1/2

Studebaker ..... 20 1/2

United Aircraft ..... 31 1/2

U. S. Steel ..... 145 1/2

Warner Bros. .... 19 1/2

Woolworth ..... 63

Cities Service ..... 23 1/2

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

Conquers Europe

GIRL SCOUTS

of America

Regular meeting of Blue Bell Troop No. 1, Girl Scouts of America, will be held at the Court House Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

MARKETS

LIVE STOCK

CINCINNATI, Nov. 3.—Hogs: 3,475, including 1,075 direct; hold-over, none; market, moderately active, 15 to 25 cents higher, mostly 15c higher on desirable 200-250 lb. butchers at $9.50; few short loads and odd lots, $9.60; 180-200 lb., $9.25; 9.50; 160-180 lb., mostly $9; 120-150 lb. averages, $8.75; mostly $9 on 130 lb. up; sows, steady to strong; spots 25c higher; bulk, $7.75 to mostly $8; few smooth lightweights, $8.25.

Cattle: 1,650; 540 holdover; calves, 400; market, fairly active; steers and heifers mostly 25 to 50 cents higher; medium weight steers, $7.50 to $8.50; common kinds down to $5; other classes generally steady; most beef cows, $4.25 to $5.50; low cutters and cutters, $5.50 down; vealers, steady; good and choice, $10.50 to $12; lower grades, $10 down.

Sheep: 300; market, generally steady; better grade lambs, $7.50 to $8; common and medium, $5.65 to $6; fat ewes, $2 to $3.

Receipts: Saturday: cattle 237, calves 27, hogs 810, sheep 18.

Shipments: Saturday: cattle 195, hogs 330, sheep 172.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Hogs: receipts, 45,000; mkt. 10@15c hr; wt. $9.40; bulk, $8.90 to $9.30; heavy wt., $9.10 to $9.40; medium weight, $9.40; light weight, $8.75 to $9.15; light lights, $8.60 to $9; packing sows, $7.50 to $8.50; pigs, $8.25 to $9; hold-overs, 10,000.

Cattle: receipts, 15,000; market, steady; beef steers: good and choice, $10 to $12.50; common and medium, $9 to $9.50; yearlings, $8 to $9; butcher cattle: heifers, $5 to $6; calves, $9 to $11; feeder steers, $6 to $8.50; stocker steers, $5.50 to $8; stocker cows and heifers, $4 to $7; western range cattle: beef steers, $

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Xenia Central's football team faces an erratic Troy High eleven during the last fourteen years. Xenia has succeeded in winning five games while Troy teams have captured eight titles and one game ended scoreless for each team.

The two schools have met annually without a break in football during the last fourteen years. Xenia has succeeded in winning five games while Troy teams have captured eight titles and one game ended scoreless for each team.

Here are the scores of Xenia-Troy games since 1916:
1916—Xenia, 0; Troy, 55.
1917—Xenia, 13; Troy, 7.
1918—Xenia, 0; Troy, 0.
1919—Xenia, 13; Troy, 19.
1920—Xenia, 0; Troy, 23.
1921—Xenia, 16; Troy, 0.
1922—Xenia, 7; Troy, 0.
1923—Xenia, 0; Troy, 45.
1924—Xenia, 0; Troy, 18.
1925—Xenia, 0; Troy, 6.
1926—Xenia, 26; Troy, 0.
1927—Xenia, 0; Troy, 21.
1928—Xenia, 6; Troy, 39.
1929—Xenia, 0; Troy, 39.
1930—Xenia, 7; Troy, 7.

Going to bat with predictions on the outcome of twenty-nine football games over the week-end, Bill Clemens had a rather trying time of it. He had fifteen winners and six losers and eight games—an amazing number—ended in tie scores. Many of the draws may be characterized as distinct upsets. Bill had these winners:

Notre Dame, 27; Indiana, 0.
Purdue, 25; Illinois, 0.
Northwestern, 27; Minnesota, 7.
Ohio U., 48; Cincinnati, 0.
Ohio Wesleyan, 41; W. Reserve, 14.
Miami, 48; Ashland, 0.
Heidelberg, 45; Ohio Northern, 0.
Wooster, 14; Case, 12.
Wittenberg, 7; Marshall, 0.
Army, 33; N. Dakota, 6.
Navy, 37; W. Va., Wesleyan, 14.
Marquette, 6; Boston College, 0.
Loyola (N. O.), 27; Xavier, 6.
Fordham, 18; West Virginia, 2.
Colgate, 34; Transylvania, 0.
Yale, 9; Dartmouth, 0.
Brown, 16; Syracuse, 16.
Harvard, 12; William and Mary, 13.
Florida, 0; Georgia, 0.

BOWLING

The second-place Schmidt Oil Co., with an unbroken record of nine straight games won, sliced the advantage of the league-leading Greene County Lumber Co. quiet to a mere one game in the Recreation League last week, thanks to the Red Wing Co., which accomplished the hitherto impossible feat of beating the league champions two out of three games. It will be a battle for survival this week among the four leading teams as the Gr. Co. L. Co. faces the American Legion Tuesday night and the Schmidt Oil Co. and Red Wing Co. cut each other's throats so to speak Thursday eve. The Xenia Shamrocks and Lang Chevrolet meet Monday night.

In the City League the Krippendorf Shoes have a two-game advantage with the other three teams closely bunched.

Standing in the Recreation League:
Team W. L. Pct.
Gr. Co. L. Co. .... 21 3 875
Schmidt Oil Co. .... 20 4 833
Red Wing Co. .... 14 10 583
American Legion .... 12 12 500
Xenia Shoes .... 4 20 166
Lang Chevrolet .... 1 23 411

Standing in the City League:
Team W. L. Pct.
Krippendorf .... 11 7 611
Carroll-Binder .... 9 9 500
American Legion .... 8 10 444
Central Acceptance .... 8 10 444

Pills, Politics Mix

With vindication as the keynote of his campaign, J. R. Brinkley, owner of the Brinkley hospital, at Milford, Kas., and radio station KFKB, independent candidate for governor, has both political parties in Kansas worried. When his medical license was revoked because it was alleged he made misrepresentations concerning the use of goat glands and other practices, Brinkley announced his candidacy, promising, among other things, free medicine to his thousands of followers.

PIQUA STILL LEADS LOOP; MIAMISBURG HIGH IS RUNNER-UP

Leader Loses Non-League Game; Burg Beats Sidney

Three-fifths of the schedule in the Miami Valley League has been completed and Piqua Central High's football team, with three victories to its credit, is still the only unbeaten team in the circuit. Two league games were played last week. Xenia and Greenville, the only teams which have not won a league game, battled to a 6 to 6 tie Friday, while Miamisburg, as expected, beat Sidney, 7 to 0 Saturday and the Burgers are now in second place.

Playing a non-league game Saturday, Piqua's fourteen-game winning streak, which began with the opening of the 1929 season, was finally shattered by Lima South's gridders at Lima when the "Tigers" forward passed their way to a 12 to 7 victory in the last two minutes of play.

Troy High also played a non-league game and was held to a 6 to 6 tie by Tipp City Saturday. Tipp City had a big edge in the first half and the Trojans just as decisively outplayed their opponents in the second half.

Two league tilts are on the program this week. Troy appears in Xenia Friday and Piqua invades Miamisburg Saturday. The Indians, by defeating the Burgers, can virtually clinch their second straight championship. Here is the league standing with points scored by and against each team:

Team	W.	L.	Tie	Pct.	P.	O.
Piqua	3	0	0	1.000	19	6
Miamisburg	2	1	0	.667	19	6
Troy	1	1	0	.500	12	13
Sidney	1	2	0	.333	13	37
Greenville	0	1	2	.000	6	39
Xenia	0	2	1	.000	13	43

Capitalizing on its one and only scoring chance, Miamisburg High administered a 7 to 0 defeat to Sidney High in a Miami Valley League tilt on the Burger gridiron Saturday.

The Burgers recovered a fumble on the Sidney forty-yard line in the third period and marched down the field for a touchdown. Hippert plunged over the line and a pass to Hadley added the extra point.

Sidney registered ten first downs as compared with five for Miamisburg but never seriously threatened to score. Douglass and Redinbo were the offensive stars for Sidney and Hadley showed up well for the Burgers. Lineups and summary:

Miamisburg	Pos.	Sidney
Hadley	L. E.	Mauer
Wolf	L. T.	Stephen (C)
Stevens	L. G.	DeWiese
Kuhn	R. G.	Woolery
Feshner	R. T.	Wright
Heimer	R. E.	Schlagetter
Capper (C)	R. E.	Bonham
Weaver	Q. B.	Kritzer
Kurtz	H. B.	Douglass
Shank	H. B.	Redinbo
Hippert	F. B.	Redinbo

Score by periods:
Miamisburg 0 0 7 0-7
Sidney 0 0 0 0-0
Touchdown—Hippert; point after touchdown—Hadley (pass); referee—Harvey Schwab; umpire—Matheny; headlinesman—Schneek.

POLLS OPEN AT 6:30; VOTING PLACES FOR XENIA CITY LISTED

Polls will open at 6:30 a. m. and close at 6:30 p. m. on election day Tuesday. It is announced by Earl Short, clerk of the board of elections.

No changes are announced in the list of voting places in the fourteen precincts in Xenia. The complete list of polling places follows:

FIRST WARD

Precinct 1—Pete Pratt's grocery, W. Main St.
Precinct 2—Miss Anna Comfort, Cincinnati Ave.
Precinct 3—Thomas Cobb, Center St.

SECOND WARD

Precinct 4—Greene County Lumber Co., N. Detroit St.
Precinct 5—J. H. Dakin Bldg., Market and Detroit Sts.
Precinct 6—Seminary Bldg., W. Third St.
Precinct 7—M. E. Davis grocery, High St.

THIRD WARD

Precinct 8—City Bldg.
Precinct 9—Regill Hotel.
Precinct 10—Miss Mabel Collins, 687 S. Detroit St.
Precinct 11—Orient Hill School Bldg.

FOURTH WARD

Precinct 12—Wade Allen, E. Church St.
Precinct 13—A. J. Fishback's E. Main St.
Precinct 14—Mrs. Summers, E. Main St.

LONG, HARD WINTER

PRICE Cummings, Bellbrook Ave., was before Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Monday morning on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, to which he pleaded guilty.

"I will fine you $25 and costs but next time it will be $50 and costs," warned Judge Smith. "I don't care if you make it $50 and costs now," retorted the prisoner. "I will," said his honor. And he did.

GOOD FOOTBALL

By JACK ELDER

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the ninth of a series of articles on "Good Football," written through the Central Press Association for this newspaper by Jack Elder, former Notre Dame gridiron star.

By JACK ELDER
Ex-Notre Dame Football Star
Now Central Press Football Writer

Clipping from behind, one of the most dangerous and most severely punished form of blocking, is the act of throwing the body across the back of the legs of an opponent who is out in the open field.

But this deed, which is so bitterly frowned upon by the officials, when performed from the front is perfectly legal, and if done so successfully as to cut an opponent down and out of the play is considered fine blocking.

Coaches like to see good blockers on the team and spend hours and hours trying to develop men who can block well. And when they find a man who is capable of upsetting the opposing end as he comes charging in, part of their worry is over, for a man of this sort is an invaluable aid to any team.

There have been great backs whose names have been glorified because of the fine blocking of the men forming their interference. These blockers got little or no credit, when they really deserved it all, for anybody with legs can run down a field with the ball after all would-be tacklers have been removed by the interference.

The shoulder block has been discussed so we will now consider the high back block and the rolling body block.

The high back block is one of the easiest blocks to use. It is really the turning of the back to the charging opponent as shown in the picture, so that he cannot get at the ball carrier or passer.

Keep the arm nearest the blocked man against the ribs so you will not be injured by his knees.

Drive off the right foot, as in the photo, and keep pushing him backward until he is out of the play.

The rolling body block, used out in the open when running interference, is the throwing of the body at your opponents legs just above the knees with the arm against the side for protection, and at the same time rolling the body over so as to cut the tackler down.

As the picture shows, dive off the right leg, aiming to hit the tackler with your hips. Keep rolling over so that the force of the blow will knock him off his feet and out of the play.

Remember that it is your place to clear the path for the ball carriers, and, too, A GOOD INTERFERER NEVER LOOKS BACK.

Next: Falling on the Ball.

XENIA MERCHANTS NOSE OUT DAYTON GUARDS WITH LONG PASS

Bump! The ball, hit squarely by the toe of Halfback Joe Anderson's cleft football shoe, soared upward from about the thirteen-yard line. It described an arc and passed neatly over and exactly between the goal posts at one end of Triangle Park at Dayton Sunday afternoon.

This valuable point after touchdown in the fourth quarter was the margin by which the Xenia Merchants football team, out-weighted thirty pounds to a man, defeated the heavy Dayton Guards semi-pro eleven, 7 to 6 in an astonishing upset.

Xenia's winning touchdown, which enabled the local eleven to remain undefeated this season, did not materialize until the closing minutes of play when Joe Smith, shifted from a tackle position to the backfield, heaved a beautiful pass fifty-five yards down the field "Bulldog" Smith, who stepped the remaining ten yards across the goal line after cleverly evading several tacklers.

Everything hinged on the extra point as the touchdown only tied the score. Joe Anderson brought victory to his team with a perfect kick from placement.

The Dayton marker came on the first play of the game from scrimmage. The Guards kicked off to the Merchants, who fumbled, and on the initial play Otto Schieners, outstanding defensive and offensive star of the Dayton eleven, broke loose on a thirty-eight yard run for a touchdown. The extra point was not added which proved a costly error for the husky Gem City outfit.

The Guards' line, averaging 210 pounds, was all that it was cracked up to be and the Legion backfield could not penetrate the forward wall. Dayton registered fifteen first downs as compared with two for the Xenia eleven, both of the Merchant first downs coming on forward passes.

The Guards threatened in the fourth period but Xenia halted the advance on its own eight-yard line. Xenia also registered an apparent touchdown in the second half when Pino Perrine, end, intercepted a pass on his own twenty and ran eighty yards across the goal line, but the play was called back on a penalty.

Joe Anderson at halfback played his usual outstanding game, especially on defense. He played defensive end and offensive half and was in almost every play, several times spilling ball carriers who were in the open and goalward bound.

Joe Smith was stationed at tackle in the first half and also played a bang-up game. He did not play in the third period but in the final quarter was transferred because of the fine blocking of the men forming their interference.

These blockers got little or no credit, when they really deserved it all, for anybody with legs can run down a field with the ball after all would-be tacklers have been removed by the interference.

The shoulder block has been discussed so we will now consider the high back block and the rolling body block.

The high back block is one of the easiest blocks to use. It is really the turning of the back to the charging opponent as shown in the picture, so that he cannot get at the ball carrier or passer.

Keep the arm nearest the blocked man against the ribs so you will not be injured by his knees.

Drive off the right foot, as in the photo, and keep pushing him backward until he is out of the play.

The rolling body block, used out in the open when running interference, is the throwing of the body at your opponents legs just above the knees with the arm against the side for protection, and at the same time rolling the body over so as to cut the tackler down.

As the picture shows, dive off the right leg, aiming to hit the tackler with your hips. Keep rolling over so that the force of the blow will knock him off his feet and out of the play.

Remember that it is your place to clear the path for the ball carriers, and, too, A GOOD INTERFERER NEVER LOOKS BACK.

Next: Falling on the Ball.

CONQUERS EUROPE

After conquering the musical critics of Italy, Miss Jean Tennyson, 24, blonde descendant of Lord Tennyson, is returning to her home in New York City. She gave her roles a new interpretation and, after 15 performances, Venice accepted her conception of Mimi, in "La Boheme," as a new artistic revelation.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

GET RADIO RETURNS

State-wide returns on Tuesday's election will be received Tuesday night over a radio installed in a room on W. Main st., used as campaign headquarters by the Republican organization in Greene County. It is announced. Xenians are invited to visit the Republican headquarters and listen to the broadcast of the election results over the state.

RECEIPTS GAIN

Receipts at the Xenia Post Office during October showed a gain of $654.79 over the corresponding month last year, according to Postmaster C. S. Frazer's monthly financial statement. Postal revenue in October 1929, amounted to $4,047.14 as compared with a total of $3,392.35 for October, 1929.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Most of the active stocks started the new week at lower price levels, but the early reactions of a point or less were easily recovered before the end of the first hour, and the general level of prices showed a slight advance over Saturday's closing.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

United States Steel, American Can and other favorites moved within an extremely narrow price radius. Utility stocks eased off a point at the opening, and recovered their lost ground. The stock tickers were practically at a standstill in the second hour, and trading in all sections of the markets the dullness in a month or more.

There were few important developments in the business world over the week-end, and traders were not inclined to commit themselves on either side of the market on the pre-holiday market, particularly with the national and state elections pending. Reports on employment conditions were encouraging, a number of the well-known industrial concerns announcing the return of thousands of workmen who had been laid off earlier in the year.

GIRL SCOUTS of America

Regular meeting of Blue Bell Troop No. 1, Girl Scouts of America, will be held at the Court House Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

MARKETS LIVE STOCK

CINCINNATI, Nov. 3.—Hogs: 3,475, including 1,075 direct; hold-over, none; market, moderately active, 15 to 25 cents higher, mostly 15c higher on desirable 200-250 lb. butchers at $9.50; few short loads and odd lots, $9.60; 180-200 lb., $9.55; 160-180 lb., mostly $9.12-150 lb. averages, $8.75; mostly $9 on 130 lb. up; sows, steady to strong; spots 25c higher; bulk, $7.75 to mostly $8; few smooth lightweights, $8.25.

Cattle: 1,650; 540 heldover; calves, 400; market, fairly active; steers and heifers mostly 25 to 50 cents higher; medium weight steers, $7.50 to $8.50; common kinds down to $5; other classes generally steady; most beef cows, $4.25 to $5.50; low cutters and cutters, strong $2.50 to $3.75; bulls, draggy, $5.50 down; vealers, steady; good and choice, $10.50 to $12; lower grades, $10 down.

Sheep: 300; market, generally steady; better grade lambs, $7.50 to $8; common and medium, $5 to $6.50; fat ewes, $2 to $3.

Receipts: Saturday: cattle 237, calves 27, hogs 810, sheep 18. Shipments: Saturday: cattle 195, hogs 339, sheep 172.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Hogs: receipts, 45,000; mkt. 100 lb. hr; top $9.40; bulk, $8.90 to $9.30; heavy wt., $9.10 to $9.40; medium weight, $9.00 to $9.40; light weight, $8.75 to $9.15; light lights, $8.50 to $9.00; packing sows, $7.50 to $8.50; pigs, $8.25 to $9; hold-overs 10,000.

Cattle: receipts, 15,000; market, 25c higher; calves: receipts, 3,000; market, steady; beef steers: good and choice, $10.00 to $12.50; common and medium, $6.00 to $9.5

Use the TELEPHONE

Try The Classifieds For Quick Results

Find - Buy - Sell - Trade - Rent - Lease Or Invest Through These Columns

Use the TELEPHONE

Classified Advertising THE GAZETTE

IS THE MEDIUM

through which the general public can always have its wants supplied. THE GAZETTE will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of an advertisement. Notice of errors, typographical or otherwise, must be given in time for correction before next insertion. Advertisements are restricted to proper classification style and type. THE GAZETTE reserves the right to edit or reject any advertisement.

Closing time for classified advertisement publication the same day is 9:30 a. m.

- ANNOUNCEMENTS
- 1 Card of Thanks.
  - 2 In Memoriam.
  - 3 Florists; Monuments.
  - 4 Taxi Service.
  - 5 Notices, Meetings.
  - 6 Personal.
  - 7 Lost and Found.

- BUSINESS CARDS
- 8 Cleaning, Pressing, Laundering.
  - 9 Dressmaking, Millinery.
  - 10 Beauty Culture.
  - 11 Professional Services.
  - 12 Roofing, Plumbing, Heating.
  - 13 Electricians, Wiring.
  - 14 Building, Contracting.
  - 15 Painting, Papering.
  - 16 Repairing, Refinishing.
  - 17 Commercial Hauling, Storage.

- EMPLOYMENT
- 18 Help Wanted—Male.
  - 19 Help Wanted—Female.
  - 20 Help Wanted—Male or Female.
  - 21 Help Wanted—Agents, Salesmen.
  - 22 Situations Wanted.
  - 23 Help Wanted—Instruction.

- LIVE STOCK—POULTRY—PETS
- 24 Dogs—Canaries—Pets.
  - 25 Poultry—Eggs—Supplies.
  - 26 Horses—Cattle—Hogs.

- MISCELLANEOUS
- 27 Wanted to Buy.
  - 28 Miscellaneous For Sale.
  - 29 Musical Instruments—Radio.
  - 30 Household Goods.
  - 31 Wearing Apparel—Shoes.
  - 32 Groceries—Meats.

- RENTALS
- 33 Where to Eat.
  - 34 Apartments—Furnished.
  - 35 Apartments—Unfurnished.
  - 36 Rooms—With Board.
  - 37 Rooms For Rent—Furnished.
  - 38 Rooms For Rent—Unfurnished.
  - 39 Houses—Unfurnished.
  - 40 Houses—Furnished.
  - 41 Office and Desk Rooms.
  - 42 Miscellaneous For Rent.
  - 43 Wanted to Rent.
  - 44 Storage.

- REAL ESTATE
- 45 Houses For Sale.
  - 46 Lots For Sale.
  - 47 Real Estate For Exchange.
  - 48 Farms For Sale.
  - 49 Business Opportunities.
  - 50 Wanted—Real Estate.

- AUTOMOTIVE
- 51 Automobile Insurance.
  - 52 Auto Landries—Painting.
  - 53 Tires—Tubes—Batteries.
  - 54 Parts—Service—Repairing.
  - 55 Motorcycles—Bicycles.
  - 56 Auto Agencies.
  - 57 Used Cars For Sale.

- PUBLIC SALES
- 58 Auctioneers.
  - 59 Auction Sales.

- DEAD STOCK
- 60 Horses—Cows, etc.

- 2 In Memoriam

OBITUARY
Christopher K. Ellis, son of Silas and Mary Bell Ellis, was born near Port William, in Greene County, Ohio, December 21, 1856, and departed this life October 21, 1930; aged 73 years, 9 months and 27 days. He was of a family of seven children; one brother dying in infancy, a brother Hiram and sister Maria E. Strickland preceded him to the great beyond, leaving a sister Ida A. Wolford, of Lumberton, Ohio, two brothers Jonathan, of Clyde, Kansas, and Anderson, of Centerville, Montgomery County, Ohio.

On February 5, 1880, he was united in marriage to Medora Adams, of near Paintersville, Ohio. To this union were born two sons, Orville J. and Charley S. Ellis, both of near Bowersville, Ohio. The deceased was a member of the Jamestown Lodge, No. 352 F. and A. M., being one of the oldest members of the lodge and always gloried in and loyal to his lodge, attending when able to do so. He made the request that the lodge conduct services at both the home and the cemetery. He made no public confession, was not a member of any church, but a firm believer in a Supreme Being and a hereafter, and would gain his rest by right living. Taking truth and honesty for his guide, which he was always ready to defend. A great lover of little children and every Christmas remembering all of them in the neighborhood.

He leaves to mourn his departure, his faithful wife, Medora, with whom he had traveled life's pathway for more than fifty years the two sons, Orville J. and Charley S., two daughters-in-law, Opal M. and Iva S. and one dearly beloved grandson, Lawrence Victor, and a number of other relatives and friends.

"When life's harvest is over
And the Master gathers in the sheaves,
May my life go out with Autumn
And the falling of the leaves."

The family wish to extend their heartfelt thanks to all those who by their personal interest have been a comfort and help during their great bereavement.

- 7 Lost and Found

LOST—black heifer, weight 300 pounds. Call Thurman Hays. Phone County 897-F.

- 11 Professional Services

THE PLEASURE of these brilliant Fall days can be kept in pictures finished by Daisy Clemans.

- 11 Professional Services

IT'S TIME NOW—to be thinking of a gift for old friends you can't be with at Christmas. See Canby for fine photos.

- 12 Roofing, Plumbing

PIPES—Valves and fittings for all purposes. BOCKLET'S line of plumbing and heating supplies are the best. The Bocklet-King Co., 415 W. Main St.

- 17 Commercial Hauling

MOVING, STORAGE—general trucking. Lowest rates. Lang Transfer. Phone 728. Second and Detroit Sts.

- 20 Help Wanted

WANTED—Family to move in home in Xenia and care for aged person. Rent free. Address B, care of Gazette.

- 22 Situations Wanted

WANTED—work by middle aged woman. Write Box E, care Gazette.

- 25 Poultry—Eggs—Supplies

FOR SALE—About 40 White Wyandotte pullets. Accredited stock. $1.00 each. Ph. 29-F-3.

CHOICE S. C. Rhode Island Red cockerels, from pedigreed male birds. Lewis Frye. Phone 62-F-12.

- 26 Horses—Cattle—Hogs

FOR SALE—Guernsey heifer, one year old. Call 895-R.

4 COWS—giving good flow of milk. 2 good farm mares. 4 miles from Xenia on Jasper Pike. J. H. Young.

DUROCK BOARDS and spring glits. No public sale this season. R. C. Watt and Son, Cedarville, O.

GOOD QUALITY Durock glits at farmers' prices. Lewis Frye. Ph. 62-F-12.

- 26 Horses—Cattle—Hogs

TWO GUERNSEY male calves, thoroughbred. Phone 21-R-4.

- 28 Miscellaneous for Sale

CHRYSANTHEMUMS— and Poinsettias. All colors. Reasonable prices. Also tulip, hyacinth and crocus bulbs. R. O. Douglass. Phone 549-W.

FOR SALE—Right new wheat straw, baled. Albert Ankeney and Son.

FOR RENT—Attractive modern cottage. Also gas stoves, overcoats and 2 men suits. Call 886-W.

USED ELECTRIC cleaners, $5. Eichman Electric Shop.

BUCK LAMBS. Also bronze gobblers. Phone Co. 31-F-3.

GET YOUR Eveready Prestone and completely deaustered alcohol at The Carroll-Binder Co., E. Main St.

FUDGE AND SON'S wrecking yard, So. Collier St. Good price paid for your old car.

- 29 Musical—Radio

PIANOS FOR SALE—$5.00 monthly. John Harbine. Allen Building.

RADIO REPAIRING, piano tuning, band instrument repairing. Anderson-Soward Co., 9 W. Main St. Ph. 544.

METRODYNE All-Electric radio in excellent condition, cheap. Terms. Lawrence Fry, 61 Walnut St. Ph. 1105-W.

- 30 Household Goods

See Our Complete Line of Circulators And Room Heaters

BROWN'S

SALES SATURDAY afternoons. Used furniture, phonographs, electric washers, stoves, beds. John Harbine, Jr. Allen Building.

FOR SALE—Quick Meat gas range, $10. Ph. 1093-R. 601 N. Galloway St.

- 34 Apartments—Furnished

5 ROOMS—all modern. Sleeping porch. Situated at 213 W. Church St. For particulars see A. W. Treslie, Citizens National Bank Bldg.

- 35 Apartments, Unfurnished

IDEAL MODERN apartment furnished with electric refrigerator and other conveniences at Oaklawn Apartments, 611 So. Detroit St. Inquire P. H. Flynn. Ph. 1069.

5 ROOM apartment, second floor, modern, good location two blocks from Court House. Phone 111, Gazette Office.

FIVE ROOM apartment, modern, newly decorated throughout. Call 728.

4 ROOM modern apartment. Close in, $18 per month. Ph. 593-J.

- 37 Rooms—Furnished

TWO ROOMS furnished for light housekeeping on lower floor, also room with board for 2 men. Ph. 265-11.

- 39 Houses—Unfurnished

5 ROOM cottage, 1043 W. Second St. Electricity, gas, big garden, garage, $17.50. Also 4-room house, $13.50. M. J. Bebb. 571-R.

EIGHT ROOMS, gas, electricity, water, inside toilet. 5 N. Whitman St. Inquire 215 W. Main St.

- 39 Houses—Unfurnished

FOR RENT—after Nov. 1, new strictly modern 6 room house with garage, 2 squares from Court House, N. Detroit st. Apply C. A. Kelble, 124 W. Church St. Phone 417-W.

6 ROOM modern house, centrally located. See Dr. A. C. Messenger.

TWO STORY frame dwelling. Four rooms first floor, hardwood floors. Three rooms and bath, upstairs. Thermostatically controlled furnace, hot water heating. Automatic electric water system, city and rain water. Large cement floored cellar. Three-car garage. No. 211, High St., one block west of Spring Hill schoolhouse. Rent $40. Inquire at 230 North Detroit or Ph. 1087.

- 43 Wanted To Rent

WANTED—3 light housekeeping rooms, furnished. Write Box 89, care Gazette.

- 45 Houses For Sale

FOR SALE or rent or will trade for lot or few acres. A modern home at 520 S. Detroit St. A. C. Garwood.

- 48 Farms For Sale

SMALL FARM of 12 acres 1 1/2 mi. from good town. Six room house in good condition. Good barn and garage. Plenty of fruit. Will trade for Xenia property. Harness and Bales.

- 49 Business Opportunities

DO YOU NEED MONEY? If so, Call, Phone or Write The Central Acceptance Corporation 18 Allen Bldg Phone, Main 1234

CHattel Loans. Notes Bought. Second Mortgages. John Harbine, Allen Building.

- 59 Auction Sales

PUBLIC SALE—of household goods at 113 High St., at one o'clock, Thursday November 6. Consisting of 2 iron beds, springs and mattresses; 1 oak davenport; 1 fernery; 1 chiffonier; 1 Brussels rug 9x12 ft.; 1 gas heater; 1 oak writing desk; several small rugs; 1 oak library table; 2 Reed arm rockers; 1 Brussels rug 9x12 ft.; 1 Moors' heater; 4 oak arm rockers; 1 refrigerator; 1 electric lamp; 1 oak dining table; 1 oak buffet; 1 electric stand lamp; leather bottom oak diners; 1 kitchen cupboard; 1 table gas range; 1 kitchen cabinet; dishes; cooking utensils, and other articles too numerous to mention. Col. Frank Mumma, Auctioneer.

- 60 Horses, Cows, Etc.

DEAD STOCK We Pay Top Prices FOR HORSES And COWS Of Size Call 454 Xenia Fertilizer And Tankage Co.

EAST END NEWS

MRS. JAMES HARRIS Correspondent Tel. 91-R

The Edith Randolph Prayer Circle will meet Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Belle Tibbs, E. Main St.

Mrs. Mattie Wigginton of Georgetown, Ky., who has been here for some three weeks left for home Friday evening.

The Misses Dorothy Stanhope and Jean Starks delightfully entertained a few of their young friends at a wiener roast. Those present were: The Misses S. Taylor, Gertrude Hall, Ivanora Howard, Marie Poole, Maryette Banks, Jeanette Lawson, Ada Hamilton, Messrs. John Jennings, Granville Hudson, William and Elwood Hardwick, Clifford and Cecil Hall, Milton Transue, Edward Singer, Moody, Edton, Ernest Hendee, Mary Hurl Phillips, Robinson and McGee.

"It is only I, dear," came Lady Dorothy's voice. "May I come in?" Lady Gwendolen jumped up to meet the older woman, who bent and kissed her affectionately.

"The two men are off to London," she said at once. "They have gone to see Prince Pozolevsky."

"Surely they don't believe he killed Edward?"

"I'm afraid it looks that way," said Lady Dorothy, quietly. "But we mustn't allow ourselves to get excited."

"But it's so stupid of them!" Lady Gwendolen frowned. "I'm positive it was the Canadian. I'm going to tell the Inspector as soon as he returns. It's certainly a Canadian knife, and I've been thinking over everything I know about Edward—you see, his being ten years older, and a man, and our being separated, means that it isn't much and trying to imagine what and why."

"You have an idea of your own?"

"Nothing definite—but I'm almost sure the key to it all is to be found in Canada."

"You don't think Edward wronged anyone?"

"Oh, no!" was the indignant reply. "How dreadful to suggest such a thing! He was the best man who ever lived!" For some moments she couldn't control her voice.

"Forgive me, dear. I meant nothing."

"Oh, I know," Lady Gwendolen replied huskily. "It's just that I can't get used to the idea that he's gone forever—gone. But I don't intend to cry. He'd hate that!"

She threw up her imperious little head bravely. "I mean to find the man that did it, and punish him!"

"Dear little Gwen," murmured Lady Dorothy, as she smothered the slim white hand which was clenched in her lap.

"I meant about Edward that he was so just and honest that sometimes it seemed hardness to people that didn't know him as I did. He might have known something about someone, something wicked, and been going to tell—for if he thought it was his duty he'd have been sure to tell."

"But what could he have known about whom?"

Lady Gwendolen shook her head doubtfully. "That's what I don't know. That queer fellow, Willis Hanson, perhaps—a Canadian, or one who's lived in Canada almost surely."

"Why Canada, dearest?"

"That knife—it's such a broad, awkward knife—it would only be employed by someone used to Canoeing. But on the previous night when she had begged off from dinner, her mind had been clearer. She had, of course, heard from Lady Dorothy about the discovery of initials on the fatal knife, and she had been sorely puzzled for the reason that she knew her brother's knife had formerly belonged to a man named Pierre."

Lady Gwendolen shook her head. "But, certainly, the initial 'B. P.' would not fit Pierre. Yet, if the knife was not Edward's she asked herself again and again, whose was it, and how had one so similar to his own come to be in this house? How? How?"

It was late, after she was in bed, that a clear light seemed to shine through the phantasmagoria of her thoughts, a light that pointed to her native country. She felt that somewhere here in those snow-covered hills and deep-wooded lakes was the key.

And this morning, as she sat before the mirror, she had the same thought. And as she remembered the freedom and sweetness of her home, her heart cried out against the injustice which had locked up the poet. From the first she had thought him innocent, and repented her thoughtless teasing of him in the past. She admired the way in which he conducted himself during the trying ordeal of the inquest, and his defiant, yet sweet smile when the Inspector led him away. It had cast a romantic glamor about him which made him seem very different from the awkward, ill-dressed poet whose fierce solemn reading of his own verse had sent her into peals of laughter.

She had thought more often of him than she would have liked to admit. And as she looked at the reflection in the mirror, her black eyes for an instant had their old laughing gaiety. It was gone almost before it had come, but in that instant she had determined to visit the poet in his prison. She couldn't have told why herself, but she felt impelled to see him; knew that she must go and see him.

A knock on her bedroom door disturbed her thoughts.

"It is only I, dear," came Lady Dorothy's voice. "May I come in?" Lady Gwendolen jumped up to meet the older woman, who bent and kissed her affectionately.

IT WAS LOCKED A RAPID-FIRE MYSTERY STORY BY JOHN HAWK © 1929-30 RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSN, INC.

CHAPTER 29

Lady Gwendolen was sitting on the long stool in front of the many-mirrored dressing-table in the exquisite rose-satin adorned room which Lady Dorothy had assigned to her on her arrival several months before. She had come to look upon that room as home, and to have a rather sentimental fondness for it. But during the days since Lord Winston's death it seemed to her as if the very gay rose of the hangings had turned a smoky grey, even as life itself had lost its bright hues.

It was the morning following the explorer's visit to the Home Office in London. He and the Police Inspector had gone up to London that very morning. Her maid had brought Lady Gwendolen the news with her early tea. She had further told her mistress of some great excitement going on, which so far stimulated Lady Gwendolen's curiosity that at this moment she was asking herself as to the wisdom of seeking out Lady Dorothy and getting details of the developments.

Lady Gwendolen was pale and sad, but otherwise the same girl that Robin Smith had come to worship. She still had the independence and courage which had instinctively attracted him. During the days since the inquest she had been busy thinking.

It seemed the thoughts would forever go round in circles and lead nowhere. But on the previous night when she had begged off from dinner, her mind had been clearer. She had, of course, heard from Lady Dorothy about the discovery of initials on the fatal knife, and she had been sorely puzzled for the reason that she knew her brother's knife had formerly belonged to a man named Pierre.

Lady Gwendolen shook her head. "But, certainly, the initial 'B. P.' would not fit Pierre. Yet, if the knife was not Edward's she asked herself again and again, whose was it, and how had one so similar to his own come to be in this house? How? How?"

It was late, after she was in bed, that a clear light seemed to shine through the phantasmagoria of her thoughts, a light that pointed to her native country. She felt that somewhere here in those snow-covered hills and deep-wooded lakes was the key.

And this morning, as she sat before the mirror, she had the same thought. And as she remembered the freedom and sweetness of her home, her heart cried out against the injustice which had locked up the poet. From the first she had thought him innocent, and repented her thoughtless teasing of him in the past. She admired the way in which he conducted himself during the trying ordeal of the inquest, and his defiant, yet sweet smile when the Inspector led him away. It had cast a romantic glamor about him which made him seem very different from the awkward, ill-dressed poet whose fierce solemn reading of his own verse had sent her into peals of laughter.

She had thought more often of him than she would have liked to admit. And as she looked at the reflection in the mirror, her black eyes for an instant had their old laughing gaiety. It was gone almost before it had come, but in that instant she had determined to visit the poet in his prison. She couldn't have told why herself, but she felt impelled to see him; knew that she must go and see him.

A knock on her bedroom door disturbed her thoughts.

"It is only I, dear," came Lady Dorothy's voice. "May I come in?" Lady Gwendolen jumped up to meet the older woman, who bent and kissed her affectionately.

"The two men are off to London," she said at once. "They have gone to see Prince Pozolevsky."

"Surely they don't believe he killed Edward?"

"I'm afraid it looks that way," said Lady Dorothy, quietly. "But we mustn't allow ourselves to get excited."

"But it's so stupid of them!" Lady Gwendolen frowned. "I'm positive it was the Canadian. I'm going to tell the Inspector as soon as he returns. It's certainly a Canadian knife, and I've been thinking over everything I know about Edward—you see, his being ten years older, and a man, and our being separated, means that it isn't much and trying to imagine what and why."

"You have an idea of your own?"

"Nothing definite—but I'm almost sure the key to it all is to be found in Canada."

"You don't think Edward wronged anyone?"

"Oh, no!" was the indignant reply. "How dreadful to suggest such a thing! He was the best man who ever lived!" For some moments she couldn't control her voice.

"Forgive me, dear. I meant nothing."

"Oh, I know," Lady Gwendolen replied huskily. "It's just that I can't get used to the idea that he's gone forever—gone. But I don't intend to cry. He'd hate that!"

She threw up her imperious little head bravely. "I mean to find the man that did it, and punish him!"

"Dear little Gwen," murmured Lady Dorothy, as she smothered the slim white hand which was clenched in her lap.

"I meant about Edward that he was so just and honest that sometimes it seemed hardness to people that didn't know him as I did. He might have known something about someone, something wicked, and been going to tell—for if he thought it was his duty he'd have been sure to tell."

"But what could he have known about whom?"

Lady Gwendolen shook her head doubtfully. "That's what I don't know. That queer fellow, Willis Hanson, perhaps—a Canadian, or one who's lived in Canada almost surely."

"Why Canada, dearest?"

"That knife—it's such a broad, awkward knife—it would only be employed by someone used to Canoeing. But on the previous night when she had begged off from dinner, her mind had been clearer. She had, of course, heard from Lady Dorothy about the discovery of initials on the fatal knife, and she had been sorely puzzled for the reason that she knew her brother's knife had formerly belonged to a man named Pierre."

Lady Gwendolen shook her head. "But, certainly, the initial 'B. P.' would not fit Pierre. Yet, if the knife was not Edward's she asked herself again and again, whose was it, and how had one so similar to his own come to be in this house? How? How?"

It was late, after she was in bed, that a clear light seemed to shine through the phantasmagoria of her thoughts, a light that pointed to her native country. She felt that somewhere here in those snow-covered hills and deep-wooded lakes was the key.

And this morning, as she sat before the mirror, she had the same thought. And as she remembered the freedom and sweetness of her home, her heart cried out against the injustice which had locked up the poet. From the first she had thought him innocent, and repented her thoughtless teasing of him in the past. She admired the way in which he conducted himself during the trying ordeal of the inquest, and his defiant, yet sweet smile when the Inspector led him away. It had cast a romantic glamor about him which made him seem very different from the awkward, ill-dressed poet whose fierce solemn reading of his own verse had sent her into peals of laughter.

he had been confined he had managed only snatches full of troubled nightmares, and these generally in the daytime and from sheer exhaustion. All night, in the intense quiet, by candle light, he would work. He had done a hundred lines or more of a new poem which he knew was a big stride ahead. He didn't dare think of its future or whether it would ever see the light of day...he didn't dare look ahead at all for fear he would go mad. He lived from hour to hour, from minute to minute, sternly repressing any frightful fancies which clamored for entrance to his tired and excited brain. It was when he dozed that it was the worst. He would dream of being lost in crowds of men all with faces like the twelve good men and true who had sat to decide his fate two days before and these crowds would grow denser and denser and he would be crushed and not able to breathe, and beat against the pressing human beings for air, but they would just look at him and press closer until he would wake holding on to his throat and gasping. It was horrible!

(To Be Continued)

OCTOBER HAD BOTH KINDS OF WEATHER REPORT INDICATES

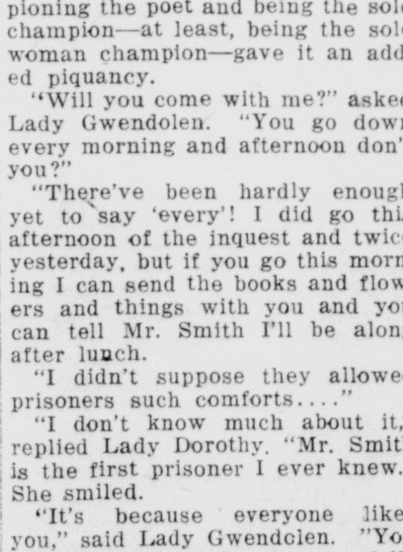

Temperature during October ranged from a minimum of 16 degrees on October 22 to a maximum of 82 degrees on October 12, according to the monthly weather report prepared by Ernest L. Harner, weatherman of the Xenia observatory.

Precipitation during the month totalled only .82 inches. Frost occurred on four different days. During October there were sixteen clear days, eleven cloudy days and four were partly cloudy.

Here is the maximum and minimum readings each day of the month:

Date	Max.	Min.
1	62	32
2	61	35
3	61	45
4	68	40
5	62	42
6	72	43
7	73	49
8	72	57
9	70	58
10	77	53
11	81	50
12	82	49
13	81	46
14	80	45
15	80	48
16	81	49
17	76	42
18	55	32
19	46	31
20	48	19
21	44	21
22	42	16
23	50	22
24	52	30
25	53	20
26	47	20
27	59	34
28	62	48
29	64	30
30	60	28
31	50	30

Know This Fellow?

If you followed football back in 1909 you do. He is Ted Coy, the great Yale All-American fullback, who blazed a brilliant grid trail through the Eli's foes. Coy is now district sales manager for a brush company with headquarters in Greensburg, Pa.

Use the TELEPHONE

Try The Classifieds For Quick Results

Find - Buy - Sell - Trade - Rent - Lease Or Invest Through These Columns

Use the TELEPHONE

Classified Advertising THE GAZETTE

IS THE MEDIUM

through which the general public can always have its wants supplied. THE GAZETTE will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of an advertisement. Notice of errors, typographical or otherwise, must be given in time for correction before next insertion. Advertisements are restricted to proper classification style and type. THE GAZETTE reserves the right to edit or reject any advertisement.

Closing time for classified advertisement for publication the same day is 9:30 a. m.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

- 1 Card of Thanks.
- 2 In Memoriam.
- 3 Florists; Monuments.
- 4 Real Estate.
- 5 Notices, Meetings.
- 6 Personal.
- 7 Lost and Found.

BUSINESS CARDS

- 8 Cleaning, Pressing, Laundering.
- 9 Dressmaking, Millinery.
- 10 Beauty Culture.
- 11 Professional Services.
- 12 Roofing, Plumbing, Heating.
- 13 Electricians, Wiring.
- 14 Building, Contracting.
- 15 Painting, Papering.
- 16 Repairing, Refinishing.
- 17 Commercial Hauling, Storage.

EMPLOYMENT

- 18 Help Wanted—Male.
- 19 Help Wanted—Female.
- 20 Help Wanted—Male or Female.
- 21 Help Wanted—Agents, Salesmen.
- 22 Situations Wanted.
- 23 Help Wanted—Instruction.

LIVE STOCK—HORSES—PETS

- 24 Dogs—Canaries—Pets.
- 25 Poultry—Eggs—Supplies.
- 26 Horses—Cattle—Hogs.

MISCELLANEOUS

- 27 Wanted to Buy.
- 28 Miscellaneous For Sale.
- 29 Musical Instruments—Radio.
- 30 Household Goods.
- 31 Wearing Apparel—Shoes.
- 32 Groceries—Meats.

RENTALS

- 33 Where to Eat.
- 34 Apartments—Furnished.
- 35 Apartments—Unfurnished.
- 36 Rooms—With Board.
- 37 Rooms For Rent—Furnished.
- 38 Rooms For Rent—Unfurnished.
- 39 Houses—Unfurnished.
- 40 Houses—Furnished.
- 41 Office and Desk Rooms.
- 42 Miscellaneous For Rent.
- 43 Wanted to Rent.

REAL ESTATE

- 44 Houses For Sale.
- 45 Lots For Sale.
- 46 Real Estate For Exchange.
- 47 Farms For Sale.
- 48 Business Opportunities.
- 49 Wanted—Real Estate.

AUTO SALES

- 50 Automobile Insurance.
- 51 Auto Landlords—Painting.
- 52 Tires—Tubes—Batteries.
- 53 Parts—Service—Repairing.
- 54 Motorcycles—Bicycles.
- 55 Auto Agencies.
- 56 Used Cars For Sale.

PUBLIC SALES

- 57 Auctioneers.
- 58 Auction Sales.

DEAD STOCK

- 59 Horses—Cows, etc.

2 In Memoriam

OBITUARY

Christopher K. Ellis, son of Silas and Mary Belle Ellis, was born near Port William, in Greene County, Ohio, December 24, 1856, and departed this life October 21, 1930, aged 73 years, 9 months and 27 days. He was of a family of seven children; one brother dying in infancy, a brother Hiram and sister Maria E. Strickland preceded him to the great beyond, leaving a sister Ida A. Wolford, of Lumberton, Ohio, two brothers Jonathan, of Clyde, Kansas, and Anderson, of Centerville, Montgomery County, Ohio.

On February 5, 1880, he was united in marriage to Medora Adams, of near Painterstown, Ohio. To this union were born two sons, Orville J. and Charles S. Ellis, both of near Bowersville, Ohio. The deceased was a member of the Jamestown Lodge, No. 524 F. and A. M., being one of the oldest members of the lodge and always gloried in and loyal to his lodge, attending when able to do so. He made the request that the lodge conduct services at both the home and the cemetery. He made no public confession, was not a member of any church, but a firm believer in a Supreme Being and a hereafter, and would gain his rest by right living. Taking truth and honesty for his guide, which he was always ready to defend. A great lover of little children and every Christmas remembering all of them in the neighborhood.

He leaves to mourn his departure, his faithful wife, Medora, with whom he had traveled life's pathway for more than fifty years the two sons, Orville J. and Charles S., two daughters-in-law, Opal M. and Iva S. and one dearly beloved grandson, Lawrence Victor, and a number of other relatives and friends.

"When life's harvest is over And the Master gathers in the sheaves, May my life go out with Autumn And the falling of the leaves."

The family wish to extend their heartfelt thanks to all those who by their personal interest have been a comfort and help during their great bereavement.

7 Lost and Found

LOST—black heifer, weight 350 pounds. Call Thurman Hays, Phone County 89F-2.

11 Professional Services

THE PLEASURE of these brilliant Fall days can be kept in pictures finished by Daisy Clemans.

11 Professional Services

IT'S TIME NOW—to be thinking of a gift for old friends you can't be with at Christmas. See Canby for fine photos.

12 Roofing, Plumbing

PIPES—Valves and fittings for all purposes. BOCKLET'S line of plumbing and heating supplies are the best. The Bocklet-King Co., 415 W. Main St.

17 Commercial Hauling

MOVING, STORAGE—general trucking. Lowest rates. Lang Transfer. Phone 728. Second and Detroit Sts.

20 Help Wanted

WANTED—Family to move in home in Xenia and care for aged person. Rent free. Address B, care of Gazette.

22 Situations Wanted

WANTED—work by middle aged woman. Write Box E, care of Gazette.

25 Poultry—Eggs—Supplies

FOR SALE—About 40 White Wyandotte pullets. Accredited stock. $1.00 each. Ph. 29-F-3.

26 Horses—Cattle—Hogs

FOR SALE—Guernsey heifer, one year old. Call 895-R.

28 Miscellaneous For Sale

CHRYSANTHEMUMS— and Poinsettias. All colors. Reasonable prices. Also tulip, hyacinth and crocus bulbs. R. O. Douglass. Phone 549-W.

29 Musical—Radio

PIANOS FOR SALE—$5.00 monthly. John Harbina. Allen Building.

30 Household Goods

See Our Complete Line of Circulators And Room Heaters BROWN'S

34 Apartments—Furnished

5 ROOMS—all modern. Sleeping porch. Situated at 213 W. Church St. For particulars see A. W. Trevis, Citizens National Bank Bldg.

35 Apartments, Unfurnished

IDEAL MODERN apartment furnished with electric refrigerator and other conveniences at Oaklawn Apartments, 511 So. Detroit St. Inquire P. H. Flynn. Ph. 1669.

37 Rooms—Furnished

TWO ROOMS furnished for light housekeeping on lower floor, also room with board for 2 men. Ph. 265-R.

39 Houses—Unfurnished

5 ROOM cottage, 1643 W. Second St. Electricity, gas, big garden, garage. $12.50. M. J. Bebb. 571-R.

40 Houses—Furnished

8 ROOMS, gas, electricity, water, inside toilet 5 N. Whitman St. Inquire 215 W. Main St.

39 Houses—Unfurnished

FOR RENT—after Nov. 1, new strictly modern 6 room house with garage, 2 squares from Court House, N. Detroit St. Apply C. A. Kelble, 124 W. Church St. Phone 417-W.

43 Wanted To Rent

WANTED—3 light housekeeping rooms, furnished. Write Box 89, care of Gazette.

45 Houses For Sale

FOR SALE or rent or will trade for lot or few acres. A modern home at 520 S. Detroit St. A. C. Garwood.

48 Farms For Sale

SMALL FARM of 12 acres 1-2 mi. from good town. Six room house in good condition. Good barn and garage. Plenty of fruit. Will trade for Xenia property. Harness and Bales.

49 Business Opportunities

DO YOU NEED MONEY? If so, Call, Phone or Write The Central Acceptance Corporation 18 Allen Bldg Phone, Main 1234

59 Auction Sales

PUBLIC SALE—of household goods at 113 High St., at one o'clock, Thursday November 6. Consisting of 2 iron beds, springs and mattresses; 1 oak dayport; 1 fernery; 1 chiffonier; 1 Brussels rug 9x12 ft.; 1 gas heater; 1 oak writing desk; several small rugs; 1 oak library table; 2 Reed arm rockers; 1 Brussels rug 9x12 ft.; 1 Moors henrola; 4 oak arm rockers; 1 refrigerator; 1 electric lamp; 1 electric stand lamp; leather bottom oak diners; 1 kitchen cupboard; 1 table gas range; 1 kitchen cabinet; dishes; cooking utensils, and other articles too numerous to mention. Col. Frank Mumma, Auctioneer.

60 Horses, Cows, Etc.

DEAD STOCK

We Pay Top Prices FOR HORSES AND COWS Of Size Call 454 Xenia Fertilizer And Tankage Co.

EAST END NEWS

MRS. JAMES HARRIS Correspondent 91-R

The Edith Randolph Prayer Circle will meet Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Belle Tibbs, E. Main St.

Mrs. Mattie Wigginton of Georgetown, Ky., who has been here for some three weeks left for home Friday evening.

The Misses Dorothy Stanhope and Jean Starks delightfully entertained a few of their young friends at a wiener roast. Those present were: The Misses S. Taylor, Gertrude Hall, Ivanora Howard, Marie Poole, Maryette Banks, Jeanette Lawson, Ada Hamilton, Messrs. John Jennings, Granville Hudson, William and Elwood Hardwick, Clifford and Cecil Hall, Milton Transue, Edward Singer, Moody, dieton, Ernest Hendee, Mary H. Phillips, Robinson and McGee.

"I'm afraid it looks that way," said Lady Dorothy, quietly. "But we mustn't allow ourselves to get excited."

"But it's so stupid of them!" Lady Gwendolen frowned. "I'm positive it was the Canadian. I'm going to tell the Inspector as soon as he returns. It's certainly a Canadian knife, and I've been thinking over everything I know about Edward. You see, he's being ten years older, and a man, and our being separated, means that it isn't much—and trying to imagine what and why."

"You have an idea of your own?" "Nothing definite—but I'm almost sure the key to it all is to be found in Canada."

"You don't think Edward

IT WAS LOCKED A RAPID-FIRE MYSTERY STORY BY JOHN HAWK RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. INC.

CHAPTER 29

Lady Gwendolen was sitting on the long stool in front of the many-mirrored dressing-table in the exquisite rose-satin adorned room which Lady Dorothy had assigned to her on her arrival several months before. She had come to look upon that room as home, and to have a rather sentimental fondness for it. But during the days since Lord Winston's death it seemed to her as if the very gay rose of the hangings had turned a smoky grey, even as life itself had lost its bright hues.

It was the morning following the explorer's visit to the Home Office in London. He and the Police Inspector had gone up to London that very morning. Her maid had brought Lady Gwendolen that news with her early tea. She had further told her mistress of some great excitement going on, which so far stimulated Lady Gwendolen's curiosity that at this moment she was asking herself as to the wisdom of seeking out Lady Dorothy and getting details of the developments.

Lady Gwendolen was pale and sad, but otherwise the same girl that Robin Smith had come to worship. She still had the independence and courage which had instinctively attracted him. During the days since the inquest she had been busy thinking—thinking it seemed the thoughts would forever go round in circles and lead nowhere. But on the previous night, when she had begged off from dinner, her mind had been clearer. She had, of course, heard from Lady Dorothy about the discovery of initials on the fatal knife, and she had been sorely puzzled for the reason that she knew her brother's knife had formerly belonged to a man named Pierre. His other name she had never heard, but certainly the initials "B. P." would not fit Pierre. Yet if the knife was not Edward's she asked herself again and again, whose was it, and how had one so similar to his own come to be in this house? How? How?

It was late, after she was in bed, that a clear light seemed to shine through the phantasmagoria of her thoughts, a light that pointed to her native country. She felt that somewhere here in those snow-covered hills and deep-wooded lakes was the key.

And this morning, as she sat before the mirror, she had the same thought. And as she remembered the freedom and sweetness of her home, her heart cried out against the injustice which had locked up the poet. From the first she had thought him innocent, and repented her thoughtless wailing of him in the past. She admitted the way in which he had been conducted during the trying ordeal of the inquest, and his defiant, yet sweet smile when the Inspector led him away. It had cast a romantic glamor about him which made him seem very different from the awkward, ill-dressed poet whose fierce solemn reading of his own verse had sent her into peals of laughter.

She had thought more often of him than she would have liked to admit. And as she looked at the reflection in the mirror, her black eyes for an instant had their old laughing gaiety. It was gone almost before it had come, but in that instant she had determined to visit the poet in his prison. She couldn't have told why herself, but she felt impelled to see him; knew that she must go and see him.

A knock on her bedroom door disturbed her thoughts. "It is only I, dear," came Lady Dorothy's voice. "May I come in?" Lady Gwendolen jumped up to meet the older woman, who bent and kissed her affectionately.

"The two men are off to London," she said at once. "They have gone to see Prince Pozolevsky."

"Surely they don't believe he killed Edward?" "I'm afraid it looks that way," said Lady Dorothy, quietly. "But we mustn't allow ourselves to get excited."

"But it's so stupid of them!" Lady Gwendolen frowned. "I'm positive it was the Canadian. I'm going to tell the Inspector as soon as he returns. It's certainly a Canadian knife, and I've been thinking over everything I know about Edward. You see, he's being ten years older, and a man, and our being separated, means that it isn't much—and trying to imagine what and why."

"You have an idea of your own?" "Nothing definite—but I'm almost sure the key to it all is to be found in Canada."

"You don't think Edward wronged anyone?" "Oh, no!" was the indignant reply. "How dreadful to suggest such a thing! He was the best man who ever lived!" For some moments she couldn't control her voice.

"Forgive me, dear. I meant nothing—"

"Oh, I know," Lady Gwendolen replied huskily. "It's just that I can't get used to the idea that he's gone forever—gone. But I don't intend to cry. He'd hate that!" She threw up her imperious little head bravely. "I mean to find the man that did it, and punish him!"

"Dear little Gwen," murmured Lady Dorothy, as she smothered the slim white hand which was clenched in her lap.

"I meant about Edward that he was so just and honest that sometimes it seemed hardness to people that didn't know him as I did. He might have known something about someone, something wicked, and been going to tell—"

"If he thought it was his duty he'd have been sure to tell."

"But what could he have known and about whom?"

Lady Gwendolen shook her head doubtfully. "That's what I don't know. That queer fellow, Willis Hanson, perhaps—a Canadian, or one who's lived in Canada almost surely."

"Why Canada, dearest?"

"That knife—it's such a broad, awkward knife—it would only be employed by someone used to Canada, and long accustomed to such weapons, or some primitive men."

"I feel sure. It would be so much more natural to use a revolver or something."

"But he might not have had a revolver, or might not have been afraid of being heard," argued Lady Dorothy.

But you must admit it is queer the man happened to have just the knife if he weren't Canadian."

"Don't worry your head about it, dear," advised Lady Dorothy, who was disturbed at the strained look in the young woman's face. "I engaged Lincoot to attend to everything, and he's a capable man. I'm sure. And Mr. Armstrong has stayed to help him find the guilty man and free my poor poet."

"Oh, yes," Lady Gwendolen began vaguely. "I was thinking about Mr. Smith. A sudden light broke over her face. 'I know what it was. I'm going to visit him this morning!'"

"Oh, Gwen, ought you? He's been found guilty of murdering your brother, you know..."

"But he didn't do it! You know that! I'm going to prove to him that I believe him. It's really your fault he's in all this trouble..."

"Oh, Gwen, I didn't think you'd throw that up at me!"

"Sorry, I didn't mean to hurt you, but you know you did give him an awful little room, and he's proud as Lucifer! There was a little ring of pride in his voice which did not escape Lady Dorothy."

"I didn't know you were interested in him..." she said.

Lady Gwendolen reddened, but she answered defiantly. "Well, I am, very much interested. He's brave, if he is silly and romantic. And I was brought up to respect bravery."

"Of course, child, so was I," Lady Dorothy smiled good-naturedly. She had suddenly realized that she was jealous of Gwen's liking Robin and as suddenly ashamed of the momentarily undignified feeling. Lady Dorothy enjoyed championing the poet and being the sole champion—at least, being the sole woman champion—gave it an added piquancy.

"Will you come with me?" asked Lady Gwendolen. "You go down every morning and afternoon don't you?"

"There've been hardly enough yet to say 'every'! I did go this afternoon of the inquest and twice yesterday, but if you go this morning I can send the books and flowers and things with you and you can tell Mr. Smith I'll be along after lunch."

"I didn't suppose they allowed prisoners such comforts."

"I don't know much about it," replied Lady Dorothy. "Mr. Smith is the first prisoner I ever knew."

She smiled.

"It's because everyone likes you," said Lady Gwendolen. "You know everyone old and young falls sooner or later!"

"You funny child! Run along now and see Robin. It's early for us, but I'll wager he hasn't slept all night!"

Lady Dorothy's guess was more correct than she would have liked to think. Not only hadn't Robin slept the previous night, but since he had been confined he had managed only snatches of sleep of troubled nightmares, and these generally in the daytime and from sheer exhaustion. All night, in the intense quiet, by candle light, he would work. He had done a hundred lines or more of a new poem which he knew was a big stride ahead. He didn't dare think of its future or whether it would ever see the light of day...he didn't dare look ahead at all for fear he would go mad. He lived from hour to hour, from minute to minute, sternly repressing any frightful fancies which clamored for entrance to his tired and excited brain. It was when he dozed that it was the worst. He would dream of being lost in crowds of men all with faces like the twelve good men and true who had sat to decide his fate two days before and these crowds would grow denser and denser and he would be crushed and not able to breathe, and beat against the pressing human beings for air, but they would just look at him and press closer until he would wake holding on to his throat and gasping. It was horrible!

(To Be Continued)

OCTOBER HAD BOTH KINDS OF WEATHER REPORT INDICATES

Temperature during October ranged from a minimum of 16 degrees on October 22 to a maximum of 82 degrees on October 12, according to the monthly weather report prepared by Ernest L. Harner, weatherman of the Xenia observatory.

Precipitation during the month totaled only .82 inches. Frost occurred on four different days. During October there were sixteen clear days, eleven cloudy days and four were partly cloudy.

Here is the maximum and minimum readings each day of the month:

Date	Max.	Min.
1	62	32
2	61	35
3	61	45
4	68	40
5	62	42
6	72	43
7	73	49
8	72	57
9	70	58
10	77	53
11	81	50
12	82	49
13	81	46
14	80	45
15	80	48
16	82	49
17	76	42
18	55	32
19	46	31
20	48	19
21	44	21
22	42	16
23	50	22
24	42	30
25	47	29
26	47	20
27	59	34
28	62	48
29	64	30
30	60	28
31	50	30

Know This Fellow?

If you followed football back in 1909 you do. He is Ted Coy, the great Yale All-American fullback, who blazed a brilliant grid trail through the Eli's foes. Coy is now district sales manager for a brush company with headquarters in Greensburg, Pa.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Opposing Candidates For Governor Give Pre-Election Statements

(Editor's Note: Following are two articles, prepared exclusively for International News Service by opposing gubernatorial candidates of Ohio, describing the issues of the political campaign which will be brought to a close election day, November 4.)

By GOV. MYERS Y. COOPER (Republican incumbent and candidate for re-election as governor of Ohio)

(Written Expressly for I. N. S.) MARION, O., Nov. 3.—Twenty-two years ago, I introduced the then governor of Ohio, at the Carnegie fair. In his address, he made the statement, which made a deep impression on me at the time, that a governor who had a constructive program could not do it justice and secure the best results for the people in a period of two years. He could only get many projects started. I realized the soundness of his statement then. It is equally applicable today.

Many necessary and important projects have been completed in the last two years. Others have been started, such as the actual construction of the state office building, and the welfare program which is ready for adoption.

Because of the many important projects underway, which the next two years will make or break, I want to go on with my task until it is finished.

I want to see overcrowded conditions in our institutions relieved for the unfortunate and mentally ill, and our prison problem solved. Our modern, comprehensive welfare plan will benefit 33,000 wards of the state and should not suffer the blight of political change at the moment of fruition.

I want to see to it that our progressive highway program is carried farther forward, bringing improvement to township and county roads and local community state roads for the benefit of the farmers, the extension of hard surfaced roads, grade eliminations and replacement of narrow bridges.

I want to see that the development of the highway system on sound business principles, such as saved the state two million dollars on the mileage built in twenty-one months, is continued as a policy insuring further added mileage with money actually saved in construction.

I want to work out with a friendly co-operative Republican assembly a tax law which will afford relief for the farmer, the home-owner, and the business man by a more equitable adjustment of the tax burden.

I want to keep on with our educational program which is rapidly placing Ohio first among all states in advantages for our boys and girls.

Believing that the people will profit thereby, I am eager to finish my task and to do so will give me great satisfaction.

By GEORGE WHITE Democratic candidate for governor of Ohio

(Written Expressly for I. N. S.) COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—With my able colleagues on the Democratic ticket I am ready to submit our candidacies for judgment next Tuesday confident that the Ohio electorates will approve our program and give us a mandate to carry it on.

Restating that program briefly, let me remind the men and women of the state that its most important proposal is revision of the tax system in accordance with the will expressed by a majority of those voting on the tax amendment to the constitution last November. I stand committed to adherence to the expressed wish of the people that the new tax system be fair and equitable to all classes of property owners.

To enforce that wish I propose to use the veto power invested in the governor, if necessary, and I shall count as a major aim of my administration the writing of a referendum provision into the constitution to safeguard the public interest in the enactment of all future tax laws.

We further propose: To restore economy in government.

To put an end to disregard of personal liberty and constitutional rights in the administration of laws.

To abolish the wasteful lump sum method of making appropriations for state expenditures and to re-establish the specific appropriation system discarded by the present administration.

To further education by sympathetic state cooperation and elimination of dictatorial state control over the manner of disbursing local school funds and other purely local matters.

To strengthen the workmen's compensation act in conformity with changing needs and changing times.

To pursue a welfare program that will provide humanely and adequately for the care of the state's wards in institutions for the dependent, the irresponsible and the offenders against the law.

To advance the interests of those who have been in the country's service in time of war by a cordial attitude toward legislation in their behalf.

To undertake actual relief for Ohio farmers with effective state measures favoring agriculture.

To administer the highway department with regard to the needs of those on the back roads as well as those using the main arteries, to the end that both may benefit proportionately from tax moneys, and to prevent any increase in the gasoline tax.

To promote water conservation with the specific object of averting a recurrence of the disastrous experience suffered in the drought of last summer.

To put an end to the corruption spreading through public office in political subdivisions of the state.

It is with these objects in mind that we have asked for an opportunity to render public service.

PRESBYTERY WILL CONSIDER THREE PASTORAL CHANGES

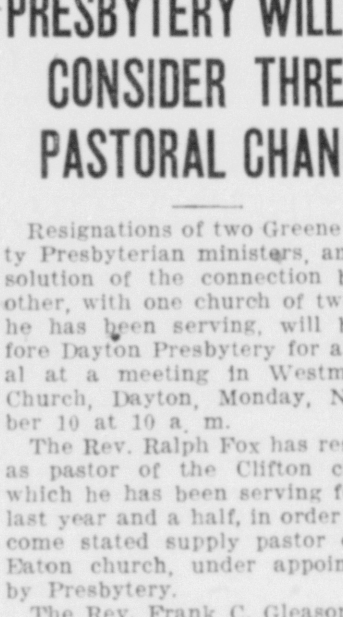

Resignations of two Greene County Presbyterian ministers, and dissolution of the connection by another, with one church of two that has been serving, will be before Dayton Presbytery for approval at a meeting in Westminster Church, Dayton, Monday, November 10 at 10 a. m.

The Rev. Ralph Fox has resigned as pastor of the Clifton church, which he has been serving for the last year and a half, in order to become stated supply pastor of the Eaton church, under appointment by Presbytery.

The Rev. Frank C. Gleason, pastor of the Osborn church for the last six years, has tendered his resignation, in order to accept a call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church of Covington, Ohio.

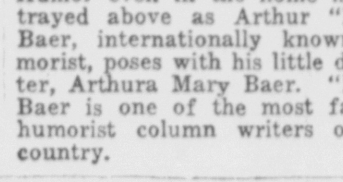

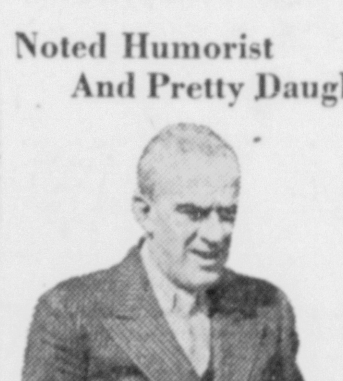

The Rev. Robert Graham, of Bellbrook is asking Presbytery to approve dissolution of his connection with the West Carrollton church which he has been serving in connection with the Bellbrook charge. He will remain in Bellbrook.

Noted Humorist And Pretty Daughter

Humor even in the home is portrayed above as Arthur "Bugs" Baer, internationally known humorist, poses with his little daughter, Arthura Mary Baer. "Bugs" Baer is one of the most famous humorist column writers of the country.

By GEORGE McMANUS

The Theater

Here's a prosperity note from Hollywood: Hollywood film studios will put $250,000,000 in circulation in 1931 film budgets, some of which is already being spent, a survey of employment in the film capital reveals.

Production chiefs have listed 400 new pictures for the coming year. Producers themselves are confidently looking forward to the next twelve months as prosperous ones for the industry and are working on the slogan: "To make money you must spend money."

This policy of optimism from Hollywood is most encouraging, because of the general belief that when times are hard people sacrifice.

A contract mix-up sends Rose Hobart back to Broadway from Hollywood, where she'll remain for the season at least. She was brought to Hollywood by Universal and played in several films, including "A Lady Surrenders" and "Liliom." She had a contract for stage appearances in the East, however, and Universal was unable to obtain an adjustment.

It is reported that Robert Montgomery will be starred by Metro in "Anchors Away," a story of the navy, which is being prepared by Belmar Davis, a contract writer. Montgomery is rapidly becoming one of the most sought-after leading men in Hollywood. His performances in "The Divorcee" and other Norma Shearer films led to a flood of fan mail, which is a dependable barometer. He has not attained stardom, but the studio definitely has it in mind for him. He is now playing a lead opposite Greta Garbo.

Twenty Years '10- Ago -'30

The Fisher Meat Market, E. Main St., which has been conducted by Charles E. Fisher will be in the future be known as Fisher Bros. Mr. Fred Fisher having become a member of the firm.

Freddie Humston received a badly mangled finger when Leo Shaw accidentally pounded it with a hammer.

Mrs. J. J. Lampert is spending several days in Chicago.

LOUISE BROOKS

ice amusements and luxuries first, thus aiming a blow at the picture industry. It would appear that from these figures that this "infant industry" has grown to be much of a healthy youngster.

When it is taken into account that the $250,000,000 is the Hollywood expenditure and that the exhibition of these films throughout the country will result in another vast sum for theater owners, managers, operators, ticket sellers and takers, musicians and ushers, it would seem that this note of optimism is not to be sneezed at.

Players whose options are not taken up have a way of finding their way back to the studio to make pictures. Louise Brooks is the latest example. She returns to Paramount to play an important part in William Powell's new picture, "Buy Your Woman." Her last previous role there was in "The Canary Murder Case." She went to New York before this picture was completed and Margaret Livingston had to double for her in long shots. In the old days Louise

SALLY'S SALLIES

The way of a maid with a man is the maid's way.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

Many a boy friend finds out his HONEY hasn't such a SWEET disposition.

BIG SISTER—Bloodhound Buddy

THE GUMPS—Ready To Spring The Trap

ETTA KETT—Not Worried

MUGGS McGINNIS—Rosebud!!

HIGH PRESSURE PETE—Tongue Twisted and Forgetful

"CAP" STUBBS—My! What A Temper

By LESLIE FORGRAVE

By SIDNEY SMITH

By PAUL ROBINSON

By WALLY BISHOP

By SWAN

By EDWINA

The Theater

Here's a prosperity note from Hollywood: Hollywood film studios will put $250,000,000 in circulation in 1931 film budgets, some of which is already being spent, a survey of employment in the film capital reveals.

Production chiefs have listed 400, was Mrs. Eddie Sutherland. She has been back in Hollywood only a short time.

This policy of optimism from Hollywood is most encouraging, because of the general belief that when times are hard people sacr-

A contract mix-up sends Rose Hobart back to Broadway from Hollywood, where she'll remain for the season at least. She was brought to Hollywood by Universal and played in several films, including "A Lady Surrenders" and "Liliom." She had a contract for stage appearances in the East, however, and Universal was unable to obtain an adjustment.

It is reported that Robert Montgomery will be starred by Metro in "Anchors Away," a story of the navy, which is being prepared by Belmar Davis, a contract writer. Montgomery is rapidly becoming one of the most sought-after leading men in Hollywood. His performances in "The Divorcee" and other Norma Shearer films led to a flood of fan mail, which is a dependable barometer. He has not attained stardom, but the studio definitely has it in mind for him. He is now playing a lead opposite Greta Garbo.

Twenty Years '10- Ago -'30

The Fisher Meat Market, E. Main St., which has been conducted by Charles E. Fisher, will be in the future be known as Fisher Bros. Mr. Fred Fisher having become a member of the firm.

Freddie Humston received a badly mangled finger when Leo Shaw accidentally pounded it with a hammer.

Mrs. J. J. Lampert is spending several days in Chicago.

LOUISE BROOKS

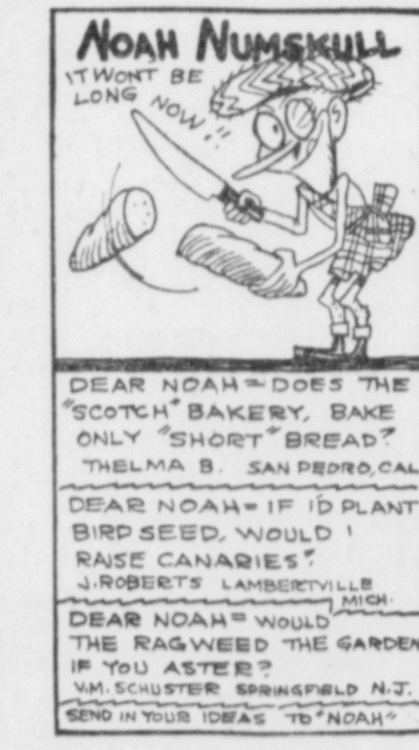

fine amusements and luxuries first, thus aiming a blow at the picture industry. It would appear that from these figures that this "infant industry" has grown to be much of a healthy youngster.

When it is taken into account that the $250,000,000 is the Hollywood expenditure and that the exhibition of these films throughout the country will result in another vast sum for theater owners, managers, operators, ticket sellers and takers, musicians and ushers, it would seem that this note of optimism is not to be sneezed at.

Players whose options are not taken up have a way of finding their way back to the studio to make pictures. Louise Brooks is the latest example. She returns to Paramount to play an important part in William Powell's new picture, "Buy Your Woman." Her last previous role there was in "The Canary Murder Case." She went to New York before this picture was completed and Margaret Livingston had to double for her in long shots. In the old days Louise

The way of a maid with a man is the maid's way.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

Many a boy friend finds out his HONEY hasn't such a SWEET disposition.

BIG SISTER—Bloodhound Buddy

THE GUMPS—Ready To Spring The Trap

ETTA KETT—Not Worried

MUGGS McGINNIS—Rosebud!!

HIGH PRESSURE PETE—Tongue Twisted and Forgetful

"CAP" STUBBS—My! What A Temper

By LESLIE FORGRAVE

By SIDNEY SMITH

By PAUL ROBINSON

By WALLY BISHOP

By SWAN

By EDWINA

CHANGE IN CONTROL OF CONGRESS FIRST HOPE OF DEMOCRATS

(Continued from Page One)

played into their hands, too, for tomorrow's voting comes at a time when the country is on the threshold of a severe winter and highly dissatisfied over the economic situation. Add to this factor the amazing growth of anti-prohibition sentiment since the 1928 election, which is plainly reflected in party platforms and candidatorial flops, and there is created a condition which may easily express itself in terms of political revolt against the party in power.

The most that can happen to-morrow is that the Democrats will win control of both houses of the seventy-second congress.

The least that can happen is that the Democratic successes will be held just short of control.

In either event, it is certain that the Hoover administration faces a tough two years with the seventy-second congress, for the senate will be controlled, as it has been for several years, by a Democratic-Republican-insurgent majority, and the house very likely will be, too.

Most Democratic leaders privately do not want to see their party win control of both branches of congress to-morrow. It would give the party legislative responsibility without the executive responsibility necessary to enactment of a party program.

They would really like to win the house—if for no other reason than the psychological effect it will have. It is axiomatic in American politics that the administration which loses control of congress in mid-term invariably is defeated in the national election two years later. The last instance of this was in 1918, and before that in 1910. The Democrats won control of congress twenty years ago and two years later Wilson was elected. The Republicans won it back in 1918 and followed that success by electing Harding in 1920.

Most of the Democratic gains are expected to come from the middle west, the so-called "border states" and in the populous industrial centers which have been hardest hit by the business depression and its accompanying unemployment.

Hoover swept the border states in 1928, and on the coast-tails of his victory rode into office many Republican congressmen from districts that are normally Democratic. To the normal backswing of the pendulum this year is added the factors of depression and the agricultural regions as well as in the cities and towns whose business is affected by farm purchasing power.

Presidential candidacies thickly sprinkle tomorrow's test.

In New York, there is Franklin D. Roosevelt. If he is to have any chance of becoming the Democratic presidential candidate in 1932 he must be re-elected governor of New York tomorrow and most people in New York believe he will be.

In Maryland, there is Albert C. Ritchie, standing for his fourth term as governor. He has lived politically to see the anti-prohibition views he has steadily expressed for ten years come this year to be incorporated in a number of both Republican and Democratic platforms. He, too, is fairly certain of re-election.

In New Jersey, there is Dwight W. Morrow, Republican candidate for the senate and considered certain of election.

In strife-torn Pennsylvania, there is Gifford Pinchot, running for election as governor again with about half his party bolting his candidacy, and about half the opposition party coming to his standard. If he wins, it is expected he will be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1932, irrespective of whether Mr. Hoover is or is not a candidate.

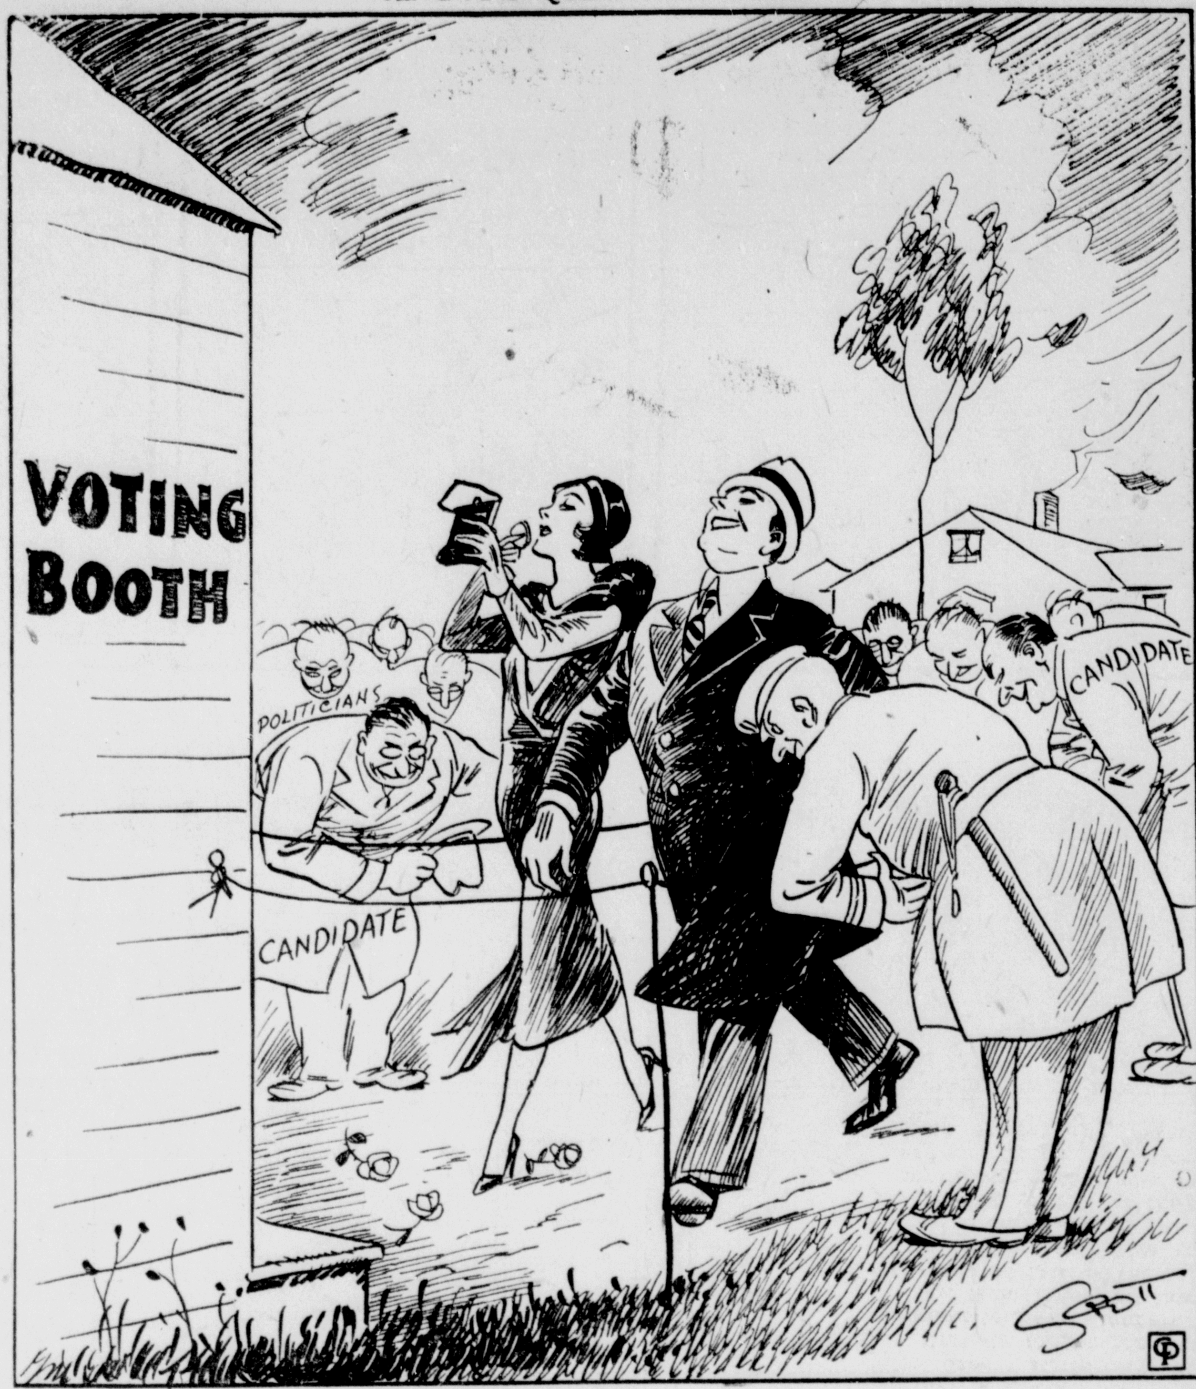

Despite the heat of the campaign and the general unrest that can express itself only at the polls, the leaders do not expect any record voting tomorrow. The vote is always light in off-years, as compared to presidential years, although some contests tomorrow may bring out the voters in record numbers.

The Sporting Duke Salutes Lady Liberty

The Duke of Manchester, known as England's sporting Duke, salutes the Goddess of Liberty as she approaches New York on the S. S. Mauretania, prior to spending a New World holiday. The titled visitor has a wide circle of friends in America, he having married the former Helena Zimmerman, an American heiress, in 1900.

KING AND QUEEN FOR A DAY

SIMEON H. DEACON DIES FROM SUDDEN ILLNESS ON SUNDAY

Simeon H. Deacon, 84, retired master carpenter of the southwest division of the Pennsylvania Railroad and prominent in lodge circles here, died at his home, 672 S. Detroit St., Sunday morning at 8:50 o'clock. Mr. Deacon was stricken suddenly with a heart attack Saturday evening.

Mr. Deacon was born in Trowbridge, England, and came to the United States when he was 21 years old. Before coming to this city forty-seven years ago, he resided in Chicago. He was connected with the Pennsylvania Railroad for thirty-two years, being retired in 1916. Mr. Deacon, who was a member of the Masonic Lodge for fifty-eight years, was the second oldest member of the Xenia fraternal. He was also active in the I. O. O. F. Lodge. He was one of the original committee that helped to frame the charter for the city of Xenia.

His marriage to Miss Mary Smith, Lebanon, took place July 2, 1869. Mrs. Deacon died last July 22. He was a member of Christ Episcopal Church, serving as a vestryman for thirty years. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. E. Swabb and Mrs. Charles Haas, both of this city. Three sisters, Mrs. Ruth Millard, Kingston, N. Y., Mrs. Anna Trollope and Mrs. Emma Meadowcroft, of England, also survive.

Funeral services will be held at the home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be made in Miami Cemetery, Corwin, O. Friends may call at the home any time after 7 p. m. Monday.

MRS. ANNA ZINK IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Anna Zink, 72, widow of Anton Zink of near New Germany, Beaver Creek Twp., died at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, Sunday morning at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Zink was born at Faugenback, Germany, and came to this country when eighteen years of age. Most of her life was spent on a farm near New Germany, where her husband died three years ago.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Christina Zink and Mrs. John Buerschen and seven sons: Aloysius, Carl, Anthony, Otto, Theodore, Frank and Max. Nineteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild, also survive. She was a member of Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Dayton, of the St. Helena Altar Society, the Catholic Ladies of Columbia No. 6 and of Charity Grange.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 8:15 o'clock at the home and at 9 o'clock at Holy Trinity Church, Dayton. Burial will follow in Calvary Cemetery, Dayton.

MT. TABOR

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith and son David, and daughter, Evangeline, and Mr. and Mrs. Evert Saylor, of Dayton, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Smith and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Birch Pierson and daughter Genevieve, of Paintersville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wolary and family.

Mr. Stanley Jones, of Dayton, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Oliver and daughter Reva Lucille, of Dayton, and Mr. and Mrs. Maudy Barnett of near Jamestown, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. D. Forrest Strong.

At the Church—Revival meetings are in progress—services every night this week at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. J. C. Stizel, pastor. Special services on Tuesday and Friday evenings for the young folks Sunday School Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. F. M. Buckwalter, Supt.

Farm Notes

STATE FOREST PARKS ATTRACT TOURISTS

That Ohio's forest parks are drawing the interest of many out-of-state travelers is shown by members of the Ohio Division of Forestry who are in charge of scenic areas.

O. A. Alderman, associate in forestry at the Ohio Experiment Station, reports that the parks in the Hocking Series have been visited this year by tourists from nearly every state, several Canadian Provinces, and the Hawaiian Islands. A count of visitors shows a total attendance to these parks of over 300,000 people.

During the past two years roads have been constructed to two parks by the State Division of Highways under a special law authorizing such work. An effort will be made during the next two years to connect all of the parks, together with the State Forests, to some nearby improved road. Such a program is necessary if these parks which contain some of the most outstanding scenery the State has to offer are to be available to the public throughout the year.

Never before could Old Man's Cave be reached in the winter, a season when the park is certainly not without beauty. With an all-year round leading to this park the beauties of the huge, many colored ice formations, the soft snow on the dark green conifers, and the calm stillness of a winter's day will be enjoyed by thousands for the first time this winter.

Ohio's public lands are all shown on the State Highway map. More detailed information regarding these areas may be had by writing the Division of Forestry, Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster, Ohio.

FALL SPRAYING CONTROLS PEACH LEAF CURD

Spraying to control peach leaf curl may be done in the spring or fall, but fall spraying is recommended by H. C. Young, Chief of the Department of Botany and Plant Pathology at the Ohio Experiment Station, because it can be done most cheaply at that time, and because it is more convenient and less hazardous.

The fungus causing peach leaf curl is well understood and the control measures are simple and easy to apply. The best time to control the disease is after nearly all the leaves have dropped. In northern Ohio, a moderately warm day (45 degrees to 60 degrees F.) during the first two weeks in November, and in southern Ohio, any time during the last two weeks, is the time for spraying. Even good days in December may be suitable.

Any of the standard fungicides may be used. Liquid lime-sulphur, 4 gallons to 50 gallons of water, is the correct strength to use. If scale insects are present the concentration should be 6-14 gallons of the concentrated lime-sulphur to 50 gallons of water. Dry lime-sulphur, which is liquid lime-sulphur dried for convenience in handling, is equally effective. The proportion is 6 to 7 pounds to 50 gallons of water, and 15 pounds to 50 if scale insects are present. A 2-4-50 bordeaux mixture is also effective.

TRIAL OF $50,000 DAMAGE SUIT OPENS

Jury trial of the $50,000 damage suit filed against Richard Jones, 18, Osborn, by Mrs. Eleanor M. Kingsbury, widow and executrix of the estate of Robert H. Kingsbury, 39, widely known Xenia clothing merchant, who was fatally injured in an auto collision at the intersection of the Dayton-Yellow Springs and Fairfield-Xenia roads last March 14, began in Common Pleas Court Monday. The defendant, driver of the machine which collided with the Kingsbury car, is charged in the petition with being negligent and with operating his auto at an excessive speed.

ture may also be used. Bordeaux is especially preferable if insect mites are present, as it is readily combined with oils and one spray will control both the fungus and the mites. The applications for mite control, however, must be made in the spring.

Bulletin 393 of the Ohio Experiment Station contains complete spraying recommendations for mite control, however, must be made in the spring.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

The president of a great chemical company told me last week that he had come to the conclusion that the use of farm land would have to be regulated, before agriculture could be restored to a satisfactory basis of prosperity.

He is deeply interested in that result, because more than half of his company's output consists of fertilizers. He prospers when farming prospers, and the rest of the time has pretty hard sledding.

It is the conclusion of his research department, engaged for years in studying these matters, that complete prosperity is not possible as long as any old land, no matter how poor, can be farmed by anybody.

Of course there is nothing new about that idea. All students of agriculture realize that over-production can be cured, if at all, only by acreage restriction. And most students also realize that acreage restriction is going on all the time, by the simple process of bankrupting every farmer who tries to farm land that is too poor to support him.

But that is another story. What this fertilized manufacturer wants to do, first, is to get the federal government to make a general survey of all farm lands, so that we will know what is good, or bad, or impossible. Then, with this knowledge, we could start on the real job of getting enough of the poor land out of use, so that what is left will feed and clothe the nation and make money for the man who farms it.

The easiest thing about that, I should say, was getting congress to authorize the land survey and appropriate money for it. Congress shovels out dollars by the million for projects not one-tenth as important, all the time.

But when we have the facts about the land, and are up against the problem of getting farmers to stop farming 10 or 20 per cent of it, then the real trouble will begin.

The most promising idea I have come across is that we might use the taxing power of states and counties. It might be possible to classify the land, and to exempt from taxes the poor land that is not to be farmed, as long as it is not cultivated or pastured.

In other words, the farm owner is fined once a year, through the tax collector, if he persists in cultivating land that is classified as too poor, and rewarded by having this land exempt from tax, if he leaves it idle.

What would become of the idle land? Some of it might go back to tress with advantage. It would shelter our decreasing wild life. It would tend to help our flood and drought troubles. It would be a reserve that could be drawn upon later, when our good lands begin to lag behind the demands of the population. It would be gaining value all the time, instead of losing it. We need not worry about idle land.

Of course the plan might not work. It might lead to all kinds of complications and injustice. It might almost depopulate many sections of the country, and nobody would like that. Just the same, it is an interesting idea and I think we shall hear a lot more of it in the future.

Star Gazing

By RADIE HARRIS

ARTHUR LAKE

His parents christened him Arthur Silverlake. But Booth Tarkington called him "Willie Baxter."

Put Corbin, Kentucky, on the map, April 7. The year doesn't matter. He'll be the same age fifty years from now.

Made his first professional appearance in a stock company in Atlanta, Ga. Was carried on and carried off all the honors.

At age of nine, appeared in "Jack and The Beanstalk" and "Aladdin's Lamp" for Fox Films.

Was a "hero" to all the other kids because he knew how to put on make-up. Rarely uses it now.

Joined a vaudeville act with his mother and sister, Florence. Known as "The 3 Silverlakes." Adored it because he was allowed the candy privilege during intermission. Always removed the prizes from the prize packages and distributed them among his friends.

Played one night stands in a tent show. And lived on the train. One night the car burned, completely destroying all the baggage—including his prize possession, a pair of old boots. Claims he could have given a beautiful performance of the "Melancholy Dane" that night.

When his sister suggested returning to Hollywood, it didn't meet with his approval at all. He had just been introduced to his first pair of long pants. And had been promised "grown" parts.

Didn't think he would have a chance in pictures so got a job in a dye work factory. Dyed thirty men's suits a bright red. And was promptly fired.

Because his sister, Florence, had undoubted faith in him, she carried his pictures to every casting agency in Hollywood. Her optimism was rewarded when Universal signed him under a five year contract for a series of "Sweet Sixteen" comedies.

Started at $75 and finished at $500. Bought his mother a purse with his first salary check. Recently presented her with a Cadillac sedan.

Doesn't boast about the two restaurants he once owned. Both died from "undernourishment." Which explains why he is sticking exclusively to acting now. Banks all his money and only draws a weekly allowance.

Likes aquaplaning, negro spirituals, surf boat riding. Amos 'n' Andy, hot biscuits, eating on dining cars, the Rhythm Boys, fried chicken, the "uke," A. S. M. Hutchinson, slow syncopation, ransacking the ice-chest before he goes to bed and women of the Dorothy Mackall type.

Hates cauliflower, miniature golf, writing letters, eating crackers in bed, tennis, being asked about his "love life," getting up in the morning and going to bed at night.

Doesn't own any pets. His fox terrier, "Bummer," his pal for twelve years, died when he was away on his first visit to New York. Cried for days afterward. Still does when he talks about him.

Four years ago, thought his millennium would be attained if he could ever own a "Dusenbergs" like William Randolph Hearst's son, Jack. A few months ago bought it from him.

Would like to meet John Barrymore and Helen Morgan.

Aviation Speed King To Tell Of Flying On Radio

To aviation enthusiasts comes the news that Capt. Frank M. Hawks, speed king of the air, is to face the microphone in the near future exclusively over networks of the National Broadcasting Company. Although assuming his new radio duties Capt. Hawks will still retain his position as superintendent of the aviation division of the Texas Co.

The time for Capt. Hawks' first appearance on the air has not been announced but at various times he will talk on outstanding aviation events. Miss Elinor Smith, holder of the women's altitude record, may appear at times on the same program.

Special Music On Air
"The Model Church," a musical reading presented by Dad Pickard, "My Blue Ridge Mountain Home" and "The Girl I Left in Sunny Tennessee" will be features of the Billiken Pickards program coming through WSAI, Cincinnati, Tuesday evening from 6:45 to 7 o'clock, C. S. T.

Shouse To Speak
Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee, will deliver one of the last political speeches to be heard on the air before election day, Monday evening at 10:30 o'clock over the NBC network. Chairman Shouse will talk from Washington and will give a final summary of political conditions before the congressional elections.

REQUESTS DIVORCE; OTHER COURT NEWS

In a suit filed in Common Pleas Court William Davis seeks a divorce from Betty Davis on grounds of gross neglect of duty and asks that the defendant be barred of dower interest in property which he is buying on the installment plan. The defendant, he charges, has refused to help him and hinders his payments. They were married in Xenia February 15, 1927.

ALLOWED SUM

In the case of James F. Osburn against Alberta May Osburn in Common Pleas Court, on motion of the defendant, she has been allowed $12 a month for her temporary maintenance during pendency of the action.

DISMISS CROSS PETITION

Demurrer of the plaintiff to the defendant's cross-petition has been sustained by the court in the case of Eleanor M. Kingsbury, as executrix of the estate of Robert H. Kingsbury, deceased, against Richard Jones in Common Pleas Court. The cross-petition was ordered dismissed and the defendant was instructed to refile a separate answer.

JUDGE APPOINTED

Judge S. C. Wright of Cedarville, has received notice of his appointment as vice moderator of Dayton Presbytery by the Rev. Guy Cheek of New Germany, the moderator. The appointment is for a six months period. Judge Wright is new president of the Ruling Elders' Association of Dayton Presbytery.

Resinol for Facial Blemishes Pimples Blackheads Rashes Chapping Roughness

The SOAP to cleanse, the OINTMENT to clear away the disorder. Sample each free. Resinol, Dept. 28, Balto., Md.

CAPT. FRANK HAWKS

ning at 10:30 o'clock over the NBC network. Chairman Shouse will talk from Washington and will give a final summary of political conditions before the congressional elections.

Barbers To Sing

The Singing Shaver and the Barber Shop Trio will be heard Monday evening from 8:30 to 9 o'clock on the Ingram Shavers' program, over WLW. Instead of singing that old barber shop number, "Sweet Adeline," the program will consist of modern popular tunes.

Complete Election Plans

Final arrangements for the broadcast of election returns Tuesday evening have been made and as an additional feature on the NBC's election program David Lawrence and William Hard, nationally known political writers, will interpret the late election results for the national network audiences. The Gazette will present these national and state broadcasts on its public address system for the benefit of street crowds, interrupting occasionally to give local results.

COP CURBS COUGH

Gets quick relief thru Triple Action

J. V. Ahlquist

first swallow—I began to get better. The soreness in my head, nose and throat disappeared—and very soon I stopped coughing altogether. Smith Brothers' is great stuff for coughs and colds all right!" J. V. Ahlquist, Rockford, Ill.

ORPHIUM

Tonight And Tuesday. Matinee 2:15
RICHARD DIX
Screen's He-Man Star In His Greatest
Action Show In
"SHOOTING STRAIGHT"
Also Short Talking Subjects
Police Benefit Show

Wednesday and Thursday
"RECAPTURED LOVE"

PUBLIC SALE

Wednesday, Nov. 5th, 12 O'clock
Having decided to quit farming, I will sell at public auction, at my farm on the Paintersville and Port William Pike, 2 1/2 miles south of Paintersville and 1 1/2 mile north of Port William—the following property:

3—HORSES—3
One bay gelding, 4 years old, sound, extra good worker, weighs 1550. One sorrel gelding, 7 years old, extra good worker, weighs 1600. One bay gelding, 12 years old, sound, good farm horse, weighs 1200.

10—HEAD OF CATTLE—10
Consists of one Guernsey cow, 6 years old, with calf by side. Extra heavy milker. One Holstein cow, 6 years old, with calf by side. Good milker. One Jersey cow, 6 years old, will freshen by day of sale, extra good. One Jersey cow, 4 years old, will freshen Jan. 18th, giving good flow of milk. One roan heifer, first calf by side, giving good flow of milk, extra good. One Jersey cow, 6 years old, will freshen in April, giving good flow of milk, a good one. One Jersey cow, 8 years old, giving good flow of milk, will freshen in May. Two yearling Jersey heifers out of real cows, not bred.

HOGS
20 fall shoats, weighing about 50 lbs.
100 White Leghorns, English strains.

FARMING IMPLEMENTS
One Brown wagon with flat top and gravel bed. Manure spreader. International 2 row corn plow. Deering mower. Oliver gang plow. Gale sulkey plow. Walking plow. McCormick double disc. Avery corn planter. Supreme wheat drill. Roller. 4 horse drag, harrow, steel hay rake, sled, double trees and many other articles too numerous to mention. Double hog box, 6x12, 5A hog boxes with bottoms, pitch forks, shovels, post digger, 100 gal. hog fountain, Troughs.

HARNESS
Set of brass mounted breeding harness complete. Set of hip strap harness, like new. Two sides of chain harness collars, bridle, lines. Set of leather fly nets like new.

FEED
3 tons of soy bean hay; ton of oats hay. Corn in crib, fodder.

MISCELLANEOUS
One DeLaval cream separator. Milk cans—4 ten gal. and 1 five gal. One Range Eternal cook stove, like new. One Radiant home heating stove. One 8x10 brooder house, on runners. Radio flame oil brooder stove, 500 chick size. One Buckeye incubator, 185 egg size. One Bell City incubator, 150 egg size. One thermos poultry fountain, 5 gal. size. Poultry self feeder.

Terms Made Known Day Of Sale.
E. M. ELLIS
Lunch by Paintersville Ladies Aid.

Mort Ewbanks, Clerk. Carl Taylor, Auctioneer.

CHANGE IN CONTROL OF CONGRESS FIRST HOPE OF DEMOCRATS

(Continued from Page One)

played into their hands, too, for tomorrow's voting comes at a time when the country is on the threshold of a severe winter and highly dissatisfied over the economic situation. Add to this factor the amazing growth of anti-prohibition sentiment since the 1928 election, which is plainly reflected in party platforms and candidatorial flops, and there is created a condition which may easily express itself in terms of political revolt against the party in power.

The most that can happen tomorrow is that the Democrats will win control of both houses of the seventy-second congress.

The least that can happen is that the Democratic successes will be held just short of control. In either event, it is certain that the Hoover administration faces a tough two years with the seventy-second congress, for the senate will be controlled, as it has been for several years, by a Democratic-Republican-insurgent majority, and the house very likely will be too.

Most Democratic leaders privately do not want to see their party win control of both branches of congress tomorrow. It would give the party legislative responsibility without the executive responsibility necessary to enactment of a party program.

They would really like to win the house—if for no other reason than the psychological effect it will have. It is axiomatic in American politics that the administration which loses control of congress in mid-term invariably is defeated in the national election two years later. The last instance of this was in 1918, and before that in 1910. The Democrats won control of congress twenty years ago and two years later Wilson was elected. The Republicans won it back in 1918 and followed that success by electing Harding in 1920.

Most of the Democratic gains are expected to come from the middle west—the so-called "border states"—and in the populous industrial centers which have been hardest hit by the business depression and its accompanying unemployment.

Hoover swept the border states in 1928, and on the coast-tails of his victory rode into office many Republican congressmen from districts that are normally Democratic. To the normal backswing of the pendulum this year is added the factors of depression and the agricultural regions as well as in the cities and towns whose business is affected by farm purchasing power.

Presidential candidacies thickly sprinkle tomorrow's test.

In New York, there is Franklin D. Roosevelt. If he is to have any chance of becoming the Democratic presidential candidate in 1932 he must be re-elected governor of New York tomorrow and most people in New York believe he will be.

In Maryland, there is Albert C. Ritchie, standing for his fourth term as governor. He has been politically to see the anti-prohibition views he has steadily expressed for ten years come this year to be incorporated in a number of both Republican and Democratic platforms. He, too, is fairly certain of re-election.

In New Jersey, there is Dwight W. Morrow, Republican candidate for the senate and considered certain of election.

In strife-torn Pennsylvania, there is Gifford Pinchot, running for election as governor again with about half his party bolting his candidacy, and about half the opposition party coming to his standard. If he wins, it is expected he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination in 1932, irrespective of whether Mr. Hoover is or is not a candidate.

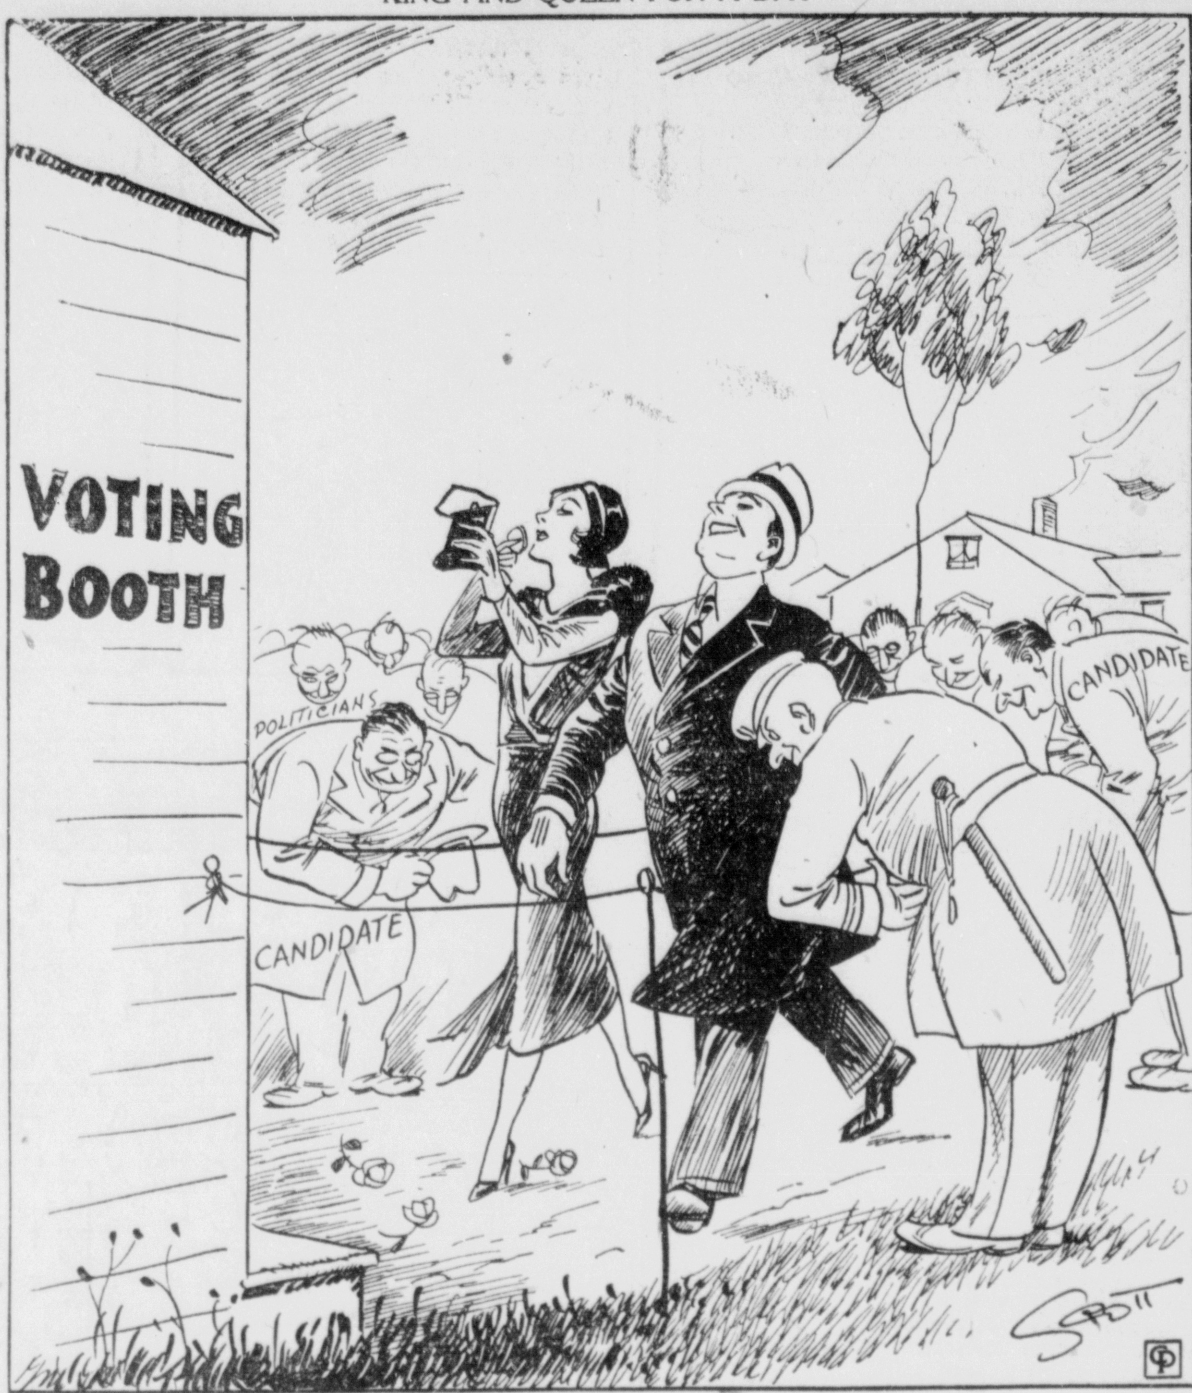

Despite the heat of the campaign and the general unrest that can express itself only at the polls, the leaders do not expect any record voting tomorrow. The vote is always light in off-years, as compared to presidential years, although some contests tomorrow may bring out the voters in record numbers.

The Sporting Duke Salutes Lady Liberty

The Duke of Manchester, known as England's sporting Duke, salutes the Goddess of Liberty as he approaches New York on the S. S. Majestic, prior to spending a New World holiday. The titled visitor has a wide circle of friends in America, he having married the former Helena Zimmerman, an American heiress, in 1900.

KING AND QUEEN FOR A DAY

SIMEON H. DEACON DIES FROM SUDDEN ILLNESS ON SUNDAY

Simeon H. Deacon, 84, retired master carpenter of the southwest division of the Pennsylvania Railroad and prominent in lodge circles here, died at his home, 672 S. Detroit St., Sunday morning at 8:50 o'clock. Mr. Deacon was stricken suddenly with a heart attack Saturday evening.

Mr. Deacon was born in Trowbridge, England, and came to the United States when he was 21 years old. Before coming to this city forty-seven years ago, he resided in Chicago. He was connected with the Pennsylvania Railroad for thirty-two years, being retired in 1916. Mr. Deacon, who was a member of the Masonic Lodge for fifty-eight years, was the second oldest member of the Xenia fraternity. He was also active in the I. O. O. F. Lodge. He was one of the original committee that helped to frame the charter for the city of Xenia.

His marriage to Miss Mary Smith, Lebanon, took place July 2, 1869. Mrs. Deacon died last July 22. He was a member of Christ Episcopal Church, serving as a vestryman for thirty years. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. W. E. Swabb and Mrs. Charles Haas, both of this city. Three sisters, Mrs. Ruth Millard, Kingston, N. Y., Mrs. Anna Trollope and Mrs. Emma Meadowcroft, of England, also survive.

Funeral services will be held at the home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be made in Miami Cemetery, Corwin, O. Friends may call at the home any time after 7 p. m. Monday.

MRS. ANNA ZINK IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Anna Zink, 72, widow of Anton Zink of near New Germany, Beaver Creek Twp., died at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, Sunday morning at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Zink was born at Faugenberg, Germany, and came to this country when eighteen years of age. Most of her life was spent on a farm near New Germany, where her husband died three years ago.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Christina Zink and Mrs. John Burschen and seven sons: Aloysius, Carl, Anthony, Otto, Theodore, Frank and Max. Nineteen grandchildren and one great grandchild, also survive. She was a member of Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Dayton, of the St. Helena Altar Society, the Catholic Ladies of Columbia No. 6 and of Charly Grange.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 8:15 o'clock at the home and at 9 o'clock at Holy Trinity Church, Dayton. Burial will follow in Calvary Cemetery, Dayton.

MT. TABOR

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith and son David, and daughter, Evan-geline, and Mr. and Mrs. Evert Saylor, of Dayton, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Smith and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Birch Pierson and daughter Genevieve, of Paintersville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wolay and family.

Mr. Stanley Jones, of Dayton, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Oliver and daughter, Reva Lucille, of Dayton, and Mr. and Mrs. Maudy Barnett of near Jamestown, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. D. Forrest Strong.

Farm Notes

STATE FOREST PARKS ATTRACT TOURISTS

That Ohio's forest parks are drawing the interest of many out-of-state travelers is shown by members of the Ohio Division of Forestry who are in charge of scenic areas.

O. A. Alderman, associate in forestry at the Ohio Experiment Station, reports that the parks in the Hocking Series have been visited this year by tourists from nearly every state, several Canadian Provinces, and the Hawaiian Islands. A count of visitors shows a total attendance to these parks of over 300,000 people.

During the past two years roads have been constructed to two parks by the State Division of Highways under a special law authorizing such work. An effort will be made during the next two years to connect all of the parks, together with the State Forests, to some nearby improved road. Such a program is necessary if these parks which contain some of the most outstanding scenery the State has to offer are to be available to the public throughout the year.

Never before could Old Man's Cave be reached in the winter, a season when the park is certainly not without beauty. With an all-year round leading to this park the beauties of the huge, many-colored ice formations, the soft snow on the dark green conifers, and the calm stillness of a winter's day will be enjoyed by thousands for the first time this winter.

Ohio's public lands are all shown on the State Highway map. More detailed information regarding these areas may be had by writing the Division of Forestry, Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster, Ohio.

FALL SPRAYING CONTROLS PEACH LEAF CURL

Spraying to control peach leaf curl may be done in the spring or fall, but fall spraying is recommended by H. C. Young, Chief of the Department of Botany and Plant Pathology at the Ohio Experiment Station, because it can be done most cheaply at that time, and because it is more convenient and less hazardous.

The fungus causing peach leaf curl is well understood and the control measures are simple and easy to apply. The best time to control the disease is after nearly all the leaves have dropped. In northern Ohio, any moderately warm day (45 degrees to 60 degrees F.) during the first two weeks in November, and in southern Ohio, any time during the last two weeks, is the time for spraying. Even good days in December may be suitable.

Any of the standard fungicides may be used. Liquid lime-sulphur, 4 gallons to 50 gallons of water, is the correct strength to use. If scale insects are present the concentration should be 1-4 gallons of the concentrated lime-sulphur to 50 gallons of water. Dry lime-sulphur, which is liquid lime-sulphur dried for convenience in handling, is equally effective. The proportion is 6 to 7 pounds to 50 gallons of water, and 15 pounds to 50 if scale insects are present. A 2-4-50 bordeaux mixture may also be used. Bordeaux is especially preferable if insect mites are present, as it is readily combined with oils and one spray will control both the fungus and the mites. The applications for mite control, however, must be made in the spring.

TRIAL OF $50,000 DAMAGE SUIT OPENS

Jury trial of the $50,000 damage suit filed against Richard Jones, 18, Osborn, by Mrs. Eleanor M. Kingsbury, widow and executrix of the estate of Robert H. Kingsbury, 39, widely known Xenia clothing merchant, who was fatally injured in an auto collision at the intersection of the Dayton-Yellow Springs and Fairfield-Xenia roads last March 14, began in Common Pleas Court Monday. The defendant, driver of the machine which collided with the Kingsbury car, is charged in the petition with being negligent and with operating his auto at an excessive speed.

Bulletin 393 of the Ohio Experiment Station contains complete spraying recommendations for fruits and should be in the hands of every fruit grower.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

The president of a great chemical company told me last week that he had come to the conclusion that the use of farm land would have to be regulated, before agriculture could be restored to a satisfactory basis of prosperity.

He is deeply interested in that result, because more than half of his company's output consists of fertilizers. He prospers when farming prospers, and the rest of the time has pretty hard sledding. It is the conclusion of his research department, engaged for years in studying these matters, that complete prosperity is not possible as long as any old land, no matter how poor, can be farmed by anybody.

Of course there is nothing new about that idea. All students of agriculture realize that over-production can be cured, if at all, only by acreage restriction. And most students also realize that acreage restriction is going on all the time, by the simple process of bankrupting every farmer who tries to farm land that is too poor to support him.

But that is another story. What this fertilized manufacturer wants to do, first, is to get the federal government to make a general survey of all farm lands, so that we will know what is good, or bad, or impossible. Then, with this knowledge, we could start on the real job of getting enough of the poor land out of use, so that what is left will feed and clothe the nation and make money for the man who farms it.

The easiest thing about that, I should say, was getting congress to authorize the land survey and appropriate money for it. Congress shovels out dollars by the million for projects not one-tenth as important, all the time.

But when we have the facts about the land, and are up against the problem of getting farmers to stop farming 10 or 20 per cent of it, then the real trouble will begin.

The most promising idea I have come across is that we might use the taxing power of states and counties. It might be possible to classify the land, and to exempt from taxes the poor land that is not to be farmed, as long as it is not cultivated or pastured.

In other words, the farm owner is fined once a year, through the tax collector, if he persists in cultivating land that is classified as too poor, and rewarded by having this land exempt from tax, if he leaves it idle.

What would become of the idle land? Some of it might go back to trees with advantage. It would shelter our decreasing wild life. It would tend to help our flood and drought troubles. It would be a reserve that could be drawn upon later, when our good lands begin to lag behind the demands of the population. It would be gaining value all the time, instead of losing it. We need not worry about idle land.

Of course the plan might not work. It might lead to all kinds of complications and injustices. It might almost depopulate many sections of the country, and nobody would like that. Just the same, it is an interesting idea and I think we shall hear a lot more of it in the future.

Star Gazing

His parents christened him Arthur Silverlake. But Booth Tarkington called him "Willie Baxter." Put Corbin, Kentucky, on the map, April 7. The year doesn't matter. He'll be the same age fifty years from now.

Made his first professional appearance in a stock company in Atlanta, Ga. Was carried on and carried off all the honors.

At age of nine, appeared in "Jack and the Beanstalk" and "Aladdin's Lamp" for Fox Films. Was a "hero" to all the other kids because he knew how to put on make-up. Rarely uses it now.

Joined a vaudeville act with his mother and sister, Florence. Known as "The 3 Silverlakes." Adored it because he was allowed the candy privilege during intermission. Always removed the prizes from the prize packages and distributed them among his friends.

Played one night stands in a tent show. And lived on the train. One night the car burned, completely destroying all the baggage including his prize possession—a pair of old boots. Claims he could have given a beautiful performance of the "Melancholy Dane" that night.

When his sister suggested returning to Hollywood, it didn't meet with his approval at all. He had just been introduced to his first pair of long pants. And had been promised "grown" parts.

Didn't think he would have a chance in pictures so got a job in a dye work factory. Dyes thirty men's suits a bright red. And was promptly fired.

Because his sister, Florence, had undaunted faith in him, she carried his pictures to every casting agency in Hollywood. Her optimism was rewarded when Universal signed him under a five year contract for a series of "Sweet Sixteen" comedies.

Started at $75 and finished at $500. Bought his mother a purse with his first salary check. Recently presented her with a Cadillac sedan.

Doesn't boast about the two restaurants he once owned. Both died from "undernourishment." Which explains why he is sticking exclusively to acting now. Banks all his money and only draws a weekly allowance.

Likes aquaplaning, negro spirituals, surf boat riding. Amos 'n' Andy, hot biscuits, eating on dining cars, the Rhythm Boys, fried chicken, the "uke," A. S. M. Hutchinson, slow syncopation, ransacking the ice-chest before he goes to bed and women of the Dorothy Mackall type.

Hates cauliflower, miniature golf, writing letters, eating crackers in bed, tennis, being asked about his "love life," getting up in the morning and going to bed at night. Doesn't own any pets. His fox terrier, "Bummer," his pal for twelve years, died when he was away on his first visit to New York. Cried for days afterward. Still does when he talks about him.

Four years ago, thought his millennium would be attained if he could ever own a "Dusenbergs" like William Randolph Hearst's son, Jack. A few months ago bought it from him.

Would like to meet John Barrymore and Helen Morgan.

Aviation Speed King To Tell Of Flying On Radio

TO aviation enthusiasts comes the news that Captain Frank M. Hawks, speed king of the air, is to face the microphone in the near future exclusively over networks of the National Broadcasting Company. Although assuming his new radio duties Capt. Hawks will still retain his position as superintendent of the aviation division of the Texas Co.

The time for Capt. Hawks' first appearance on the air has not been announced but at various times he will talk on outstanding aviation events. Miss Elinor Smith, holder of the women's altitude record, may appear at times on the same program.

Special Music On Air
"The Model Church," a musical reading presented by Dad Pickard, "My Blue Ridge Mountain Home" and "The Girl I Left in Sunny Tennessee" will be features of the Billiken Pickards program coming through WSAI, Cincinnati, Tuesday evening from 6:45 to 7 o'clock, C. S. T.

Shouse To Speak
Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee, will deliver one of the last political speeches to be heard on the air before election day, Monday evening at 10:30 o'clock over the NBC network. Chairman Shouse will talk from Washington and will give a final summary of political conditions before the congressional elections.

REQUESTS DIVORCE; OTHER COURT NEWS

In a suit filed in Common Pleas Court William Davis seeks a divorce from Betty Davis on grounds of gross neglect of duty and asks that the defendant be barred of dower interest in property which he is buying on the installment plan. The defendant, he charges, has refused to help him and hinders his payments. They were married in Xenia February 15, 1927.

ALLOWED SUM
In the case of James F. Osburn against Alberta May Osburn in Common Pleas Court, on motion of the defendant, she has been allowed $12 a month for her temporary maintenance during pendency of the action.

DISMISS CROSS PETITION
Demurrer of the plaintiff to the defendant's cross-petition has been sustained by the court in the case of Eleanor M. Kingsbury, as executrix of the estate of Robert H. Kingsbury, deceased, against Richard Jones in Common Pleas Court. The cross-petition was ordered dismissed and the defendant was instructed to refile a separate answer.

JUDGE APPOINTED

Judge S. C. Wright of Cedarville, has received notice of his appointment as vice moderator of Dayton Presbytery by the Rev. Guy Cheek of New Germany, the moderator. The appointment is for a six months period. Judge Wright is new president of the Ruling Elders' Association of Dayton Presbytery.

Resinol for Facial Blemishes

Pimples
Blackheads
Rashes
Chapping
Roughness

The SOAP to cleanse, the OINTMENT to clear away the disorder.

Sample each free. Resinol, Dept. 28, Balto., Md.

CAPT. FRANK HAWKS

ning at 10:30 o'clock over the NBC network. Chairman Shouse will talk from Washington and will give a final summary of political conditions before the congressional elections.

Barbers To Sing

The Singing Shaver and the Barber Shop Trio will be heard Monday evening from 8:30 to 9 o'clock on the Ingram Shavers' program, over WLW. Instead of singing that old barber shop number, "Sweet Adeline," the program will consist of modern popular tunes.

Complete Election Plans

Final arrangements for the broadcast of election returns Tuesday evening have been made and as an additional feature on the NBC's election program David Lawrence and William Hard, nationally known political writers, will interpret the late election results for the national network audiences. The Gazette will present these national and state broadcasts on its public address system for the benefit of street crowds, interrupting occasionally to give local results.

COP CURBS COUGH

Gets quick relief thru Triple Action

J. V. Ahlquist
first swallow—I began to get better. The soreness in my head, nose and throat disappeared—and very soon I stopped coughing altogether. Smith Brothers' is great stuff for coughs and colds all right!" J. V. Ahlquist, Rockford, Ill.

ORPHIUM

Tonight And Tuesday. Matinee 2:15
RICHARD DIX
Screen's He-Man Star In His Greatest
Action Show In
"SHOOTING STRAIGHT"
Also Short Talking Subjects
Police Benefit Show

Wednesday and Thursday
"RECAPTURED LOVE"

PUBLIC SALE

Wednesday, Nov. 5th, 12 O'clock
Having decided to quit farming, I will sell at public auction, at my farm on the Paintersville and Port William Pike, 2 1/2 miles south of Paintersville and 1 1/2 mile north of Port William—the following property:

3—HORSES—3
One bay gelding, 4 years old, sound, extra good worker, weighs 1550. One sorrel gelding, 7 years old, extra good worker, weighs 1600. One bay gelding, 12 years old, sound, good farm horse, weighs 1200.
10—HEAD OF CATTLE—10
Consists of one Guernsey cow, 6 years old, with calf by side. Extra heavy milker. One Holstein cow, 6 years old, with calf by side. Good milker. One Jersey cow, 6 years old, will freshen by day of sale, extra good. One Jersey cow, 4 years old, will freshen Jan. 15th, giving good flow of milk. One roan heifer, first calf by side, giving good flow of milk, extra good. One Jersey cow, 6 years old, will freshen in April, giving good flow of milk, a good one. One Jersey cow, 3 years old, giving good flow of milk, will freshen in May. Two yearling Jersey heifers out of real cows, not bred.

HOGS

20 fall shoats, weighing about 50 lbs.
100 White Leghorns, English strains.

FARMING IMPLEMENTS

One Brown wagon with flat top and gravel bed. Manure spreader. International 2 row corn plow. Deering mower. Oliver gang plow. Gale sulkey plow. Walking plow. McCormick double disc, extra good. One planter. Supreme wheel drill. Roller. 4 horse drag, harrow, steel bay rake, sled, double trees and many other articles too numerous to mention. Double hog box, 6x12, 5A hog boxes with bottoms, pitch forks, shovels, post digger, 100 gal. hog fountain. Troughs.

HARNESS

Set of brass mounted breeding harness complete. Set of hip strap harness, like new. Two sides of chain harness collars, bridles, lines. Set of leather fly nets like new.

FEED

3 tons of soy bean hay; ton of oats hay. Corn in crib, fodder.

MISCELLANEOUS

One DeLaval cream separator. Milk cans—4 ten gal. and 1 five gal. One Range Eternal cook stove, like new. One Radiant home heating stove. One 8x10 brooder house, on runners. Radio flame oil brooder stove. 500 chick size. One egg incubator, 135 egg size. One Bell City incubator, 150 egg size. One thermos poultry fountain, 5 gal. size. Poultry self feeder.

Terms Made Known Day Of Sale.

Lunch by Paintersville Ladies Aid.

E. M. ELLIS

Mort Ewbanks, Clerk. Carl Taylor, Auctioneer.